CLUE IN SIGEL MURDER IN HARLEM LAUNDRY

Police Search a Place in 126th Street and Take Away Several Bundles.

LING'S TRUNK TAKEN THERE

Expressman Tells of Carrying It from the Eighth Avenue Room—Statement by McCafferty.

The police late last night received a new clue in the case of Elsie Sigel, the girl missionary who was murdered in the rooms of Leon Ling, at 782 Eighth Avenue.

A man who said he was an expressman called at the West Forty-seventh Street Station about midnight last night and told the Lieutenant at the desk that on June 9 he had taken a trunk from the building at 782 Eighth Avenue to a Chinese laundry in West 126th Street. The man said he did not remember the number of the laundry. Detective Foster of the West Forty-seventh Street Station was sent out with the man to investigate his story.

It was learned, however, that yesterday afternoon three Central Office detectives visited the laundry of Man Lee, at 370 West 126th Street, and searched his place. They carried away with them several bundles tied up in newspaper, and when they departed closed the laundry, putting a police padlock on the door. The proprietor was not visible during these proceedings.

After a conference at Police Headquarters late yesterday between Commissioner Bingham, Deputy Commissioner Woods, and Inspector McCafferty, the head of the Detective Bureau, ten detectives were sent to Paterson, Passaic, Hackensack, and other towns in New Jersey, on a clue that, it was hoped, might lead to the capture of Leon Ling.

The conference followed information that Ling had been seen in one of the Jersey towns within a day or so. The police, it was understood, were told that he had found refuge with a Chinaman of his acquaintance.

McCafferty Sure of Getting Ling.

After the detectives had started for New Jersey, Inspector McCafferty gave out an authorized interview in which he expressed the opinion that Leon Ling was alive and would be caught. It was the first time since his detectives began working on the case that the Inspector had committed himself to that extent.

Not only did Inspector McCafferty say that he was sure Leon Ling was alive, but he went into details in presenting the theory upon which the police are now working, as to the movements of Ling immediately after the murder. He also discredited a tale exploited yesterday that a suitcase filled with the missing clothes of Elsie Sigel was left with a Chinese laundryman in Harlem the afternoon of the murder. His detectives had investigated that rumor, the Inspector said, and could find no basis for it. He also made it clear that Chong Sing, roommate of Leon Ling, has not cleared himself of suspicion in connection with the murder.

Inspector McCafferty, in telling the extent of the police work, said that fifty detectives from Headquarters had been searching through various cities of the East for trace of Leon Ling since the night of June 18, when Elsie Sigel's body was found in the trunk in Ling's den. Besides these detectives, the police investigation has been aided by the authorities of every city in the country.

"If Leon Ling is still in this country," said Inspector McCafferty, "there can be no escape for him. The moment he tries to leave the country, if he has not already done so, he will be caught. Of that I am sure. I am inclined to believe he has not fled to another country, and I am sure he is alive.

"The only vessel on which Leon could have escaped, for we have investigated every possible chance of his getting away on steamers, was one that will reach Yokohama on July 3. When it touches at that port the steamer will be searched, and if Leon Ling is on it he will be arrested. We are satisfied that he did not take passage on any other steamer. If it turns out that he is not on that one, then we will be sure, in the event that he is not captured in the meantime, that he is hiding somewhere in this country.

Not Seeking Other Suspects.

"There has been some talk about accomplices of Leon Ling for whom the police are supposed to be searching," continued the Inspector. "We are not looking for any one but Leon Ling. We believe that he committed the murder. There is no evidence that he had an accomplice, unless it was Chong Sing, and he is safely behind the bars. No one is under suspicion outside of these two."

"Will you say what evidence, if any, you have to show Chong Sing's complicity in the murder?" was asked.

"I cannot go into that at this time," replied the Inspector.

Mr. McCafferty went on to say that he was certain that Leon Ling was the person who sent the telegram from Washington in the night of June 9 to Elsie Sigel's father telling him not to worry. For Ling to have done this, the Inspector admitted, it was necessary for the fugitive Chinaman to move rapidly after the murder, but he believed Ling was cunning enough to have calculated his time so as to crowd in all that he appears to have done.

"The known facts in the case, so far as our investigation goes, are these," said the Inspector in accounting for Leon Ling's movements "Elsie Sigel was killed between 10 and 12:30 o'clock, at 782 Eighth Avenue, on June 9. Leon Ling without any doubt was the murderer, possibly aided by Chong Sing.

"Immediately after the murder, Leon Ling, leaving the girl's body in the trunk in his room, hurried to Washington. He prepared the telegram which was later in the night sent to Paul Sigel, the girl's father, then hurried back to this city in time to take the trunk to Newark. How Ling got the trunk there we are not as yet certain, but it is established that he reached the restaurant of Li Sing, in Newark, with it between 1 and 2 o'clock the morning of June 10.

"Ling returned to Li Sing's restaurant about 2 o'clock that afternoon with a cab, driven by James Halstead, and got the trunk. It was then brought back to the Eighth Avenue house, Ling helping to carry it to his room. From this point we have no trace of Leon Ling. Where he went after leaving his victim's body in his room we have been unable to

SUBWAY FLOOD AND TIE-UP.

Rain and a Switchman's Error Mix Up Schedule on Upper Broadway Line.

A flood, which caused a fuse to blow out, the derailment of two cars through a mistake by a switchman, and a man run over and killed, constituted a chapter of accidents last evening on the Broadway line of the Subway, each of which caused more or less provoking delays. The most serious, from the latter point of view, was the derailment which tied up north and south bound traffic between Dyckman Street and the Ship Canal Bridge at 225th Street from 7 o'clock until 10:15 P. M.

The trouble began shortly before 5 o'clock, when the homeward rush had just started. The heavy rainstorm, which seemed to spend its force over Washington Heights, was responsible for the flooding of the 157th Street Subway Station, which lies in a hollow. The water poured down the stairways until the tracks were covered a foot deep.

At 4:50 a northbound train, heavily laden, was pulling into the station when a fuse blew out, causing a short circuit. There was a flash, a lot of smoke, and the lights went out.

The front car caught fire, which, coupled with the shrieks of affrighted women passengers, added to the confusion. Fortunately, however, the train was soon emptied of passengers, and seven minutes later traffic was resumed. No one was hurt, but it was said that two women passengers fainted.

Two hours later a Dyckman Street train was switching from the centre track to the southbound track, just north of that station, and six cars of the train had negotiated it safely when the switchman pulled back the switch key too soon, so that the last two cars left the rail and plowed their way some distance, tearing up the ties and demolishing the third rail. By the time the train was pulled up the last car lay in such a position that all traffic was blocked.

It took a wrecking crew three hours to repair the damage so that the first train out could proceed. In the meantime northbound trains were run up as far as 181st Street, then sent back on the same track to 168th Street, where they were switched to the southbound track.

Passengers bound further north than 181st Street had to get to their destinations by other means of transit.

While all this was going on August Apart, a track walker, working somewhere near 160th Street, was run down and killed by a southbound train.

TO MAKE LUSITANIA SPEEDIER.

New Propellers to be Installed—May Make Her a 26-Knotter.

The Cunard liner Lusitania, which sails to-morrow for Liverpool with her first and second class cabins full, will lie up for ten days on her arrival on the other side to have her propellers changed.

The two large brass solid propellers on the high pressure turbines are to be replaced by two smaller ones which, it is hoped, will enable the liner to get away quicker on starting and give her more speed. The manganese bronze propellers that were used once for the Mauretania will be placed on the two low-pressure turbines of the Lusitania.

The new propellers will measure about thirty feet in diameter and cost $10,000 each.

In addition it is understood that the pitch will be altered by giving the propellers a twist that will get a firmer grip on the water. It is hoped that when the Lusitania leaves Liverpool on her next voyage, July 17, she will be able to average twenty-six knots on her passage across, but it is not expected that she will take away the blue ribbon of the Atlantic from the Mauretania. She was considerably stiffened aft after her first trip, and is not so supple as her sister ship.

On the Lusitania to-morrow go the officers and crew of the wrecked Slavonia to attend the British Board of Trade Inquiry, which will be held in the Admiralty Court, London. They all feel sorry for Capt. Dunning, who is still on board the Slavonia with Chief Officer Anderson, but they regret still more deeply the Captain's obliging disposition which caused him to take his ship seventy miles out of her direct course to Gibraltar and pile her on the rocks to gratify the whim of the passengers who had petitioned him to let them see "beautiful Flores."

Owing to the crowded state of the saloons the officers of the Slavonia will have to travel across in quarters specially fitted up for them in the steerage of the Lusitania.

CHURCH BUILDS SPITE FENCE.

Opponent Replies with Improvised Scripture, and Parishioners Laugh.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., June 28.—The whole city is laughing at the controversy going on between the officials of the First Congregational Church, one of the leading churches of Middletown, and Dr. J. B. Hulett, a prominent physician. The church has handsome grounds surrounding it, and immediately adjoining them are the house and barn of Dr. Hulett.

Some months ago the church people ordered Dr. Hulett to remove some refuse from the church property which they asserted had come from the physician's barn. The physician said that the refuse did not come from his barn, and refused to remove it.

After several wordy encounters between the church Trustees and the physician the Trustees caused an eight-foot rough board fence to be built between their property and Dr. Hulett's property. The fence is close to the handsome barn of Dr. Hulett and shuts off the light and air. The doctor requested the officials of the church to either remove the fence or lower it so that it would not cover up his windows, but they refused to do so, and the public is awaiting developments.

Sunday, when the members of the congregation went to church they looked to see if the board fence was still in position, thinking that maybe the physician might have chopped it down. The fence was still there, but above it and overlooking the churchyard was a sign 10 feet long and 4 feet high, and on it, painted in large letters, was the quotation, "He who wantonly cutteth off his neighbor's light shall be an abomination in the eyes of all his people."

The church people gasped, and then read the sign again. Then the majority laughed, and all through the services smiles were seen on their faces. Bibles were searched for the quotation, but it could not be found. To-day every one is laughing at Dr. Hulett's improvised Scripture quotation, and the opinion is that he has somewhat the better of the church Trustees. They are waiting to see whether the church people will take down the fence or Dr. Hulett his sign.

ONE DEATH FOLLOWS YESTERDAY'S STORM

Much Damage to Property from Thunderstorm Which Swept Across the City.

DIDN'T DISPEL THE HEAT

But Weather Bureau Says Cooler Weather Is Due To-day—Little Silver Steamboat Hit.

After a day in which the temperature reached 85 degrees and the excessive humidity brought discomfort and suffering, a heavy thunderstorm, accompanied by vivid lightning, broke over this city in the afternoon, bringing death and damage to property. For a short time the air was cleared by the rain, but there was no drop in the temperature, and conditions soon became as bad as before the downpour. The local weather forecaster, however, declares that it will soon be cool again. The backbone of the hot wave will be broken to-day, he says, and by Wednesday the extremely hot weather should have passed.

The electrical storm that broke in the afternoon killed one man in Brooklyn, and in Williamsburg a woman was seriously injured by a bolt of lightning which struck her home.

Harry Keenan, 32 years old, of 41 Weldon Street, East New York, was killed by electricity during the height of the storm at Crescent, near Glen Street. Lightning struck the feed wire of the Edison Company's plant in Crescent Street.

The heat burned the insulation from the wires running down the side of a pole, and this is supposed to have grounded the wires, setting fire to the base of the pole. Keenan, seeing the electric flames darting about the pole, filled a pail he carried with water and threw the water at the pole. The stream formed a connection through his body to the ground and he was instantly killed. Keenan's mother was crazed with grief when she learned of the tragedy.

Mrs. Dora Schnyder of 183 Meserole Street, Williamsburg, was taken to St. Catharine's Hospital from her home in a serious condition, the result of lightning striking the house. Mrs. Schnyder attempted to close a window as the storm came up. As she took hold of the sash, lightning struck the house, running down the front wall to the ground. The window was smashed, and Mrs. Schnyder was knocked half way across the room. She was cut by glass and lost so much blood before help came that it is feared she will die.

The storm spread a black path over the city and for a time it was so dark that lights had to be turned on in the stores.

In Harlem the streets were running rivers and along West and South Streets the cellars were quickly flooded. In Williamsburg, in Evergreen Avenue from Cooper to Halsey Streets, the water rose to a depth of two feet. In a bakery in Eldridge Street the water put out the fires. On both sides of the streets cellars were flooded and much damage was done.

While Mrs. Astor Lansman was in the kitchen of her apartment on the fourth floor of 529 East Eighty-eighth Street, a bolt of lightning passed through the window of her parlor and set fire to the room. The crash of thunder frightened her, and when she ran from the rear of her apartment and saw that the front was on fire she fainted.

Neighbors saw smoke issuing from the Lansman apartment and notified Policeman Downey of the East Eighty-eighth Street Police Station, who sent in an alarm. The officer then hastened into the Lansman apartment, where he found Mrs. Lansman unconscious on the floor. He carried her to the rear room, where she revived after a short interval. The firemen quenched the flames before they had time to spread beyond the front room. The damage amounted to about $100.

A one-story loft opposite Woodmansten Inn, on the Williamsbridge Road, the Bronx, was struck by lightning. The flimsy structure, used for the storage of hay and straw and for the shelter of horses owned by patrons of the inn, immediately caught fire and burned to the ground before Engine Companies 61 and 64 and Truck 62 arrived.

One death due to the heat occurred yesterday and thirty-two persons were prostrated. Alexander Woods, a painter of 66 West 139th Street, was found dead in bed. He had been suffering from the heat for a week.

Caspar Melleiser of 246 East Fifty-fifth Street, a blacksmith, went insane from the heat while working over his forge. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

Margaret Engleman, 28 years old, a servant employed by Mrs. Samuel Rodenberger, on the second floor of 206 West 119th Street, was instantly killed by falling from the roof of the five-story tenement at that address to the stone pavement at the bottom of the airshaft. She was overcome by the heat while hanging out the washing.

Fully 50,000 homegoing persons were blockaded in Long Island City last evening, the result of washouts on the trolley lines and the Long Island Railroad. The highways were converted into torrents and the lowlands became lakes. Through the flooding of the power house of the New York & Queens County Electric Railway in Purvis Street, near Jackson Avenue, operation of that section of the road stopped, and a washout at Woodside Junction and Penny Bridge put every division of the railroad out of commission.

More than forty automobiles were stuck at one time in a depression along Jackson Avenue at Corona during the height of the storm, and it is said that among the lot were several owned by well-known New Yorkers. Gangs of men were set to work to pump out the flooded power house in Purvis Street, and it was late last night before the road was again put in operation.

During the height of the storm William Evans of 401 State Street, Brooklyn, property man at Gala Park, North Beach, was struck by lightning. He was revived by Dr. P. J. Cooney of St. John's Hospital, and was later sent to his home. Marie Ohanka employed as a maid at Belvedere Park, North Beach, became so frightened during the storm that she ran to her room and attempted suicide by hanging. She was caught and restrained until the arrival of an ambulance from St. John's Hospital, and she was removed to that institution.

When the excursion boat Little Silver of the Patten Line was plowing through the whitecaps kicked up by the thunderstorm late yesterday afternoon, on her return trip from Long Branch to this city, the 200 passengers aboard, most of them women and children, were startled by two loud crashes of thunder.

These were followed by an even louder crash, a sudden blaze of lightning, and a shower of splintered wood, which fell all over the boat from stem to stern. The flagpole at the steamer's bow had been shattered by lightning.

For a moment it seemed as though the vessel itself had been struck. Her passengers were almost in a panic. Women screamed, children began to cry, and several men started for the life preservers.

Members of the crew went about quieting everybody, and taking water to women who had fainted. But soon after, when the Little Silver had worked her way out of the gale, in the teeth of which she had been running, the passengers went about gathering up the splinters of the pole for souvenirs.

ADOPTS LONGER AFTERNOONS.

Cincinnati Votes Ordinance Setting Clock Ahead One Hour in Summer.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 28.—Following President Taft's suggestion that the "more daylight" plan should be taken up at once the Cincinnati Councilmen to-day voted unanimously to adopt the plan, turning the clock ahead an hour, so as to enable working folk to begin their tasks an hour earlier in the morning and knock off an hour earlier in the afternoon, thus gaining an additional hour of daylight for recreation.

The new ordinance becomes operative May 1, 1910, and will continue until Oct. 1, 1910. The measure is the first of its kind passed in the United States, and the National Daylight Association, fostering the plan, has made preparations to continue the work on a larger scale. The new law went through under a suspension of the rules, and an unanimous vote is recorded on the minutes.

Councilman Mullen, known as the "Timothy D. Sullivan of Cincinnati," is the father of the measure. He declared that he introduced it because of the pressure brought to bear by the thousands of workingmen in his ward, which comprises the working-class settlement of the city. Along with the document he submitted a list of firms who favored the change.

GAMBLERS' WINDOWLESS DEN.

An Odd Brick Structure in a Backyard That Puzzles Folk.

A substantial square, single-storied brick structure occupies practically the entire backyard of a certain respectable brownstone residence in West Forty-third Street.

One of several peculiar things about this backyard structure is its lack of windows. A row of small round portholes about twenty feet from the ground apparently furnishes it with air, but not with light. The roof, too, although it has a ventilating apparatus, seems to have no skylight. No one on the outside evidently could possibly look into the building. It is entirely safe from evidence getters and spies.

Another strange thing about the backyard building is the way in which it is connected with the very respectable-looking brownstone house in front of it. The connection is apparently a short passageway a few feet above the ground. But this passage is carefully masked both by an unusually high board fence and a white and buff awning. An iron grating also runs all the way up between the two buildings as high as the rear structure's roof.

This odd, windowless backyard building is a constant source of curiosity to the transient guests of the near-by hotels and to the young members of the adjacent college clubs who look out on it from their back windows—it is so obviously not a factory, restaurant, or dwelling. It is deserted now, and the bricks are beginning to show weather wear from lack of painting.

It is said to have been once one of the biggest and most notorious roulette rooms in the city during wide-open days under Tammany Hall.

JEWELRY IN PATIENT'S MOUTH.

Man Who Had Convulsions Coughed Out Cuff Buttons and Watch Charm.

Dr. R. P. Burke of Bellevue Hospital took to that institution yesterday afternoon a man suffering from heart trouble and convulsions. He was Antonio Cornerole, 55 years old, of 3 East Twenty-eight Street. Dr. Leroy Smith admitted the patient, and while examining the man saw something bright in his mouth. Thinking Cornerole had loosened a gold tooth in his convulsions, Dr. Smith opened the man's mouth and took out the object, which was a gold cuff button.

"That's my button," said Dr. Burke. Before he could say more the man coughed out another button, the mate of the first one. The doctors opened the man's mouth and out came Dr. Burke's watch charm.

The only way Dr. Burke can account for the presence of his jewelry in the patient's mouth is that he had them in his coat pocket, and, in taking off the coat, he thinks they fell beside the man and that he got them in his mouth accidentally. Cornerole will recover.

BABY KILLED UNDER A CAR.

Police Have Trouble in Saving the Motorman from an Excited Crowd.

Mrs. Freda Dietsche, wife of Emil Dietsche, proprietor of a restaurant at 412 West Broadway, started across the road in front of her home last night, leading by the hand her twenty-one-months-old son, Frank. They had barely reached the car tracks when a southbound car bore down on them, and, while Mrs. Dietsche suceeded in getting out of the way, the child was hit by the car, knocked down, and killed.

The accident was seen by a great many people, mostly Italians, and soon a crowd of 2,000 persons got round the car, threatening the motorman, Michael Crehan of 927 Sixth Avenue. Detective Rocco Cavani of the Italian Squad, who lives near the scene of the accident, hearing the shouting, arrived in time to save Crehan from violence. Locking the motorman in the car, he sent for the reserves from the Macdougal Street Station, but it took a deal of strategy to get Crehan to the station house without harm.

The car had to be lifted before the child's body could be got out. A technical charge of homicide was made against Crehan.

DINE ON WHITE HOUSE ROOF.

President Taft Entertains Cabinet and Other Officers at Garden Party.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—President Taft to-night gave the first roof garden party in the history of the White House so far as is known. The heat of the last few days suggested the idea of dining outdoors, and the President arranged for an al fresco dinner on the top of the west wing of the Executive Mansion. All of the members of the Cabinet who are now in town were invited, and a number of members of Congress and Diplomatic Corps were among the guests.

The roof of the wing was decorated with plants and vines, and the tables were spread in a bower of flowers. A section of the Marine Band played during the dinner, while a cool breeze from the southwest swept over the host and his guests.

No ladies were included among the guests, the dinner being entirely a stag affair. The illness of Mrs. Taft permitted such an arrangement.

WRIGHTS FAIL TO FLY; SNUB CONGRESSMEN

Senate and House Adjourn to Watch Aviators, but Are Disappointed.

BROTHERS NOT DIPLOMATS

Signal Corps Officers Had Hoped to Make Good Impression for Appropriation—Wind Too Strong for Flight.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The Wright brothers snubbed official Washington to-day, and disappointed it as well. The snub, if it properly can be called that, arose from the desire of the Wrights to be left alone, while the disappointment was a weather accident. The lawmakers, assembled en masse to watch a flight which did not come off, and having been refused an opportunity to meet the Wright brothers, left Fort Myer expressing pessimistic opinions of flying machines.

The performance to-day does not promise well for the appropriation for aeronautics which the Army Signal Corps wants Congress to vote at the next session. Wilbur Wright said late in the afternoon that it was "absurd" for the Senate to adjourn for one of these flights, as it did to-day, that neither he nor his brother had ever undertaken to make a flight at any definite time, and that they would not undertake to do so.

All that the bored and wilted Senators know about it is that they were urged to go to Fort Myer this afternoon and see the flying machine fly, and that nothing flew. Most of the House members were present, also by invitation. This was the work of the Signal Corps officers, anxious for their appropriation. The Signal Corps officers guessed wrong, that was all.

First a storm threatened, then a coquettish breeze, and then more breeze postponed the experiment until the brothers gave it up altogether. They have had their machine out in much worse weather, but exceptional circumstances govern this first trial flight they are to make this week.

Wilbur Wright explained some of them. "This is a new machine," he said, "which has never been tested. This field is the scene of last year's accident, and my brother, who is to make the first flight, has not taken a machine up since that accident. Under these circumstances we will not attempt our first flight except under ideal weather conditions."

Wilbur Wright did not make any of these explanations to the Senators and Representatives, however. When some of them were ushered on to the field after the ascension was declared off the Wright brothers turned their backs on the statesmen and took refuge in the balloon shed. Here again the anxious signal officers were trying to do their best to give Congress some sort of show for its trouble. If there was to be no flight, the Signal Corps men seem to have figured that meeting the famous Wright brothers and hearing an explanation of their sky car from their own lips would help some.

There was nothing doing. Instead, Wilbur Wright of Dayton, Ohio, explained his policy of dealing with "crowds." "This crowd seems so fretful," he said, laughingly, after pushing aside and escaping from a throng of statesmen who wanted to meet him. "When I was in France and the crowd grew fretful, do you know what I used to do? I used to have the machine wheeled back into the shed and locked the door." He showed every symptom of a desire to discipline in the same fashion to-day's "crowd" held back by ropes and guarded by vigilant sentries, and consisting chiefly of the Congress of the United States, which will determine whether the army shall have any more money for flying machine experiments.

The soldiers who had charge of things at Fort Myer did their best to protect the Wrights in the seclusion they demanded. Besides the ropes and sentries and passports utilized there was an additional precaution of many cavalrymen constantly galloping around the outskirts of the big, dusty parade ground. Such a galloper rounded up Senator Aldrich in short order when he tried to cross the field to the balloon shed. An officer approaching who recognized Aldrich, the latter was permitted to send a request to the balloon shed that he take a look at the aeroplane. The Wrights couldn't see it that way, and Aldrich was hustled back behind the ropes.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Beekman Winthrop and Mrs. Winthrop were pounced upon and hustled about. So were Senators Lodge and Kean, with the ladies who were in their party. "Uncle Joe" Cannon and "Jim" Tawney, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, saw what happened to the Senators and stuck to their automobile pretty closely.

Even after the statesmen were invited into the field to inspect the machine their official badges helped them not at all, unless an army officer accompanied them, or saw them headed back and rescued them from the hands of the horsemen.

It was hot, even for Washington, and Congress sat for two hours in the sun watching the Wright brothers tinker on their machine on the edge of the dusty field. The thing was wheeled out, indeed, but it never left the ground. And what made the statesmen angriest was that they missed to-day's ball game. They swear they won't attend any more Signal Corps parties given in honor of the Wright brothers.

ZEPPELIN I. OFF FOR METZ.

Dirigible Left Friedrichshafen Last Night on 180-Mile Journey.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, June 28.—The dirigible balloon Zeppelin I. started at a late hour to-night for Metz. The machine will be permanently stationed at that city for military purposes.

The distance from Friedrichshafen to Metz, where Germany's military eye looks out on France, is some 180 miles as the crow flies. The route of the airship, unless a detour were made to the north, would be across the Black Forest and the Vosges Mountains, passing close to Strasburg and traversing Baden, Alsace, and Lorraine.

ENDOWED CHAIR OF AVIATION.

University of Paris Announces Donations of $240,000.

PARIS, June 28.—The University of Paris has announced two donations in the interests of aviation.

The first is $100,000 with an annual subvention of $3,000 from Henri Deutsche de la Meurthe for the foundation of a department of technical aeronautics, including studies and researches for the perfection of aerial apparatus of whatever form. The second is $140,000 from Basil Zakaroff, a Greek resident of Paris, for the foundation of a Chair of Aviation.

MIKADO'S HEIR COMING.

Seattle Hears He Will Visit Alaska-Yukon Exposition in August.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 28.—Crown Prince Yoshihito Haruhomiya of Japan will visit the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition in August, according to advices received to-day by the Japanese Commissioner of the fair.

The Japanese Crown Prince—he was declared heir to the throne in 1889—will be 30 years old at the end of the month appointed for his visit to Seattle. He has a son and two daughters.

TWELVE HURT IN COLLISION.

Two Brooklyn Women Among Victims of Crash on New Haven Road.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., June 28.—A dozen persons were injured in a collision on the Berlin branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad between a passenger train and a work train at Berlin this afternoon. None of the injuries will, it is believed, result fatally.

The injured include:

Mrs. Catherine E. Champion, Brooklyn, N. Y.; jawbone and elbow fractured and badly bruised.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cummings, Brooklyn, N. Y.; ankle fractured, small cuts, and bruises.

HURT IN AUTO CRASH.

Motor Hits a Tree in Rounding a Curve in the Bronx.

Shortly before 1 o'clock this morning a large automobile, in turning a sharp corner out of the Eastern Boulevard into Pelham Parkway in the Bronx, crashed into a tree and was upset. Three men and two women, besides the chauffeur, were in the auto.

Three of the party were slightly injured. Two men, who said they were John Moore of 828 Ridgewood Avenue, Glen Ridge, N. J., and E. E. Setbridge of 161 Cleveland Avenue, Orange, N. J., were seriously hurt. Mr. Setbridge suffered a broken hip, and Mr. Moore a broken leg. The injured were taken to Fordham Hospital.

$10,000,000 DRAWN IN DRAY.

Fourteen Horses Pull Gold Coin, Guarded by Mounted Police, to Vaults.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—A dray loaded with $10,000,000 in gold coin was this morning driven down Market Street from the temporary quarters of the City Treasury in the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company's building to the vaults of the old City Hall. Fourteen of the finest truck horses that could be secured drew the valuable load, and twenty-five mounted policemen guarded the caravan.

John E. McDougald, City Treasurer, occupied the seat beside the driver. The east wing of the old City Hall, where the vaults are situated, is the only part of the building left by the wreckers, who have made a thorough job of the work started by the earthquake and fire of 1906.

SNORED HIMSELF INTO JAIL.

Sleeper Gets Five Days for "Disturbing the Court Officers' Rest."

Weary and warm, one Benjamin Miller wandered into the Manhattan Avenue Court in Brooklyn yesterday, picked out a comfortable seat in an obscure corner and dropped off into a refreshing sleep.

In all probability he would have been left to the enjoyment of his nap had he not begun to snore. A drowsy court officer, aroused by Miller's siren-like nasal notes, became irritated and haled him before Magistrate O'Reilly.

"What's the charge?" asked the Magistrate.

"Snorin' in court, your honor," explained the officer.

"What do you mean by disturbing the rest of the court officers?" demanded the Magistrate—"five days in jail."

PRIEST STOPS RUNAWAY.

Father Gleason Is Dragged 200 Feet, but Saves Six Children.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., June 28.—The Rev. D. L. Gleason, pastor of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, stopped a runaway horse in Elm Street last evening at the risk of his life. There were five or six little girls and boys in the wagon besides the driver. The shaft had become broken and the driver could not control the horse. The wagon swayed from side to side and the children were in great danger, for the horse was running fast.

Father Gleason, sitting on the veranda of his residence with his assistant, the Rev. A. F. Carrigan, saw the children's danger, and he ran out and caught the horse by the bridle. He was dragged 200 feet, but he clung to the reigns and stopped the horse. Father Carrigan, who also had run to the assistance of the children, lifted them out of the wagon while Father Gleason held the horse. A sleeve was torn out of Father Gleason's cassock in his struggle.

CHARLEY TAFT A CHAUFFEUR.

President's Son Learns How to Drive His Mother's Electric Runabout.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Charley Taft, the young son of the President, is learning to operate his mother's electric automobile. He has been taking lessons from an expert chauffeur ever since the electric runabout was added to the White House garage.

To-day he made his first long trip, leaving the White House shortly after 3 o'clock, and, in company with his instructor, running the car out to Fort Myer and back. The youngster has grasped the principle of the machine rapidly, and is now almost as good an operator as the demonstrator. He is a careful driver and quick on both steering lever and the brake.

His chief ambition just at present is to be permitted to run the big touring car in which his distinguished father rides, but the President declines to allow this, although the chauffeur of the powerful machine stands willing to teach Charley whenever he desires, for the youngster is a favorite with the White House employes.

STRIKING CAR MEN WIN IN PITTSBURG

Company Concedes Every Demand Save One, and Men Return to Work.

RIOTS BEFORE SETTLEMENT

Mob Attacks Strikebreakers on a Bridge, and Two Detectives Are Clubbed and Two Strikers Shot.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., June 28.—Through the efforts of Mayor William A. Magee of Pittsburg the strike of street car men was adjusted at 10:30 to-night, and the workmen will return to their cars at 5 A. M., after having been off just forty-eight hours. It is apparently a complete victory for the men.

Every point is conceded by the company save that of drinking when in uniform even though off duty. The men had asserted that a man had the right to drink if he saw fit after his day's work was done, but this was denied by the company, and a motorman caught drinking after his day's work was discharged. This case will be submitted to arbitration.

The company agrees to reimburse a motorman laid off for six days for not assisting in clearing a wrecked wagon off the track, to make a better schedule.

The grievances of the union men included the charges of discrimination against union men, demands for hearings for discharged men, longer lunch time, installation of bulletin boards in car barns announcing lay-off, and shorter runs.

The streets are filled to-night with street-car men rejoicing over the victory. It is conceded that the Mayor's threat to seize the street-car lines under an old law that gave him that right caused the settlement.

Riot on a High Bridge.

It was a day of incessant small rioting and some bloodshed. The big riot of the day occurred at Rankin, eleven miles from Pittsburg, headquarters of the river divisions of the Pittsburg Railways Company and of McKeesport. While only four are known to have been injured it is thought a score of others were hurt, but were gotten away before their names could be learned. It was a clash between strikers and detectives who were in charge of strikebreakers heading for the Rankin barns. The known injured are:

RONDO, JOHN, strike sympathizer; right ear torn from head by bullet.

LAPPA, JAMES, striker; bullet through left arm; bone shattered by bullet.

ENGLERT, JOHN S., county detective; clubbed and beaten by strikers; condition serious.

BROWN, RICHARD T., county detective; kicked and beaten insensible by strikers; taken to McKeesport Hospital.

The battle occurred on a high bridge spanning the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks at Rankin. The detectives, with strikebreakers, got off a Baltimore & Ohio train early this afternoon, and a cry went up from a score of watchers, "here come the strikebreakers." Englert, heading the party, crossed the tracks and got upon a bridge leading over to the back of the car barns. Fully 300 strikers or their friends followed the detectives and the strange men onto the bridge, while a similar number came rushing from the other side, meeting the detectives when they, with their escorted party of strikebreakers, were about half way over the bridge.

"Throw them over! Kill them! Kill them!" howled the angry strikers, and Englert called on his men to pull their guns and hold them up where they could be seen. "I'll blow the brains out of the first man who tries to touch any one of this party!" shouted the big county detective, but just then he went down from half a brick hurled over the crowd by some one. Bleeding from a bad cut on his eye, Englert was up in a moment, just as his fellow-detectives fired a volley of shots over the heads of the mob. This called forth a yell of derision, and answering shots came from the mob in front. None of the detectives' party was hurt by the shots.

The strikebreakers who had come with the detectives managed to break their way through the crowd at the back while the detectives fought their way through the mob in front to the barns.

Strikers Capture a Car.

A trolley car on the Pittsburg, Harmony, Butler & New Castle line was held up at the city limits this morning by logs piled on the track. The strikers declined to permit the car, whose line does not belong to the Pittsburg Street Railways Company, to enter the city limits and come over the tracks of the Pittsburg lines into the heart of the city. Strikers piled on the cars and made all the passengers, about seventy-five in number, get off in the mud, the spot being about eight miles from the heart of Pittsburg.

A riot call was hurried into Pittsburg, and Capt. Ford of the mounted police with twenty officers galloped to the scene, and found only a lot of muddy and stranded passengers. The strikers had captured the car and brought it into Pittsburg themselves, flying a white flag, in order that it might not be fired on by other strikers.

Strikers also attacked a large wagon loaded with lumber in the vicinity of the Homewood barns to-day under the belief that the lumber was to be used in erecting quarters for strike breakers. They unloaded the lumber and set fire to it on the street, after beating the drivers up badly.

Two deaths have thus far been attributed to the strike. Late last night Mrs. Mary Wellings was overcome with fright while being hurried in an auto to see her sick son, and died an hour after being taken from the auto. She had a dread of automobiles, and could not get to her son by street car last night so reluctantly took an auto, remarking she feared she would be killed.

William B. Allen, aged 80 years, was run down by a train at Corapolis to-day and killed while returning from taking his son's dinner to the mills. For years the old man had been taking his son's dinner by the trolley line, but he had to walk to-day and met death.

ARCHBISHOP O'CONNELL BACK.

Prelate Receives Enthusiastic Greeting Upon His Return from Rome.

BOSTON, June 28.—Archbishop William H. O'Connell received an enthusiastic greeting as he walked down the gangplank of the steamer Romanic to-day, after an absence in Rome of nearly three months. A large committee representing both the clergy and laity of the Roman Catholic Church in Boston awaited the prelate on the dock to extend congratulations upon his safe return.

On Wednesday a more formal welcome with services in the forenoon at the Cathedral and a public meeting in Mechanics' Hall in the evening will be given.

SCHEME TO DEFEAT CORPORATION TAX

Senate Insurgents After Votes to Substitute for It an Inheritance Tax.

TAFT URGED IT IN MESSAGE

Way Cleared for Debate To-day Except for a Vote on Tillman's Proposal for a Tax on Tea.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The leaders of the Senate insurgents are working to-night on a plan whereby they hope to overthrow the proposed corporation tax, which will come up in the Senate to-morrow, and at the same time retain the nominal support of the Administration. They admit that they cannot hold enough income taxers in line to prevent the substitution of the corporation tax, with the President's open indorsement of it, for the Cummins-Bailey income measure. Their plan is to wait until that act of substitution has been made and then supplant the corporation tax by a substitute amendment carrying an inheritance levy.

Such an amendment has been drafted by the insurgents, and they are holding it in readiness to offer at the psychological moment. Meanwhile they are conducting a poll, which, while unfinished, leads them to-night to expressions of considerable optimism.

They have found it impossible to strive against the President's open espousal of the corporation tax as opposed to the income tax, but they believe by substituting the inheritance tax, which the President especially favored in his inaugural address, progressive Senators, who yet desire to stand in with the Administration, will feel able to vote against the corporation measure.

"If it be impossible to do so by import duties," said Mr. Taft in his inaugural address after suggesting the advisability of drafting a tariff bill that would supply the needs of the Government, "new kinds of taxation must be adopted, and among these I recommend a graduated inheritance tax as correct in principle and as certain and easy of collection."

That is the plea by which the insurgents expect to win back the men they admit now they have lost for the direct fight for the income tax.

The insurgents also feel that the plan will have the moral support of the House Republicans who have already adopted such a tax.

The regulars in discussing the chances simply fall back on the statement that Mr. Aldrich has not been openly defeated so far. They do not believe that he will be.

The Senate adjourned this afternoon at 4 o'clock without having finished the dutiable and free lists. Senator Tillman's amendment putting tea under a duty of 10 cents a pound was left pending, and it is understood that stray amendments of like nature will be offered to various paragraphs of the measure. If these items are disposed of in time to-morrow, it is certain that the corporation tax will then be taken up. Then will follow the debate on Aldrich's resolution proposing an amendment conferring upon Congress the right to levy an income tax without apportionment among the States.

Senator Tillman spoke in favor of his tea tax, and, to the surprise of both parties, such Republicans as Senators Heyburn, Smith of Michigan, and McCumber expressed themselves as favoring the levy even on the protective basis.

It is understood to-night that Mr. Tillman will not have the backing of his party. His colleague, Senator Smith of South Carolina, has declared against the tax as carrying with it too much the appearance of protecting a local industry, and a prominent member of the Finance Committee said to-night that he did not believe the tea tax had any chance of passage to-morrow.

Senator Cummins's amendment lowering steel duties all along the line was defeated by a vote of 40 to 31. Ten Republicans voted with the Democrats for the reductions—Cummins, Borah, Bristow, Brown, Crawford, Curtis, Dolliver, Gamble, La Follette, and Nelson. Mr. McEnery was the only Democrat to vote against the amendment.

The next most important fight of the day was over binding twine, cotton bagging, and cotton bale ties. The House rate of $6 a ton was retained on ties, but the committee, in order to hasten matters, allowed bagging to go on the free list along with twine. It is definitely understood, however, that the House rate on bagging will be restored by the committee in conference.

Senator Gore's amendment putting school textbooks on the free list was defeated, 45 to 17, as was also Mr. Bacon's amendment taking Sea Island cotton from the free list.

Mr. Aldrich this morning reported for the committee his proposed constitutional amendment. The amendment, if adopted by a two-thirds vote in both houses, and if ratified by three-fourths of the States will become a part of the Constitution as Article XVI. It reads:

That Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several States and without regard to any census enumeration.

Several proposed amendments carrying variants on the committee's corporation tax proposal were offered to-day, including one by Mr. Culberson, the minority leader. These amendments were referred to the Finance Committee, where they will be pigeonholed.

When the tax is taken up formally in the Senate, it was announced to-day, Senator Flint of California will be in immediate control, though it is known that he will be closely supported by Senator Root. The junior Senator from New York has, next to the Attorney General, been instrumental in drafting the document.

SAYS TARIFF TALK HURTS.

F. E. Vogel Thinks Business Would Forge Ahead if Question Were Settled.

Frank E. Vogel, Vice President and Treasurer of the Siegel Stores Corporation, sails this morning with Mrs. Vogel and their children on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. for a prolonged stay abroad, going first to Paris and then to Carlsbad, where they will remain for several weeks.

Mr. Vogel said the unsettled state of business generally was due wholly to uncertainty of the tariff question. "While uncertainty makes life interesting," he added, "it plays havoc with business conditions when the tariff is involved. We have done as large a volume of business as could be expected under the existing conditions, larger than could reasonably have been anticipated when comparisons are made with other houses, but the volume of business has not been for months what it should have been and what it would now be if the tariff were out of the way. The proposed tax on corporations is class taxation and discriminates in that individuals and firms are not to taxed while corporations are to be assessed. I am in favor of taxation for the revenue the Government actually requires and only that. A corporation tax may result in a big surplus that will be responsible for a long train of evils."

CATCHING ISLAND SPEEDERS

Is Easy with a Ferry at Each End—But It Isn't Done by Telephone Alone.

So many New Jersey motorists, who thought they had made a successful Sunday run across Staten Island, which they use as a thoroughfare between their State and Manhattan, have been arrested for speeding at the ferry itself, next door to safety, that a rumor is current that this is how it happens:

On Sundays a policeman stationed at the Tottenville ferry calls up a colleague at the St. George ferry and gives him the time and number of each automobile when it reaches the island. Then this second policeman, knowing that if a given car reaches him within a certain time it has been running at better than the legal rate of speed over the sixteen miles from ferry to ferry, and makes his arrest.

The Jerseymen say you can't beat this. The police say also that their system of catching speeders can't be beaten, but they say also that the method they adopt is much simpler than that invented for them by wandering speeders. As a matter of fact, the Staten Island men declare, their method is the one used everywhere else, but they have this advantage—they know for a certainty where the speeder is going, for the island is used only for through trips, and has only the two ways in and out—the ferry at each end.

This being the case, Bicycle Policeman are scattered along the roads on Sundays. Stop-watch in hand, they take the time of a car from one point to another. When they see the car is speeding, they give chase, but often they are dropped behind. All they have to do, however, is to telephone to the ferry that car number so-and-so is exceeding the limit, and the arrest follows.

In this way they get a half dozen speeders each Sunday, who in other localities would escape. Hence the bewilderment of the Jersey motorists and their ingenious theory.

One of Inspector Hogan's men, asked about the telephone theory yesterday, said:

"That would be a fine scheme from our point of view, and to us proof positive of speeding. If we could only do it we would save a lot of men. One special man at a telephone at each ferry would be enough. But the trouble is the Magistrates wouldn't consider that sufficient proof. You can't convict a man of speeding unless you see him in the act."

ROCKEFELLERS GOING WEST.

John D. Rockefeller and His Wife Will Stay in Cleveland Till Sept. 20.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 28.—John D. Rockefeller will leave Pocantico Hills to-morrow morning in his auto to join Mrs. Rockefeller in New York, whence they will depart in the afternoon for Cleveland to spend the Summer.

Mr. Rockefeller enjoyed his last game of golf on his estate here with Fred J. Hill this morning. He attended church yesterday and bade his friends in the congregation good-bye, saying he hoped to be with them early in the Fall. Mr. Rockefeller did not return to Pocantico Hills as usual this Spring, owing to the cold weather and the illness of Mrs. Rockefeller. While she is recovering slowly, she has not been well enough to come to Tarrytown, but has stayed in New York City under the care of a specialist and three nurses. She will be able to travel to-morrow.

Mr. Rockefeller plans to return to Pocantico Hills about Sept. 20.

REFUSES SENATE REQUEST.

Wickersham Won't Give Data in Trial of Dr. Perrin, Prosecuted by Devlin.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Attorney General Wickersham refuses to send to the Senate the files in the Department of Justice relating to the trial of Dr. E. B. Perrin, charged with conspiracy to defraud the Government in California timber land cases. These data were demanded in connection with the nomination of Robert T. Devlin to be United States Attorney for the Northern District of California. The Senate Committee on Judiciary to-day decided to put over the Devlin nomination until the next regular session of Congress.

It would be "inexpedient" to supply the information reported Mr. Wickersham to the committee, as the Perrin case is still on the docket subject to retrial. Several members of the Judiciary Committee to-day expressed dissatisfaction with Mr. Wickersham's response, especially as Assistant Attorney General Harr had reported to former Attorney General Bonaparte that proceedings against Perrin should be dismissed.

WANTS DENTAL CLINICS.

Commissioner Darlington Says School Children Need Them.

Health Commissioner Darlington made public yesterday a set of statistics, which some of his physicians have been collecting for him, on the dental needs of the city's public school children. During seven months, last Winter, Health Department physicians examined 586,744 children. They found that 290,167 of these children needed dental treatment.

Commissioner Darlington urged the establishment of adequate dental clinics for public school children in this city. He said such public dental clinics as were conducted here at the present time only handled extraction cases and did no filling. Five hundred thousand circulars on the care of the teeth are now being distributed in the public schools by the Health Department.

Taft and Edwards Beaten at Golf.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—President Taft was on the losing side in a foursome at golf to-day, he and his partner, Gen. Edwards, being defeated by Senator Bourne of Oregon and Capt. Butt, military aid to the President, by 2 up.

CLOGGING the VITAL CENTERS

One of the most important of the new principles of modern business is that when a clerk does a thing in a roundabout way, or twice over, the waste of that clerk's time is by no means the serious loss ——but that each delay or complication is carried along to weaken the vital centers of the business, to hamper the action of the constructive men in the business at those critical moments when speed and impetus are vital.

It may readily be seen what a startling, new importance this idea gives to reducing the routine of a business house to its simplest and most direct terms.

COURT EXAMINES TO AID AGED WOMAN

Justice Dowling Questions Mrs. Ryan, Sued for Retaining Miss McCusker's Money.

SHE ADMITS LARGE GIFTS

Also Signing Many Checks After Getting a Power of Attorney from the Aged School Teacher.

Miss Mary V. McCusker, an elderly woman, formerly a school teacher, living at the Martha Washington Hotel, 29 East Twenty-ninth Street, is the plaintiff in an action, trial of which was begun before Supreme Court Justice Dowling yesterday, under which she seeks the return of $18,177 from her second cousin, Mrs. Margaret V. I. Ryan of 233 East 235th Street, and also an accounting of moneys received and expended by Mrs. Ryan on her account.

Miss McCusker was for some thirty years a teacher under the Board of Education, retiring some ten years ago on a pension of $50 a month. In giving her testimony yesterday neither the court nor her counsel, John A. Rooney and M. E. Kelley, could stop her from talking at times, and Justice Dowling had to threaten more than once to put the case back on the calendar unless she conformed to the rules of evidence.

She is said to be worth somewhere in the neighborhood of $100,000. She alleges that Mrs. Ryan, with whom she lived for many years, got away from her cash and securities valued at more than $15,000. Miss McCusker testified that she was virtually kept a prisoner in the Ryan house, allowed to see no one, and that her mail was opened.

On Jan. 26, 1906, Miss McCusker said she executed a power of attorney in favor of Mrs. Ryan, giving the latter power to collect Miss McCusker's pension money. This was revoked in October, 1907. Miss McCusker testified that Mrs. Ryan had beaten her because she would not make investments suggested by Mrs. Ryan.

Mrs. Ryan, testifying in her own behalf, said that Miss McCusker gave her the $13,837, saying: "I want to give you this certificate. Dear Mary, I want to live with you always."

Justice Dowling asked the witness what she did with the money. She said she expended some $8,000 of it in buying a house at 3,143 Decatur Avenue, and gave $2,000 to her eldest daughter, Charlotte. She admitted that she still had $1,500 belonging to Miss McCusker, which she was willing to hand over when asked for it.

The court wanted to know where the balance of the $13,837 was, and the witness replied, in the Hudson County Bank in Hoboken, N. J., and out of the jurisdiction of the court.

A bundle of thirty-two checks purporting to be indorsed by Miss McCusker was then put in evidence.

"Who signed Mary V. McCusker on the back of these checks?" she was asked.

"I think I did, some of them," replied Mrs. Ryan. "I always understood I had a right to."

She was confused when asked as to the indorsements on the other checks, and the Justice said to Mr. Kelley: "You needn't waste any more time on that; the whole thing is perfectly obvious."

Besides the $13,837 Miss McCusker alleges that Mrs. Ryan got $1,000 of her pension money, $54 from the Teachers' Mutual Benefit Association, $3,286 from A. J. Etchingham, who was Miss McCusker's agent; a bill of sale in her favor on all Miss McCusker's furniture from her house in West Forty-seventh Street, and a deed to a lot in Calvary Cemetery worth $500.

Mrs. Ryan admitted receiving the $1,000 pension money, but said it was such a "small amount" that she had forgotten it.

The trial will be resumed this morning, when Justice Dowling is expected to take a further hand in the proceedings.

DEVERY MUST PAY THE BILL.

"Now, Wouldn't That Jar You," He Exclaims at the Jury's Verdict.

"Now, wouldn't that jar you!" asked "Big Bill" Devery yesterday when a jury rendered a verdict against him in the Third District Municipal Court in Jamaica. "To go to the trouble and expense of defending a perfectly clear case and then to get an onion at the end."

Mr. Devery, who owns a fine estate at Bayswater, Rockaway, was sued by William A. Duncan, a Far Rockaway feed merchant, for $195, the value of corn, hay, and coal delivered at Mr. Devery's residence, and there fed to the horses, chickens, turkeys, pigeons, and kitchen stove. "The best Chief of Police New York ever had" declined to pay the bill, contending that he had not given written orders for the stuff.

"I'll sue you," warned Duncan.

"G'wan an' sue," advised Devery. "I think, all told, my prop'ty is worth the face of the bill if y' get a judgment."

Duncan thought so, too, and decided to take the risk. The trial, several times deferred, was held yesterday before Justice Rasquin and a jury of six men, toward whom Devery turned his broad back when he couldn't help winking at points he thought his attorney was making for him.

SURGEON HALED TO COURT.

Taken from Three Dying Patients on a Magistrate's Order.

Because he did not immediately leave three dying patients and go to the Morrisania Court to give evidence in an assault case, Dr. Leroy B. Vail, the house physician of Fordham Hospital, was taken away from his duties by two policemen yesterday and reprimanded by Magistrate Butts.

According to Dr. Vail a girl came to the hospital on Saturday to be examined, and he was informed that she had been attacked. Yesterday morning an officer of the Morrisania Court came with a subpoena signed by Magistrate Butts for the doctor to go to the court at once to give evidence in the case regarding the girl he had seen on Saturday.

"This was about 10:30 A. M.," said Dr. Vail, "and in addition to the eighty patients under my care in the hospital I had three special cases that I did not expect to last through the day. One was a man named John Burns, who was brought in with heat prostration; the second was a woman suffering from typhoid fever, and the third a man attacked with acute gastritis. The officer was told I was busy and went away, leaving the summons in the office below.

"About 12:30 P. M. two policemen from the court, acting under orders of Magistrate Butts, they said, came into the ward where I was working over my patients and said that I must go with them at once. I replied that it was out of the question, They said they were ordered to take me before the Magistrate at once.

"To avoid a scene I went with them, and on arrival there I had to wait until the Magistrate was ready to see me. While I was standing outside the court the Lieutenant on duty came up and asked the policemen who I was, and when they replied he berated them soundly for not putting me in a cell with the other prisoners.

"Acting on his instructions I was put in a cell with two men arrested for being drunk and disorderly, and kept there until 2:30, when Magistrate Butts sent for me to give my evidence in the assault case. After that he reprimanded me on my lack of respect for the dignity of the court, and I was set free to go back to my patients.

"I am going to carry the question up, and first I intend to see Dr. Brannan, President of the Board of Allied Hospitals, to find out whether Magistrate Butts has not exceeded his power."

DRESSER ON THE STAND.

Ex-President of Trust Co. of Republic Tells of Shipbuilding Deals.

SARATOGA, N. Y., June 28.—Daniel Leroy Dresser, former President of the Trust Company of the Republic, which is alleged to have suffered losses as a result of the financing of the United States Shipbuilding Company, testified to-day in the case of Charles H. Kavanaugh against former Directors of the company, that he had been asked to resign as President following his return from Europe in November, 1902, and had refused. He had gone to Europe in the interest of the shipbuilding company, he said, and while he was there the Sheldon Syndicate was organized to relieve the trust company of the shipbuilding obligations. When he learned of this upon his return, Mr. Dresser said he voiced his disapproval of the action.

Herbert L. Satterlee, one of the Directors, suggested that he resign, said the witness, but he refused. He not only refused but told Mr. Satterlee that he considered that the interests of the trust company had been sacrificed.

Mr. Dresser was on the stand throughout the day. Of the $6,000,000 which the shipbuilding company was obligated to pay on Aug. 12, 1902, in order to take over the constituent properties of the company, he said more than $4,000,000 had been secured, including a loan of $700,000 made to Lewis Nixon by the Trust Company of the Republic. The remainder, slightly less than $2,000,000, was loaned to Nixon by the trust company on Aug. 12, Nixon and Dresser giving their notes and shipbuilding collateral as security.

On cross-examination Mr. Dresser said that he attributed his financial misfortunes to the downfall of the shipbuilding company. Mr. Dresser denied that the trust company had ever speculated in its own stock. Occasionally, he said, he had purchased stock for outsiders whose credit was good, giving the company's check for it, but he had never attempted to manipulate the market in any way.

When the name of William D. Baldwin, one of the defendants, was called to-day as a witness there was no response, and his attorney stated that he had gone to Europe.

Counsel for Perry Belmont, another defendant, stated that Mr. Belmont left for Europe last December, was not under subpoena, and had no intention of returning until November. The court stated that the understanding was that the respective attorneys would produce their clients, and he thought Mr. Belmont ought to be in court.

Judge Herrick on behalf of Stuyvesant Fish said that his client had been in Europe since March.

GEORGIA FIREMEN SATISFIED.

Feel That with Pay Equal Whites Will Get Jobs from Negroes.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 28.—The award made by the Board of Arbitration in the Georgia Railway strike case is declared to be satisfactory to the road as well as to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. No appeal will be taken by either side.

Vice President Ball, speaking for the white firemen, said last night:

"The firemen never asked for the discharge of the negroes from the Georgia Railroad. When the board ruled that both races should receive the same pay for the same work, I am inclined to think they gave us all we asked, eliminating that seniority section. When you place the white man and the negro on the same pay basis, it is certain that the employer will secure the most competent laborer, not the cheapest."

The negro firemen were highly pleased when they learned that they are to get a substantial increase in pay, which they had not even thought of demanding.

DROEGE SQUARES ACCOUNTS.

His Personal Check for $10,000 Mailed to the State Controller.

Special to The New York Times.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., June 28.—The personal check of Oscar E. Droege, missing bookkeeper for the State Sanitarium at Raybrook, amounting to nearly $10,000, and which is said to square Droege's accounts with the State, has been mailed to the State Controller at Albany by Merle L. Harder, the Postmaster at Raybrook.

Droege left a letter inclosing it to Postmaster Harder, before he disappeared, with instructions to mail it to the State Controller after June 25, the time of the month on which it has been customary for him to make remittances. A warrant was issued on the charge of grand larceny in the first degree.

THIS BABY AN OLD SEA DOG.

James Lawrence, 11 Months, Has Crossed the Ocean Four Times.

A much-traveled youngster arrived on the Atlantic Transport Line steamship Minnetonka yesterday in the person of eleven-months-old James Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Lawrence of 120 Riverside Drive. Last August they took the baby to Europe, brought him home again in December, only to sail with him still again in the following month.

Thus in his 11 months of life young Lawrence has crossed the ocean four times. On his father's side Baby Lawrence is a descendant of the noted Lawrence of "Don't give up the ship" fame. His mother, a former Miss Hull, claims descent from Capt. Hull, who commanded the frigate Constitution.

So altogether Baby Lawrence is a very seafaring chap.

SAYS SHE'S MARCHESA MAY BE DEPORTED

Passenger Calling Herself a Noblewoman Detained on Ellis Island Pending an Investigation.

DOUBT ABOUT HER MARRIAGE

Authorities Not Certain That the Man Who Says He's Her Husband Actually Is.

Locked up in the detention room at the immigration station on Ellis Island is a dark-haired woman who says she is the Marchesa de Reymonde, holder of an ancient title, who last lived in Paris. The Marchesa, who is 27 years old, well dressed, and charming in manner, is detained because her right to enter this country is questioned by the immigration authorities.

She arrived here some days ago as a cabin passenger on the Greek steamship Themistocles. Her coming would have attracted but little notice but for a curious set of circumstances.

The Immigration Inspector, who questioned the Marchesa upon her arrival, was carefully noting her answers to his questions when she told him she was coming here to join her husband, Edouard Reymonde, who got here some weeks ago. The Inspector remembered that Edouard Reymonde had arrived here about a month ago on the White Star liner Oceanic. He was held for examination because, in spite of his distinguished appearance, it was thought he might not be able to make his way here. The man soon convinced the Board that he was able to take care of himself and he was allowed to land.

The Inspector conducting the examination of the Marchesa remembered that, and he was not impressed when the self-styled noblewoman gave as her destination 62 Baxter Street. There was, too, a seeming reticence on the part of the woman to give information about herself.

After the landing of the passengers from the Themistocles the Inspector found the Marchesa sitting disconsolately amid a pile of baggage on the pier in Brooklyn. The official noticed that some of her trunks bore the name of Madeline Espoinoy, and this, with the fact that the woman had told conflicting stories, led the Inspector to hold her for examination on Ellis Island.

The woman was taken to the island on the barge with the hundreds of steerage passengers, but she proudly kept herself aloof from them. Her trunks are all marked with a broad band of blue, and each bears on one side of the top the crown, denoting her rank. As soon as she could she sent word to her husband that she had been detained. Since then the latter has called upon his wife every day, and he is making a gallant fight to have her admitted into the country.

When Reymonde was examined by the officials on the Island he said he was an English subject, born in Russia. According to the officials he lives in a tenement at 221 West Twenty-seventh Street.

The immigration officials will not discuss the case, and the proceedings of the boards of special inquiry are not made public. It was said, however, that Reymonde has furnished no evidence that the young woman is his wife, and on that hinges the whole case.

PEACEMAKER SHOT DEAD.

His Effort to Stop an Italian from Shooting Ends in a Tragedy.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., June 28.—About the coffin of Antonio Mercendante tonight in his home in North Street, Madison, are six children and a widow, weeping bitterly. Last night about 10 o'clock Mercendante was shot through the heart by his friend, Philip Cassese while in the street trying to dissuade Cassese from killing some one with a revolver.

In All Souls' Hospital here is Ralph Gudege, with a bullet wound in his back near the shoulder blade. He, too, was shot by Cassese. It is said that he had been flirting with Cassese's girl and the latter had learned of it. Then Cassese brooded over the love affair until last night, when he concluded to do some shooting. He told his friends that if he met Gudege he would kill him.

The murderer had armed himself with a pistol and put a box of cartridges in his pocket. While Cassese was telling his friends about his supposed rival, Gudege came along. Cassese whipped out his revolver and fired at him. The bullet went wide and Gudege fled. Another shot was fired and then another! The third struck the fleeing Italian in the back and he fell to the ground.

Meantime Mercendante was pleading with his friend to stop shooting. Cassese only pushed him away and kept flourishing the revolver. He emptied six shots in the air and then reloaded.

Finally Cassese turned the revolver on the peacemaker and fired. Mercendante dropped dead and the murderer ran up North Street, still brandishing his pistol and threatening to shoot any one who interfered with him.

He went into Park Avenue and that was the last seen of him last night. This morning the police of Milburn picked him up in company with two negroes. He was brought to the county jail here.

DIVORCE FOR LIEUT. ABELE.

Wife of Naval Officer Charged with Gross and Habitual Intoxication.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 28.—A decree nisi was to-day granted by the Norfolk County Probate Court to Clarence A. Abele of Quincy, a Lieutenant in the United States Navy, from his wife, Elsie Manney Abele, on the grounds of gross and confirmed habits of intoxication. The wife is a daughter of Rear Admiral Manney of the United States Navy, and her present address is given as the Hotel St. George, New York.

The libel in the case was dated May 12, 1908, and it was filed in the Norfolk County Court on Oct. 28, 1908. It was reached for trial at the January session, and because of the prominence of the parties at interest and because of the sensational evidence introduced during the trial much interest was accorded the case.

Mr. and Mrs. Abele were married on Oct. 7, 1902, by the Rev. George C. Houghton at the "Little Church Around the Corner," in New York. At that time Lieut. Abele was attached to a vessel that was stationed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Since then he has traveled around the world, and at many points which his ship touched his wife joined him.

Mrs. Abele denied in toto all the allegations made against her.

Band Together to Aid Poor Mothers.

The incorporation of the Faithful Women of Charity was approved by Supreme Court Justice Giegerich yesterday, its objects being to assist as a voluntary organization poor women, especially needy mothers, and alleviate their wants, financial and otherwise. The incorporators are Bertha Fliesler, 101 Forsyth Street; Rosie Levin, 111 Forsyth Street; Annie Suderow, 154 Henry Street; Annie Rappaport, 148 Henry Street; Anna Grossman, 107 Forsyth Street; Annie Rosenfield, 97 Forsyth Street; Bertha Gorodetsky, 100 East Thirteenth Street; Annie Daniels, 253 Grand Street, and Annie Zunser, 107 Chrystie Street.

Call for New Wheel Guards in 2d Ave.

The Public Service Commission gave out an opinion yesterday by Commissioner Maltbie in which the commission disapproves the style of wheelguard in use by the Second Avenue Railroad and the Fifty-ninth Street line of the Central Park, North and East River Company. Commissioner Maltbie recommends that the cars be equipped with automatic trip wheelguards. These are now in use on the lines of the Third Avenue system.

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT HELD.

Magistrate Paroles Him After Arrest for Auto Speeding.

Cornelius Vanderbilt was a prisoner in the Yorkville Court yesterday afternoon on the charge of speeding his automobile in Madison Avenue at a rate of twenty-four miles an hour. After an examination Magistrate Finn paroled him to furnish a bond to-morrow morning.

Mr. Vanderbilt, who lives at 667 Fifth Avenue, was arrested in Madison Avenue by Policeman Faber of the East Fifty-first Street Police Station. The policeman alleged that the machine went twenty-four miles an hour between Fifty-third and Fifty-first Streets.

In court, to the Magistrate, Mr. Vanderbilt said:

"I don't question the policeman, but I had no idea I was going so fast. I followed behind a car for some distance, but as the car was going too slow, I tried to get ahead of it."

"We must take the evidence of the police, and I'll hold you in $100 bail for trial."

"I have no bondsman in court," remarked Mr. Vanderbilt.

Magistrate Finn looked at the papers again and then said:

"Oh, you are Cornelius Vanderbilt. I guess that you are good enough, and if I parole you will you produce bonds here to-morrow morning?"

"Most assuredly I will," replied Mr. Vanderbilt. "Thank you, Judge."

LETTERS FROM THE LAMBS.

Came to Mrs. McMullen Signed "Your Loving Marcus," Says a Witness.

Supreme Court Justice Seabury denied yesterday an application made by Benjamin J. McMullen, a salesman for the White Automobile Company, for a reduction of the temporary alimony of $12 a week he is paying his wife, Luella McMullen, pending the result of his divorce suit against her. The wife's application for an increase from $12 to $75 a week was also denied.

McMullen names Charles Leonard Fletcher, the actor, in his suit, and in opposing his wife's application for an increase in alimony alleged that his wife was kept well supplied with money by Fletcher and one Marcus Mayer.

Mrs. Emma Pepper, a witness for McMullen, living at 128 West Ninetieth Street, in an affidavit testified that "Marcus Mayer, an old man," called on Mrs. McMullen frequently, was introduced as her uncle, and that Mrs. McMullen had shown her letters received from the Lambs, one of which began, "My Darling Sweetheart." The letters, she said, were usually signed, "With love and kisses, your loving Marcus."

"When Mrs. McMullen heard of Justice Seabury's decision awarding her the $12 a week alimony," says Mrs. Pepper, "she said it was a good joke on McMullen, as she had plenty of money."

REVIVED BY JACK MUNROE.

Ex-Pugilist Brings Around a Heat Victim Who Fainted in Court.

"Jack" Munroe, who at one time aspired to the pugilistic championship of the world, until he met Jeffries, got in a bit of fine work yesterday afternoon in Justice Greenbaum's part of the Supreme Court.

Munroe, who is Mayor of Elk City, Idaho, is on here as an important witness for the defense in a suit brought by William Stewart Mitchell against Eric Hamilton Rose for an accounting in connection with some mining claims in the Cobalt district. The case is on trial before Justice Greenbaum.

Mr. Rose was on the stand yesterday afternoon, when the fierce heat of the courtroom caused him to faint and fall from the witness chair. A court attendant caught him as he fell. Justice Greenbaum adjourned court and had a doctor sent for. In the meantime Munroe sent for a pail of water, and, rolling up his sleeves, set about bringing Mr. Rose to in the most approved fashion of the ringmaster. By the time a doctor had arrived from the Hudson Street Hospital the ex-pugilist had his man in fairly good shape.

IRON CONCERN TO SHUT DOWN.

Dover, N. J., Company Weathered Other Panics, but Couldn't That of 1907.

Special to The New York Times.

DOVER, N. J., June 28.—When a few orders now in hand have been filled, the Morris County Machine and Iron Company's works here will be shut down indefinitely, owing to slack business conditions. Soon after the panic of 1907 the business of the concern fell off until within a short time it was operating at a loss. By agreement with the employes, with the exception of one department, a cut in wages was effected last February, but in spit of that the expenses of continuing business were greater than the income.

The company was organized fifty years ago, when it succeeded to the business of the late Mahlon Ford. Previous panics had been successfully weathered by the concern, all men being kept at work through the dull times of 1893 to 1896. It was the largest industry in Dover and employed hundreds of hands. Had the employes been willing to accept a further reduction in wages the shutdown could have been avoided.

BLAZE IN 7-STORY APARTMENT

Tenants of La Grande Taken Down in Elevators Amid Much Excitement.

Some exciting scenes attended a fire last night in the La Grande elevator apartment house, at Clinton and Grand Streets. The building is seven stories, and is tenanted by twenty-four families. The fire started on the fourth floor, occupied by Ephraim Greenspan, a jeweler.

The blaze was discovered by George Greenberg, a merchant, who notified Police Headquarters, and then turned in an alarm. It was just after 9 o'clock, and none of the inmates had gone to bed. The elevators, manned by Thomas Marion and Edward Hammersley, made continuous journeys until every one in the place had got out safely. There was much excitement among the tenants. The damage was $2,000.

CANARY DIAMOND TO BE SOLD.

Large Gem, Said to be Famous, Will Go at Auction.

A canary diamond three-quarters of an inch across and half an inch deep, said to be one of the most perfect yellow diamonds in existence, and, moreover, famous in the history of precious stones, will be sold at public auction at 708 Third Avenue at noon to-morrow. The ownership of the stone is kept secret.

The diamond weighs between twenty-five and thirty karats and is set in a cluster pin. Fourteen blue-white stones, weighing from one-half to one karat each, surround the canary gem. The diamond is in the vaults of the Hanover Safe Deposit Company.

George M. Webb Back from London.

George M. Webb, who went abroad to see his entries win prizes in the International Horse Show in London, but returned without having seen one of them exhibited, was a passenger on the Atlantic Transport liner Minnetonka, which got in yesterday from London. Mr. Webb left here with his string on May 13 on the Minnewaska. He was then so ill that he had to be carried on board the liner. The voyage did not result in the expected benefit, and he lay ill in a London hotel during all his stay in England. When he finally recovered so as to be able to return his horses had won their prizes and the show was over. His prize winners were Mary Glenor, a bay mare, and Lomo, who was teamed with her, and the team Laura G. and Pearl Onward.

Divorce for Mrs. Lida Gimbernat.

A decree of divorce was awarded to Mrs. Lida Caskin Gimbernat, who lives at the Hotel Windsor, Broadway and Fifty-fourth Street, from Jules Raymond Gimbernat, by Supreme Court Justice Dowling. The decision carries with it alimony at the rate of $100 a month to Jan. 1, 1910, and $50 a month thereafter. Mrs. Gimbernat obtains the custody of the two children, Consuelo, 6 years old, and Jules, 7 years old. The couple were married by the Rev. Dr. Parker Morgan in 1901. They separated in 1905.

Reading Restores 2½-Cent Fares.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—Following decisions by the Supreme and Common Pleas Courts that the two-cent-a-mile rate law passed by the Pennsylvania Legislature was unconstitutional, the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company to-day announced an increase in passenger rates from 2 to 2½ cents a mile on all one-way tickets, to take effect July 2. The present rate of 2 cents a mile was made when the law establishing that fare was passed by the Legislature.

OFFERS AMERICANS A FREE DINNER

American Embassy Association Advertises for Guests at $7.50 a Plate Banquet.

AT HOTEL CECIL IN LONDON

Object Not Subscriptions, but to Convince Traveling Americans We Should Own Embassy Buildings.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 28.—Any traveling American who happens to be in London on July 7 can obtain a high-class dinner with expensive wines included for the mere asking. Notices were displayed to-day at all the leading hotels, banks, exchanges, and other places where American travelers foregather, announcing that the American Embassy Association extended a cordial invitation to its first complimentary banquet to be held at the Hotel Cecil, July 7, to all male traveling Americans who may be in London on that date.

The posters stated that the object of the association was to promote the acquisition by the United States of permanent homes for its Ambassadors in foreign capitals, and intimated that the officers of the association, who include E. Clarence Jones, President; Charles M. Oelrichs, Charles M. Schwab, William B. Van Ingen, George Cromwell, Frederick Townsend Martin, and several other well-known New York business men, were not in need of funds, were not seeking subscriptions, and were giving the complimentary banquet with the sole object of bringing the cause it had in view to the notice of Americans in Europe.

Offices have been taken by the association at the Carlton Hotel, and circulars announcing the projected banquet and stating where and how invitations to it can be obtained are being sent out in a very thorough-going fashion. The arrangements made are that the Hotel Cecil shall provide the dinner at a cost of $7.50 per head for as many as may wish to come, up to 300, which is the seating accommodation of the banqueting hall engaged. I understand that should the applications for invitations to this free banquet exceed that total, the organizers are prepared to provide for an even greater number.

Clarence Jones, as President of the association, and Frederick Townsend Martin as a member of the Executive Committee, called upon Ambassador Reid to invite him to the affair. Mr. Reid regretted that his engagements would not permit him to attend, but expressed the opinion that the organizers of the banquet would have no difficulty in securing a large gathering. It goes without saying that the project is attracting considerable attention because of its novelty.

CADDY SAVES SOLDIER.

Newport Youngster Throws a Ladder to Drowning Coast Artilleryman.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 28.—Private James Claudell of the 110th Coast Artillery Company, stationed at Fort Adams, walked into the home of Policeman Timothy J. Harrington to-night and asked for the officer's son, William Carney Harrington, aged 12 years, a caddy at the Newport Golf Club.

"My boy is out. What can I do for you?" came the answer from the officer.

"Nothing much, but I want to thank him for saving my life from drowning Saturday night."

Then for the first time the father and mother of the boy heard the story. Claudell had gone into Brenton Cove between Lime Rock Lighthouse and Fort Adams for a swim, when he was seized with cramps. He yelled for help to comrades some little distance away, but they did not hear his calls.

Young Harrington had come from the golf club with other caddies for a swim, and as he reached the harbor front saw Claudell struggling in the water. A ladder was near at hand, and this Harrington threw overboard to Claudell, who had gone down for the third time. While under the water he caught the ladder, and by this means saved himself with the assistance of Harrington and his boy friends, who afterward summoned help from the soldiers near by.

Claudell waited at the Harrington home until the boy returned from the golf club and then thanked him heartily in the presence of his parents. Harrington, when he was thanked, replied: "Why, that was nothing."

AFTER STEAMSHIP AGENTS.

Williams Says Too Many Undesirable Aliens Come Here.

In pursuance of his policy to improve the class of immigrants coming into this country from Europe, William Williams, Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island, issued an order yesterday to the steamship companies warning them to exercise, through their agents on the other side, greater care in booking steerage passengers. Speaking on this subject, the Commissioner said yesterday that the number of deportations weekly had increased since Jan. 1 by nearly one-half and that the agents in Europe looked only at the passage money, and apparently did not care whether the alien was deported or not.

"On steamships arriving recently in this port," he said, "25 per cent., and sometimes more, of the immigrants had to be held at Ellis Island for further examination."

In the letter sent to the steamship agents he says:

"Certain steamship companies are bringing to this port many immigrants whose funds are manifestly inadequate for their proper support until such time as they are likely to obtain profitable employment. Such action is improper and must cease. In the absence of a statutory provision no hard-and-fast rule can be laid down as to the amount of money an immigrant must bring with him, but in most cases it will be unsafe for immigrants to arrive with less than $25, besides railroad ticket to destination, while in many instances they should have more.

"Only in instances deemed by the Government to be of exceptional merit will gifts to destitute immigrants after arrival be considered in determining whether or not they are qualified to land."

CITY BREVITIES.

B. Altman and M. Friedsam of B. Altman & Co. depart for Europe to-day on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. They will spend several months on the Continent.

Sheriff Foley appointed Walter T. Fitzsimmons a Deputy Sheriff yesterday to fill the vacancy made by the death of Deputy Sheriff Walkering. Mr. Fitzsimmons comes from the Twenty-sixth Assembly District. He has been in the harness business at 921 Sixth Avenue for twenty-five years.

United States Commissioner Shields, as custodian of the gas fund, reports that last week $180,619.30 overcharge money was repaid to 38,868 consumers. The total number of consumers repaid since the disbursement of the fund began is 810,304, and the sum paid amounts to $8,584,801.13.

James Perachey of 425 West Twenty-second Street was found drowned in a swimming pool at North Beach yesterday. His body was taken to Quinn's Morgue, Astoria.

DENOUNCE MAYOR JOHNSON.

Merchants' Board Declares That He Misrepresented Their Traction Attitude

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, June 28.—The Cleveland Retail Merchants' Board at a largely attended meeting to-day denounced Mayor Tom L. Johnson as a menace to the city and bitterly scored him for a circular issued Saturday in which he attacked merchants who are fighting the Schmidt three-cent fare franchise. Resolutions were adopted declaring that the Mayor had three times, over his signature, published a false statement that the retail merchants on the Citizens' Committee are demanding that car riders pay five-cent fare, instead of three-cent fare.

Regret was expressed that the city "has a public servant who will use the un-American method of boycotting citizens whose honest interests he has sworn to serve."

It was decided to ask all retail merchants in the city, whether members of the board or not, to join in the fight against Mayor Johnson and his traction policies. Members agreed to abandon vacation trips in order to be in Cleveland Aug. 3, the date of the referendum election, in order to work at the polls.

Cleveland Railway Directors late Monday ordered President Andrews to close a contract with N. W. Harris & Co. of New York for a loan to pay $3,028,000 due on bonds on the old cable lines and the East Cleveland lines. A new mortgage will be placed on Cleveland Railway property to secure new 5 per cent. bonds, which will be issued. These will be due Jan. 1, 1912.

HARVARD'S PET GOT LONELY.

President Lowell's Sister's Shaggy Sheep Dog on Vacation Jaunt.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 28.—When Harvard dismissed all her undergraduates for the Summer, Harvard's pet mascot got lonesome and went, too. He has gone away on his Summer vacation, and where, do you think?

To Chelsea?

It was not intended he should go, so he took French leave, and to-day President Lowell and his sister, Miss Amy Lowell of Brookline, who owns him, are anxiously awaiting tidings.

Harvard's pet is a great black and gray shaggy sheepdog, one of the kind that never wanders from the old fireside, unless there is some good academic, scientific, or psychological reason for so doing. It is a deep mystery why the old fellow went to Chelsea of all places. He might as well have gone to Bar Harbor or Sandusky. Yet to-day the Chelsea police received word to quit looking for Leon Ling, the Chink, and seek for Miss Lowell's sheepdog, who is supposed to be in hiding in that section. A reward awaits the sleuth who finds him.

The known facts consist of a description. He looks like a dog.

That is to say, he is black and gray, with a short tail, has a white spot on his nose, and four white paws. If found, no questions will be asked as to why he went to Chelsea.

ascertain. There have been all sorts of rumors, but they have fallen flat.

"We do not know what became of the clothes which Leon Ling appears to have aken from Elsie Sigel. We thought they might have been burned in the stove in Chong Sing's room, but an examination of the ashes indicated nothing.

Watching Newark Chinaman.

The Newark police learned yesterday that Li Sing, the Newark chop suey restaurant keeper, is a cousin of Chong Sing. Leon Ling used to visit Li Sing with Chong. The police of this city have not asked that Li Sing be arrested, but he is being watched by detectives to make certain that he will be on hand if he is wanted.

The various companies which control the majority of Chinese laundries in this city sent out notices to their employes yesterday warning them to be extremely careful of their conduct toward white women who may visit their laundries. The notices referred to the murder of Elsie Sigel, and suggested that all Chinamen ought to observe strict propriety in dealing with their women customers. This, it was explained, was part of the effort of the better class of Chinese to prevent prejudice against their race because of the Sigel murder.

CHINESE CHASED IN NEWARK.

Cry of "Leon" Sets Off a Crowd at an Open-Air Vaudeville Show.

Some one in the crowd watching an open-air vaudeville show in Electric Park, Newark, N. J., late last night shouted: "Leon Ling, the murderer of Elsie Sigel, is here!" thus attracting attention to three Chinamen who were in the audience. One of them was dressed in American style.

Instantly there was a commotion. As the crowd began to close in on the Chinese, the latter became frightened and ran through the park. This only added flame to the suspicion aroused, and the crowd gave chase.

After a long run the Chinamen squeezed through a break in the fence and got outside the park. Several citizens and two or three policemen followed them, and one of the Chinese turned and fired three shots from a pistol at the pursuers. Then he continued his flight and escaped.

The other two were caught and taken to the office of the Park Hotel. They were quickly released after proving their identity. The man wearing American dress, was not Leon, they showed. In fact, they did not even know the alleged Sigel murderer.

OPPOSES WOMEN MISSIONARIES.

The Rev. C. T. Studd, Back from the Orient, Says They Are in Danger.

The Rev. C. T. Studd, for ten years a missionary in China, returned yesterday on the Atlantic Transport liner Minnetonka. Mr. Studd expressed little surprise over the murder of Elsie Sigel.

"It is foolish, in fact, it is very wrong," he said, "to have Christian women giving religious teaching to Chinese men. For it must be remembered that the idea of the Chinaman is that a woman has no soul. To have a woman teaching him only lowers his opinion of her all the more. During our stay in China, my wife's work was limited to the teaching of Chinese women. The teaching of men was left to me. A woman faces constant danger in attempting to teach religion to Chinese men. The Chinaman is subject to a very bad temper. When his passions are aroused there is no limit to what he may do."

Mr. Studd and his wife have been in London for a year. They came here to attend the conference at Northfield, Mass.

EASTMAN VERDICT HINTS AT ACCOMPLICE

Coroner's Jury Declares That He Killed Woman "or Was Accessory."

INQUIRY TO BE DROPPED

Tragedy of Mrs. Woodill's Death May Never Be Fully Revealed—Wife Gets Property.

ST. MICHAELS, Md., June 28.—With the compromise verdict of the Coroner's Jury that Robert E. Eastman either killed or was accessory to the murder of Edith May Woodill, and the declaration of State's Attorney Taylor that he was through with the case, the strange dual tragedy, which has for nearly a week focused the eyes of the entire country upon this little out-of-the-way hamlet of Maryland's eastern shore, became a closed incident to-day.

Four of the twelve jurors who listened to the testimony at the reopened inquest refused to sign the verdict until the words "or accessory to the crime" were added to the draft which, approved by the majority, accused Eastman of the murder. None of the four dissenting jurymen would say that any other person than Eastman was responsible for the girl's death. They merely wished to protest, they said, against the manner in which the inquiry was conducted, declaring that much available evidence was not adduced.

There was some petty politics mixed up in the verdict, for some of the members of the jury have been bitter political enemies in Talbot County affairs.

The jury sat for a time to-day in the bungalow. Mrs. Eastman had visited the place earlier in the day.

Much of the testimony given before the jury made clear many points in the tragedy which heretofore have been matters of conjecture. The mysterious launch, which was reported as having been seen near the bungalow on the Sunday following the disappearance of Mrs. Woodill, did not materialize in the evidence adduced. Residents of the neighborhood of the bungalow were plied with questions as to the launch, but none had seen it.

No one was seen about the bungalow on the Sunday when Mrs. Woodill was slain. There was absolutely no evidence that any one other than Eastman could have been responsible for the crime. The final theory of the authorities is that Eastman was in need of money; that he probably had been getting money from Mrs. Woodill for some time; that he undoubtedly knew something of her past life and that he had been blackmailing her; that he attempted to continue this practice and the woman rebelled, intimating that she, too, had found out certain things about Eastman, and that if driven to it she would expose him.

Eastman's dread of serving a term in the penitentiary is well known. His wife has said that he told her he would commit suicide rather than be confined in prison. The pawning of the jewelry the authorities set down to the desire of Eastman to get away. When cornered the man decided that his race had been run and that he had better make an end of it all. As to why Mrs. Woodill went to the bungalow there was no evidence.

An interesting development of to-day was the finding of the scraps of a torn letter in the cracks of the bungalow floor. Little sense could be made from the fragments of the letter, but the writing was identified as that of Mrs. Woodill. The letter evidently was about the visit of some one to some place, to be "chaperoned or not as she saw fit." Whether or not the letter could have had any bearing upon the case there was no way of telling.

Mrs. Eastman was granted letters of administration to-day, and all of her husband's real and personal property will be turned over to her. She will go back to New York soon and return to the stage.

William Sutton, George Powell, and Robert Seth, all near neighbors of Eastman, were the important witnesses of the day. It was Sutton who went to visit the bungalow to ask Eastman—or Roberts, as he was then known—to attend a religious meeting. Sutton fixed the time of his visit definitely for the first time as between 5 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon. His testimony also fixed the time of the murder positively as Sunday night. Sutton said as he drew near the bungalow he heard voices within and knew that Eastman had a visitor or two.

He could not say how many voices there were, but he recognized that of Mrs. Woodill.

"I knew then that it was no place for me," said Sutton, "and I went away. I saw George Taylor's horse and buggy standing outside, however, and stopped to pick up a rein which had fallen beneath the horse's feet."

Sutton declared that Mrs. Woodill was speaking in an ordinary tone of voice.

A. P. HEINZE VISITS WISE.

Arranges to Testify Before Federal Grand Jury in Copper Inquiry.

Arthur P. Heinze, brother of F. A. Heinze, visited the United States District Attorney's office yesterday with his counsel, William Rand, Jr., to arrange with Mr. Wise for his testimony before the Grand Jury at an early date.

Heinze is wanted for the purpose of having him tell about the trunks of books of the United Copper Company needed by Mr. Wise, which he shipped to Butte, Mont., on May 20. He was convicted last Friday of obstructing justice in sending a witness wanted in the Federal investigation away to Canada, and the imposition of sentence was suspended until October, under instruction from Judge Ray that Heinze produce the missing books in the meantime.

SHOT SLEUTHS, GETS 19 YEARS

Long Sentence for Negro Who Wounded Brooklyn Detectives.

James Stokes, the negro who shot Detectives Gallagher and Steinle of the Brooklyn Detective Bureau while they were trying to arrest him in Flatbush a short time ago, was sentenced to two long terms of imprisonment in Sing Sing by Judge Dike of the County Court, Brooklyn, yesterday. The detectives had arrested him as a suspicious person in connection with several hold-ups of persons on the street, and were bringing him to the Flatbush Police Station when he suddenly pulled out his revolver and fired point blank at both detectives.

He escaped, and was arrested a few hours later, after the police dogs had trailed him to a vacant lot four blocks from the police station. He was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment on one indictment charging him with assault, and when he finishes this term he will begin to serve a sentence of nine years on another indictments for the same offense.

Both detectives were wounded by the negro's shots.

Have you ever considered the relation of "finish" to distinction in Apparel for Men?

For the majority of makers of men's clothes "finish" may be written "finis"—the end. Just the wind-up, the last stitch, ready for the label—and the wearer.

To our own craftsmen the word has a deeper significance. Pick at random any Saks garment and even though your eye be unpractised you will note that

All linings are "sized" with the greatest care. Unsightly bulging is impossible because they are cut in perfect accord with the outer cloths.

All vents are strongly sewed where the strain comes—no possibility of rips.

All stays are placed where needed to ensure absolute retension of shapeliness.

All shoulders are moulded into shape without superfluous padding.

BUELOW WILL RESIGN CHANCELLOR'S POST

German Premier to Stay Only Till Finance Measure Is Out of Way.

NO SUCCESSOR SELECTED

Buelow, with Title and Fortune, to Retire to Rome Whence He Came 12 Years Ago a Poor Man.

BERLIN, June 28.—Prince Bülow to-day authorized the announcement that he intends to retire from the Chancellorship of the empire in any event so soon as the pending finance reform measure is disposed of in one way or another. The Prince remains in office only temporarily to assist the endeavor to pass the bill.

The Kaiser has not yet given consideration to the question of a successor to Chancellor von Bülow, but the subject is one on which the members of the imperial entourage are busily speculating. The most probable choice is Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, Imperial Secretary of State for the Interior and Vice Chancellor. He has been in close contact with the Kaiser for some ten years as President of the Province of Brandenburg and Imperial Secretary, and his personal relations with his Majesty are most cordial and even affectionate. As Secretary for the Interior Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg has dealt with affairs between the Federated States and the empire, often most delicate in character, with uncommon success, and he has won the confidence of the various allied Governments. He is an able parliamentarian, but he never has had anything to do with foreign affairs, and in this direction his training is deficient. He is 52 years old, and has a great capacity for work.

In filling this office, however, the Kaiser has a wide choice, and he may consider Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, the Ambassador to Constantinople. The Baron, however, is not altogether agreeable to the Kaiser personally on account of certain incidents when he was Foreign Secretary, and had a violent controversy with Ernst von Koller, Secretary of State for Alsace-Lorraine, when Koller was Prussian Minister of the Interior. Among the other possibilities are Baron von Rheinbaben, Gen. von Löwenfeldt, and Gen. von Wedel.

Prince Bülow, who came from the German Embassy at Rome twelve years ago without a title to be Foreign Secretary, will go back to Rome and live in the villa recently purchased by him there at a cost of $500,000. Twelve years ago he was a poor man. He retires with a large private fortune and the rank of Count and Prince. On the day his Majesty gave him the latter title von Bülow was notified that his share of the estate of Herr Godfrey, the wealthy sugar merchant of Hamburg, amounted to $1,375,000. Herr Godfrey had never met Prince Bülow, but had become interested in his public career and left him this fortune.

The semi-official Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, commenting to-day on the various reports published tending to weaken the significance of Chancellor von Bülow's statement that he intends to leave office immediately after the acceptance or rejection of the Government's tax scheme, says:

"Prince Bülow besought the Kaiser to permit him to go at once, but his Majesty in the warmest terms expressed the wish that the Prince remain in office until the finance proposals had been put through the Reichstag."

ACTION ON CHINA LOAN.

Negotiations Opened with British, French, and German Bankers.

LONDON, June 28.—J. S. Morgan & Co., who have been designated to represent the American syndicate in the matter of the Chinese loan of $27,500,000 for the construction of the Hankow-Sze-chuen Railroad, have opened negotiations with the bankers in London, Paris, and Berlin concerned in the deal. Morgan & Co. have been fully posted regarding the attitude of the State Department.

A fortnight probably will elapse before anything definite comes from the negotiations. The Paris and Berlin bankers have been asked when and where it will be convenient to meet the Americans. J. Pierpont Morgan, who is at present in England, is taking a personal interest in the question.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 28.—A special mission from China to thank the Czar for sending an official representative to Peking on the occasion of the funeral of the late Emperor arrived here to-day. It is headed by Minister of Justice Tai Hongtse, who will be received in audience by the Emperor at Peterhof the end of the week.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 28.—The sessions of the Russo-Finnish Commission, under the Presidency of the Controller of the Empire, charged with a revision of the legislative relations between the Emperor and the Grand Duchy of Finland, opened in St. Petersburg to-day. A project is on foot to grant the Finns seats in the Duma and the Council of Empire.

NAPLES, June 28.—The American gunboat Scorpion, which will leave this port for Turkish waters on Wednesday, steamed out into the bay this morning to test her boilers. She returned this evening, the test being pronounced most successful.

MAY BE CONRAD HARMS.

Prisoner Believed to be Missing Bank Clerk Held in London.

LONDON, June 28.—A man who gives the name of Henry Clifford, but is believed by the police to be Conrad Harms, was remanded at Bow Street Police Court this morning for one week. Harms until recently was an employe of J. S. Bache & Co. of New York, and he was being sought by the police on the charge of having forged drafts for nearly $8,000 on the Swiss Bank Verein, the London agents of Bache & Co.

The prisoner, when arrested, was living with his wife in good style at a large hotel in Northumberland Avenue. He denies that he is Harms, but the bank officials have identified securities valued at about $5,000 which were found in his rooms.

Word was received yesterday at the District Attorney's office that the man under arrest in London was undoubtedly Conrad Harms, the young clerk who left this country last month, having been indicted on a charge of swindling J. S. Bache & Co. out of $8,000. Detectives from the District Attorney's office will sail shortly to bring the prisoner back.

Harms was employed by Bache & Co. on March 29 last as a clerk in the foreign department, at a salary of $10 a week. He came to the firm with a letter of recommendation from Harry Sutherland & Sons, bankers in London, and further assurance of good character was furnished by one of the largest joint stock banks in London.

The indictment charges that on May 7 Harms took a check on the Swiss Bankverein, London, from one of the firm's check books, and filled it out for £1,637 14 s., made payable to Parr's Bank in London. He then made a false entry on the stub to make it appear as though the check were for a trifling amount, payable to the order of E. Richards. After this, it is charged, he forged the firm's name to the check, and sent it to Parr's Bank, with instructions that it should be placed to his credit, as he expected to be in London before long.

He even managed to get the signature one of the firm to a letter of confirmation, which he then filled in and sent to the Swiss Bankverein in London.

On May 18, it is charged, James Gorman, a lawyer at 56 Pine Street, received an order for 100 pounds from Parr's bank, which was turned over to Harms to pay for his trip to London. It was about this time that he left the employ of Bache & Co., and disappeared.

His movements were traced, however, and it was discovered that he drew from time to time large sums from Parr's bank. When Harms found that he was being watched he wrote a letter to the firm admitting the theft and promising to pay all on the installment plan and volunteering a little advice on how to avoid similar thefts in the future. In the letter he wrote:

> I think it better for you to keep the matter quiet, because in case of publicity it will be known that your bookkeeping department did not notice anything twenty-five days after the check was drawn, fifteen days after it was honored by the Swiss Bankverein, and eight days after you had in New York the information of payment. This may injure the name of your firm, as with such bookkeeping your correspondents and customers would not feel safe.
>
> It does not interest you, but I must say that I had good intentions when you employed me, but Mr. Wollman let me understand that I should be either discharged or kept on $10 a week, which was unfair. If you wish to avoid such occurrences in the future, it should be arranged that the letter of advice should be written by the bookkeeping department, not by the foreign; from the bill book, not the draft book.

It was said at the office of Bache & Co. yesterday that the reference in Harms's letter to the time which had elapsed between the commission of the forgery and its discovery was somewhat garbled, the firm, as a matter of fact, having sent cable inquiries abroad the very day the notification of the draft against them had been received.

KAISER AIDS UNEMPLOYED.

Gives $7,500 to German Labor Exchange Association, Which Finds Jobs.

BERLIN, June 28.—The Kaiser has contributed $7,500 to the German Labor Exchange Association, an organization the object of which is to find work for the unemployed. The society has arranged for energetic support in the various German States, and the Prussian Cabinet has decided to include a liberal appropriation for it in the next budget.

The association purposes to grasp the problem of lack of employment in the most thorough manner, so that men without work can be brought into immediate contact with vacancies in any part of the empire.

MONEY SPENT TO GUARD JEWS.

Reactionaries in Odessa Now Charge Misuse of Municipal Funds.

ODESSA, June 28.—The municipality of Odessa, which is now in the hands of the reactionaries, has brought an action against the municipal officers of 1909 charging them with misuse of the city funds.

The disbursements included a large amount for the maintenance of a special militia against the anti-Jewish outbreaks.

ATTACK CHICAGO UNIVERSITY.

Baptist Preachers Suggest Inquiry, but Postpone Action.

CHICAGO, June 28.—An echo of the dropping of Prof. George Burman Foster from the Baptist Ministers' Conference of Chicago was heard at the meeting of the conference to-day when Dr. Johnston Myers offered a resolution for the appointment of a committee to investigate allegations that teachings at the University of Chicago are not according to the Baptist faith. The motion was withdrawn at the instance of Dr. John A. Earl, who said:

"It would do no good and might embarrass the conference if the resolution failed to carry. The university is before the bar of judgment for trial and will get what is due it soon enough."

Dr. Donald D. MacLaurin, in a letter, tendered his resignation from the conference, stating that while he did not support the teachings of Prof. Foster, he deplored the ousting of the latter from the conference. It is said that the resignation will not be accepted.

ARCTIC EXPLORER LIVING WITH TRIBES

Writes to the Natural History Museum, Detailing Wonderful Far North Adventures.

GETS 8,000-WORD DIALECT

Tells of a Report of Strange Ethnological Specimens to be Found in an Eskimo Village.

Whatever anxiety may have been felt at the American Museum of Natural History regarding the safety and health of the Museum's two arctic explorers who were wintering on the extreme north coast of Alaska is dispelled, so far as V. Stefansson, leader of the party, is concerned by a letter from him to Dr. H. C. Bumpus, Director of the Museum, received yesterday.

Mr. Stefansson, writing on Feb. 8 at Cape Smythe, near Point Barrow, the northernmost point of Alaska, says that his assistant, Dr. R. A. Anderson, is somewhere in the mountains, but he believes he is safe. At the time the letter to Dr. Bumpus was mailed Mr. Stefansson sent him a telegram, saying that he and Dr. Anderson were not starving, but could give no details of their struggles through the Winter in the brief message, and the communication received yesterday is the first detailed account which has come through since midwinter. The last letter before this was written in September of last year, and he says now that he cannot get another letter through before next September.

The telegram he sent in February reached here about a month later, having come to Nome by sledge, thence by wireless and the military telegraph line.

Mr. Stefansson now gives an interesting account of his work for the Museum in the long Winter, collecting folk tales, copying whole Eskimo dialects, and making physical measurements, tailor-wise, of the people. He tells also of encountering a windstorm so severe that they were afraid to open their caches for fear their collections would blow away, and were unable to travel, the dogs refusing to face the gale.

"Monday, the 19th October, myself and four Eskimos (one new born baby) started from Flaxman west along the coast," says the explorer. "It was probably Tuesday or Wednesday of the same week that Dr. Anderson left the island, intending to winter somewhere in the mountains south of Barter Island, which is fifty or sixty miles east of Flaxman.

A Hunt for Caribou.

"We traveled west slowly, following all bends in the coast in the hope of seeing caribou on the tundra. Near the Shagavanaktok River, and again some forty miles west of there, we saw herds of eleven each. The first we were unable to approach; from the second we got two animals.

"Near Beechey Point (just east of the Colville) we found the fresh trail of a polar bear going inland to hibernate. The Eskimo were of the opinion the animal was not far inland, so we pitched camp and myself and one native with a dog team took the trail. We traveled briskly for two days, but found no sign of the bear having stopped but a few moments here and there. He probably went to the mountains, which were in sight some twenty miles south of our turning point."

The explorer said that they finally abandoned the hunt, and, returning to the coast, started up the Colville. After two days' march from Beechey Point they came on the first houses, near the mouth of the Indian River. There they decided to make Winter headquarters.

"After about a week in this camp," continues the explorer, "I started with one man for Smith Bay. At our caché in Smith Bay we were delayed some five days by a storm, which made it inadvisable to uncover the cache for fear of light things blowing away. Even when the weather lulled a little it blew still so hard that our dogs would not face it. The northeasters at this time have almost the force and constancy of trade winds; this, in connection with a general desire for other reasons, made me start west with the intention of going as far as Wainwright Inlet, 100 miles southwest of Point Barrow. We arrived at Cape Smythe near the last of November, some six or seven days after the sun disappeared.

He Measured the Natives.

"At the kind invitation of Charles Brower, director of the Cape Smythe Whaling and Trading Company's station, of which he is part owner, I stayed with him from that time till Christmas, making physical measurements of the people, taking down folk tales, and compiling notes on the Point Barrow dialect. In all these things I received free and valuable assistance from the Rev. H. R. Marsh, M. D., missionary here for the Presbyterian Church and physician for the United States Board of Education. Dr. Marsh is the only white man I have seen who speaks real Eskimo fluently.

"The local schoolmaster, C. W. Hawksworth, (A. B., Bowdoin,) has been no less kind. In his house I have taken down stories or language notes nearly every evening with the help of a recently returned student from Carlisle.

"Since coming back here I have spent the time in copying a vocabulary of the Point Barrow dialect (about 8,000 words, with long explanatory and illustrative notes of sanae) and in getting some more linguistic notes. The mail leaves here Feb. 15, and I shall start east about that time. With the lengthening days I expect to go up the Colville toward the mountains, to try to locate some more Colvilleites. Although some of them have never seen white men, they are a disappointment in their sophistication—all sorts of white influence, (religious, commercial, &c.,) partly from native traders from Point Barrow, partly through immigrants and visitors that come yearly over the mountains from Kotzebue Sound."

In another letter to a friend at Pleasantville, N. J., regarding his plans for next Winter, Mr. Stefansson says that his trip to his prospective Winter quarters, which he describes as some 800 or 900 miles east of Colville, near the mouth of the Coppermine River, finds new interest from the fact that Eskimos have told him of a middle-aged man and a woman in one of the tribes living there who have fair hair, a thing hitherto unheard of among Eskimos.

"Now you know," he adds, "a pure-blooded Eskimo is as black haired and as stiff haired as any Japanese. With the disappearance of Franklin's two ships' companies in that neighborhood, and with the lost Icelandic colonies of Greenland in mind, the problem has interesting features."

GAYNOR ONCE MORE ATTACKS THE POLICE

Sharply Criticises Them for Threatening Raids on Harmless Sunday Amusements.

FREE GOVERNMENT MENACED

Incredible, He Says, That Men Get High Office Who Do Not Realize This or Defy the Law.

Justice William J. Gaynor of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, made another severe and characteristic attack yesterday on police methods in deciding an injunction case involving the operation of a carrousel or merry-go-round at Rockaway Beach on Sunday. He criticised the police for threatening "lawless raids," and declared that under our laws no police or other official could take the law into his own hands.

"It passes understanding," he said, "that officials may get into high office who have no realizing sense of these things, or else ignore or defy them. Should such a spirit spread and become general it would mean the destruction of free government."

The matter before Justice Gaynor was an application by the Rem Recreation Company, which operates a carrousel at Rockaway Beach, for an injunction restraining the police from interfering with the operation of the merry-go-round on Sunday, as had been threatened. The company contended that while the merry-go-round was run under a common show license, it did not come within the class of shows prohibited by the ordinance enacted by the Aldermen in 1907. It was alleged that the police had nevertheless stopped the operation of the carrousel on Sundays, and had also threatened to arrest the proprietors should they open the place on Sunday. Justice Gaynor declined to issue the injunction, saying that the idea that the head of the police intended to carry out the threat seemed too incredible to serve as a basis for an injunction order.

"It is for those in chief rulership over the city," said Justice Gaynor, "first to set an example for all others by stopping the city's merry-go-rounds, swings, swanboats, &c., to which we take our children on Sunday, and then they will be in a position to stop others. If it be a criminal offense to run a merry-go-round at Rockaway Beach or Coney Island on Sunday it is the same criminal offense to run it in the city's parks or elsewhere, for the Sunday statutes make no distinction of place. It would be pitiful to see a great city in the hands of officials who could not see these things without being reminded of them.

"There was once a period of time when it was known of all that no one could do anything at Coney Island without buying peace and permission therefore from the person or persons who ruled the place by sheer brute force in defiance of law, and threats were used to make every one pay up.

"Unfortunately, like threats, freely made at the opening of every Summer season, only to be abandoned in two or three weeks, give rise to the widespread assertion, however unfounded, that the reign of such extortion was never completely overthrown. If any alleged criminal offense be committed, the police should summon or bring the offender before a court or Magistrate, whose decision should be respected and followed by the police authorities, and not railed at or defied.

"Law and order must be enforced, but in an even and orderly manner. It cannot be enforced in this or any other community in a lawless manner. No police or other official is permitted under our system of government to take the law into his own hands. Ours is a Government of laws, not of men, and no official may proceed except in the way and within limits prescribed by law for his direction and government. I feel it my duty as a judicial officer to speak plainly about this matter, for all of our Judges are being applied to weekly for these injunctions to prevent threatened lawless police raids, when the whole matter ought to be settled by orderly arrests and hearings thereon. Many doubtful questions are involved, and our laws do not permit them to be summarily and violently dealt with by any official, but only upon due judicial hearing."

True Detective Stories

BY

A. L. DRUMMOND

Former Chief U. S. Secret Service

"Three Women and a Man" is the title of the seventeenth story in this book. If it were the only story in the volume, the book would still be notable. Women read it and almost mistrust their eyes. Men read it and marvel at this wonderful narrative of feminine folly and fashion, wealth and wickedness. Yet the story is absolutely true, and the women and the men are still living in New York; still rich; still socially prominent, because they have kept their secret.

There are sixteen other stories. They range from the banks of the Red River, in the days immediately following the Civil War, to Broadway as it is to-day. The biggest, brainiest criminals of almost half a century—both men and women—pass in review before the reader as this grizzled Ex-Chief of the United States Secret Service tells his tales. No need is there in his narratives for the imaginative touch of the novelist. He has done the detective work he describes and lived the stories he tells. Between these detective stories that happened and those dreamed by a novelist, there is all the difference that exists between a war story told by a man who never saw a battle and that of an old campaigner who can truthfully say: "I was there. I saw what I shall tell you. I heard the booming of the great guns—I can hear them yet."

From Farm to Fountain

The choice Milk, Cream and Eggs for Riker Soda and Ice Cream come direct from the Farm

Direct Buying is the Reason Riker Drug Stores Can Give You Better Prices and Better Quality.

You can't travel from New York to Boston by way of Buffalo as cheaply as you can by going the most direct route.

You can't buy goods as cheap if they come to you the long route, through many hands.

Every handling demands a profit.

Riker receives goods only by the direct route, and this means from farm and factory direct to consumer.

This makes it easier to maintain quality, too, because the route is just as short and direct for the return of unsatisfactory goods to the factory as for receiving them in the first place.

In other words, the route of inspection and for fixing responsibility is quick and direct.

There is no escaping responsibility by trying to put the blame on the other fellow.

A few suggestions for test:

RIKER'S ANTISEPTIC TOOTH POWDER, 15c
Equal in Quality to any sold at 25c

RIKER'S VIOLET CERATE, 50c
Has more value and merit by one-third than any competing goods at the same price.

EXPECT TAXICAB LAW WILL NOW BE SIGNED

The Mayor After a Hearing Intimates He Will Approve the Measure.

OWNERS PLEAD AGAINST IT

Provision Against Charging a Return Fare the Clause to Which They Object Most Strongly.

After holding a public hearing yesterday on the ordinance recently passed by the Aldermen providing for the regulation of taxicab fares and the inspection of taximeters by the city, Mayor McClellan intimated that he would sign the measure. The ordinance fixes a fare of 60 cents for the first mile for four-seated taxicabs, in place of the 70-cent charge now universal. When these vehicles first appeared in the city they nearly all charged only 50 cents for the first mile. This rate is fixed in the ordinance for two-seated taxis.

Legislation along these lines has been before the city authorities for some time. The Mayor recommended it in his last annual message. An ordinance similar to the one now before the Mayor was drawn by Francis V. S. Oliver, Jr., Chief of the Bureau of Licenses, in whose hands it is proposed to put the regulation and inspection of taxicabs, and was introduced before the board by Alderman Dowling. It was referred to the Law Committee and hearings were held on it. The taxicab people opposed the measure strenuously, declaring that the rates fixed were confiscatory and that they would be driven out of business if the present charges were cut. They declared, however, that they would welcome the inspection by the city of the taximeters. The ordinance was reported with all reference to rates left out, and passed by the Aldermen. It then went to the Mayor, and was vetoed by him and sent back to the Aldermen with instructions to consider the matter again. The original ordinance was then reintroduced and passed.

William J. Moran, counsel for a large number of the taxicab companies in the city, appeared before the Mayor again yesterday to oppose the ordinance. He declared that one of the things which the operators object to most in the ordinance is that it prohibits them from charging a return fare, even on long rides. He said that a taxicab must necessarily run many dead miles in a day, and that if the owners were not allowed to charge a return fare on a long ride the loss would be heavy.

"It seems to me that you are asking a great many privileges," commented the Mayor.

"We must," replied Mr. Moran. "Our expenses are so large that we cannot live under less favorable conditions than present themselves to-day. The present rate was not fixed arbitrarily, but is the result of competition. However, we do not object to the general regulation by the city of the traffic."

"In other words," interrupted the Mayor, "you want regulation, but regulation in your own way."

Alderman Dowling spoke for the ordinance. He urged the Mayor to sign it, declaring that with two vetoes it would be very difficult to get the Aldermen to take action on the matter again.

"I think your Honor can see," said he, "what object these companies have in view, and have had for years—the shutting out of competition of the small owner of cabs and taxicabs. They want high rates, exclusive use of stands, and to be allowed to pick up fares in the streets. At night they would line the sidewalks in front of the hotels, restaurants, and theatres, and in the day time be running all over town picking up fares."

JUST A PLAIN CELL FOR KUHNE

Justice Kelly's Decision Causes Uneasiness in the "Alimony Club."

The efforts of Capt. August Kuhne of the Brooklyn Detective Bureau to break into Sheriff Hobley's "Alimony Club," which contains all the comforts of home, have been thwarted. Supreme Court Justice Kelly yesterday decided that Kuhne must serve his sentence of thirty days for contempt of court in a common, hot cell in the criminal prison in Raymond Street.

Capt. Kuhne was found guilty of contempt by Justice Burr for disobedience of a court order in photographing Frank Jenkins, a banker. The Court of Appeals sustained the ruling of the lower court and last week Kuhne went to Raymond Street Jail.

There was that in the opinion of Justice Kelly which caused uneasiness among the members of the Alimony Club, and inspired the sudden withdrawal of a number of applications for membership. The notion has long prevailed in Brooklyn that membership in the club carried with it the right to frequent "tubbin," meals a la carte, bridge whist, magazines and like comforts, and amusements.

This tradition, however, was shattered yesterday by Justice Kelly when he said the idea that a civil prisoner had the constitutional right to a hotel accommodation was erroneous, and the Alimony Club members were fearful that the Sheriff, in accordance with this ruling, might reduce them to the vulgar fare served to the coarse folks entertained in the criminal annex.

PROMOTER MITCHELL BAILED.

British Government Caused His Arrest on a Mining Sale Fraud Charge.

Judge Hand in the United States Circuit Court yesterday released William Mitchel, a promoter, in $3,000 bail pending the completion of the trial of a suit brought by Mitchell against a London banking firm. Mitchell was arrested last week at the instance of the British Government on fraud charges connected with the sale of an option on a Nipissing mining property.

It was also asserted that he obtained $5,000 on fraudulent representations from Alexander C. Ross, a member of the Canadian Parliament.

When Mitchell was arrested last year, United States Commissioner Alexander committed him to the Tombs without bail to await examination.

COUNT GOT $500 ON FIANCEE'S NOTE

Banker Now Sues to Recover the Money, and the Engagement Is Off.

SHE'S A WEALTHY WIDOW

He Is Said to be a Cousin of Count Szchenyi, Who Wedded Gladys Vanderbilt.

Michael Uberall of 31 Broadway, an Austrian banker, has brought suit against Mrs. Maud Howard Bryan, formerly of Portland, Ore., but now of the Rochelle Apartments, 57 West Seventy-fifth Street, this cty, to recover $500 that Mr. Uberall says his nephew, J. V. Uberall, let Count Kalman de Csaky Koroszejh and Adorjan of Hungary have in May. The note on which Mrs. Bryan is sued was signed by her and indorsed by the Count.

Anton Gronich of 203 Broadway, attorney for Mr. Uberall, said yesterday that the note fell due on May 25 and that on that date it was presented through a New York bank to Count Casky for payment. For some reason not disclosed in the papers in the case, the Count failed to pay the note which was protested and a protest fee of $1.27, which is also sued for, had to be paid by Mr. Uberall.

After the Count failed to pay the note Mr. Gronich said that Mr. Uberall made an effort to get Mrs. Bryan to pay it, but the widow, who had been previously announced in the newspapers as engaged to the Count, apparently did not feel that she was called upon to pay the note.

According to the papers in the case, the not signed by Mrs. Bryan and indorsed by the Count was dated Feb. 25, 1909, two days before the engagement of Mrs. Bryan and Count Csaky was announced. The note was payable in three months. The Count took the note to J. V. Uberall, who, according to Mr. Gronich, had known him in Hungary, and Mr. Uberall gave him the $500 it called for. J. V. Uberall later transferred the paper to his Uncle Michael, who is the plaintiff in the case.

Count Csaky is the son of Count Rudolf Csaky of Syrpes. He was born in Budapest thirty years ago, and was educated at the Hungarian Military Academy in that city. After his graduation he received a Lieutenant's commission in the Royal Hungarian Hussars. He is said to be a third cousin of Count Szchényi, who married Miss Gladys Vanderbilt of this city.

The present wife of Jan Kubelik, the violinist, was at one time the wife of Count Csaky. She obtained a divorce and married the violinist.

It was on Feb. 28 of this year that the newspapers announced the engagement of the Count and Mrs. Bryan. It was stated then that the engagement was the outcome of a courtship of five months, and that the marriage was to follow within a few weeks. At that time Count Csaky was seen by a TIMES reporter, to whom he talked freely of his engagement to Mrs. Bryan. He said that the wedding had been set for the following week, but that it had been postponed for reasons he did not disclose. There were some matters that had to be settled, he said.

"Those matters," he added, "are not financial, for I would marry Mrs. Bryan if she did not have a cent. I did not come to the United States seeking a rich girl."

At New Rochelle it was said yesterday that Mrs. Bryan was probably out of town, and no one would venture an opinion as to when she would return. None of the attendants would admit knowing Count Kalman de Csaky Koroszejh and Adorjan of Hungary.

EVELYN THAW'S SNAKE LOOSE.

Pet Reptile Crawls Down a Rain Spout and Frightens the Neighbors.

A pet king snake, about nine feet long, belonging to Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, escaped from her apartment at 31 West Thirty-third Street shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning and created some little excitement in the neighborhood.

Dwellers in the building in the rear of the West Thirty-third Street building saw a snake of large proportions crawling down the rain spout and notified Police Headquarters. Policeman John T. Carberry was sent to the house, and there found the janitor, John Maloney, holding the snake at bay with a clothes prop. Carberry and Maloney together managed to get the reptile back into the basket in which Mrs. Thaw usually kept it.

Mrs. Thaw was not at home when the snake escaped, but her maid was much excited for fear it would get away. She and the neighbors were greatly relieved when the snake was back in the basket and the lid fastened down.

Brill Clothes

Thousands of Brill Summer Comfort Model Suits, Usual $18.00 and $20.00 Value, $13.50

"How can Brill stores sell $18.00 and $20.00 value suits at $13.50?"

"If they are worth $18.00 and $20.00, then why don't they sell them for $18.00 and $20.00?"

Human nature to make the above remarks. We hear them every day in our stores.

If we had paid full, regular prices for the fabrics we would have to ask you $18.00 and $20.00.

We bought the fabrics direct from the mills, before election last year, at prices that are to-day more than 1-3 under market value.

The trimmings were the result of several advantageous import orders and direct mill affiliations.

The tailoring was done during dull seasons, by orgnaizations who tailor for Brill stores alone, under a no-expense selling, designing and manufacturing agreement that makes possible $18.00 and $20.00 standard tailoring at $13.50.

These are the reasons why these $18.00 and $20.00 value garments are possible in Brill stores at $13.50

The Brill policy, which demands that every trade advantage possessed by Brill stores must be turned to the advantge of Brill customers, does not permit of the selling of these garments at $18.00 and $20.00, because Brill stores grew to be big stores not by extra profits but by extra values for Brill customers.

HOPE FOR THE NEGRO.

The sequel to the Georgia firemen's case promises to be more interesting than the case itself. Only those directly interested can care about the wages or conditions of employment of a comparatively small number of men, but all Americans are interested in the maintenance in good faith of an award obtained in accordance with statutory process and involving racial and political issues of fundamental importance.

A Georgian and an Alabaman, both men of distinction, have agreed that the striking white firemen were wrong, and they award the negro firemen something where they asked for nothing. They are to keep their places, and their wages are to be increased on a scale, as it is said, of equal pay for equal work. The wages may be equal, but it is sure that the whites would not accept the same money with a disqualification for promotion. Negroes cannot become engineers, and this was one cause of the trouble. By long and faithful service as firemen they displaced whites and acquired privileges as firemen which the whites coveted. This is a purely economic matter thus far, the political and racial aspects being created by outsiders. It was alleged even in an argument before the arbitrators that an overwhelming public sentiment would not tolerate such a decision as has now been reached, and that it would be nullified by bloodshed.

This is not a question of the right of the negro to social or political equality. It is a question of his right to live, for the right to work is the right to subsistence. There is no constitutional right of the whites to any particular mode of livelihood, but there is a constitutional right of the negro to earn his living in any lawful way. The railways also have their right to exist economically, that is, by the employment of any laborers suitable to the work, at rates mutually satisfactory. These are the conditions which were disturbed by a lawless element of the community expressing prejudice which should be checked primarily by public sentiment, and if necessary by the strong arm of the State.

Doubtless the sentiment of the South is divided upon the subject, which makes it all the more necessary that the better element of the South and the general sentiment of the North should support each other. There has at no time been evidence that the sober and responsible Southerners were hostile to the negro firemen, who are important merely as the representatives of negro wage earners in general. For it is evident that if the negroes are to be expelled from one position of right they are weakened in respect to all their rights. The case illustrates BOOKER WASHINGTON'S argument that North and South would not everlastingly fight over the negro. Politics, religion, and education had not succeeded in solving the negro question, but Mr. WASHINGTON thought that business would solve it. Business draws no color line. The commission awards an equal right to equal pay for equal work, and an equal right to work.

A NEW ARM AGAINST DIVES.

The co-operation of the State Excise Board and the police for the more effectual regulation and suppression of the worst resorts, carried on either as Raines Law Hotels or simply as what are known to the police as dives, promises such excellent result that it is surprising that it has not long since been adopted.

The superiority of the process over that previously employed lies in the fact that a licensed place once convicted of having been conducted as a disorderly place loses its license for a year, and the business of selling liquor cannot be conducted in it by the proprietor, the lessee, or any one else. Moreover, cases of this sort are brought directly to the Supreme Court, where they are dealt with in a manner quite different from that which is only too often possible in the lower courts. Mere fines have no terror for men engaged in the revolting business carried on in these places. They are paid as a part of the expenses, for which the profits amply suffice. But the suppression of all business for a year, with the difficulties that may surround the renewal of the license at the expiration of the time, means practical ruin for that particular enterprise. If the Excise Commission and Gen. BINGHAM continue as they have begun, the change for the better will be substantial.

KIPLING TO LLOYD-GEORGE.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW has lately been denounced as a "Sissy," and other men of light and leading have been placed in the same category, one of the signs of "Sissyism" being described as an inability to write English so that the half educated may clearly understand what one is saying. By this token, and others, Mr. RUDYARD KIPLING is clearly no Sissy. He is an educated man who writes so well, when he wants to, that half educated and uneducated alike may understand him. We have seen but one stanza of his new polemic, "The City of Brass," but that suffices to show that he has, as of old, the courage of his convictions, the gift of forcible, direct expression, the power of invective.

The dalliance of the Liberal Government of Great Britain with Socialism and the other forces of unrest is his subject. He may be a bit unfair, but the unfairness of Mr. LLOYD-GEORGE'S Socialistic budget and the attempt of Mr. ASQUITH'S Government to hold its majority by enlisting the support of the enemies of all Governments move a man of Mr. KIPLING'S sort mightily:

> They said: Who has hate in the soul? Who has envied his neighbor?
> Let him arise and control both that man and his labor.
> They said: Who is eaten by sloth? Whose unthrift has destroyed him?
> He shall levy a tribute from all because none has employed him.
> They said: Who has toiled? Who hath striven and gathered possession?
> Let him be spoiled; he hath given full proof of transgression.

Of course the Asquith Government is not building ships or recruiting troops fast enough to please Mr. KIPLING. He is insatiable in that respect. He is in touch with any policy or system which has for its aim the conquest of foreign foes of Britain. He echoes ROBERTS and ROSEBERY in predicting disaster unless the nation puts on a more warlike aspect. Ramparts must be fortified, amicable relations with the colonies strengthened or the State will pass "from the roll of the nations in headlong surrender."

It is a pity that KIPLING'S dilemma has two horns. If there is really danger to Great Britain from foreign enemies, this is clearly a time for all true Britons to stand together and make the best of their hardships at home. The arms of Mr. ASQUITH'S administration must be upheld as those of Lord SALISBURY'S were in the South African trouble. But we have an idea that foreign invasion is a sheer bogy, while KIPLING'S translation into verse of the Government's home policy is apt, novel, and sure of effect.

TAXATION, SUPERVISION, AND CONTROL.

Our neighbor The World argues that the President's Corporation Tax bill is not so bad, after all. Most of the objections brought against it, The World thinks, "are founded on mistaken theories," and it continues in this wise:

> To call this measure a far-reaching step in the direction of centralized Federal control of all the business of the country is ridiculous. The Government undertakes to control nothing except its own revenue. No rules and regulations are prescribed for the conduct of any man's business. No attempt is made to classify corporations as good or bad, and to exclude from inter-State commerce any business that does not measure up to the moral standards of some enlightened bureaucrat. There is no Federal license lunacy about the measure, and no stretching out toward a National incorporation law.

The policy which it pleases our contemporary to describe as the "Federal license lunacy" is that one of Mr. ROOSEVELT'S many policies, repeatedly urged and advocated, by which he hoped to secure effective Federal control over the business of corporations. In the course of his ambitious labors for "the moral regeneration of the business world" he reached the conclusion that control over corporate activities might be secured through a system of Federal licenses revocable for misbehavior. He did not limit the working of the system merely to corporations doing an inter-State business. He said in his Provincetown speech that "almost every big business concern is engaged in inter-State commerce." He frankly avowed that most of the larger corporations of the country would come within the scope of the License act. Its purpose was not to extend the power of the Government—he insisted that the power already existed. But he did insist that a license law would mean "that there should be an extension of Federal activity." State control, he argued, was a delusion. Better methods must be provided "for the exercise of control through the authority already centralized in the National Government by the Constitution itself." That is the only power that could exercise control "in thoroughgoing fashion." Mr. ROOSEVELT made it perfectly clear what he was driving at in his license policy.

In President TAFT'S message of June 16, urging the enactment of a Corporation Tax, he said:

> If now, by a perfectly legitimate and effective system of taxation, we are incidentally able to possess the Government and the stockholders and the public of the knowledge of the real business transactions and the gains and profits of every corporation in the country, we have made a long step toward that supervisory control of corporations which may prevent a further abuse of power.

Things equal to the same thing are equal to each other. The "same thing" in this case is supervision, regulation, control. Mr. ROOSEVELT avowedly aimed at control with his Federal license, Mr. TAFT avowedly aims at control with his Corporation Tax. We are afraid there is no "mistaken theory" in the assumption that Mr. TAFT'S tax is really a measure of centralized Federal control over the business of the country, and is in that respect indistinguishable from what our neighbor calls the "Federal license lunacy."

The World seeks to establish the bland and innocent quality of the Corporation Tax law by comparing it with the laws of this State relating to the collection of personal taxes from individuals. If they are unwilling to accept the assessment levied against them, they must make sworn statements as to money in banks, bonds and mortgages, debts, and all property liable to be taxed. "Yet," says The World, "we have never heard New York's personal tax law denounced as a scheme to enable the State to regulate every man's private business."

The analogy is altogether misleading. The Personal Tax law of New York State has one aim, and one only. It is to secure revenue. The law and the officers who enforce it in nowise concern themselves with the manner in which the money they lay claim to is earned. They seek no power of regulation and control over the taxpayer's business affairs. That is precisely what the President does seek in this Corporation Tax law. He says so.

THE ORTHODONTISTS.

The sixty dentists, more or less, out of 50,000 in the United States who have become orthodontists or "tooth straighteners" will note the significance of the report made by the Bureau of Municipal Research upon the teeth of 500 school children between 14 and 16 who have applied for their "mercantile papers." Among 456 of them were found 2,808 unsound teeth—over 6 to a child—and of these 257 cannot be saved.

Unsound teeth are a potent predisposing cause of dyspepsia. Dr. OSLER says that dyspepsia is one of the chief causes of intemperance. These children, who represent the average in this city's schools, have been improperly reared from their infancy. The condition of their jaws is not occasioned by poverty—it is ignorance pure and simple. Dr. R. C. NEWTON says in The Popular Science Monthly for July that the children of savages, Hottentots, and Eskimos are better equipped with teeth than civilized children because they are never fed on "pap." The children are no longer made to chew corn bread, Boston brown bread, and "rye and injun," which require genuine mastication and insalivation. The infant foods, the predigested breakfast foods, and the starchy concoctions that give the teeth no chance for exercise are primarily to blame.

But during childhood and youth the bone that grows about the roots of teeth is in a plastic state. It can be wielded almost like wet mortar or cement. The faults of diet can be corrected by artificial conformation of the jaws. Jaws can be made to spread, prominent teeth may be reduced, defective "bites" may be corrected, and the whole set, if too large for its constricted sockets, may be accommodated by an ingenious system of wiring and temporary pressure. Parents and children may be educated in the care of the teeth—a legitimate function of the public schools. Private charitable agencies can hardly effect more permanent benefits than by attending to the dental deficiencies of the poor. There is work a-plenty for them, for the public hospitals, and for the dental colleges in the new work of education and prevention. And they must be taught this work by the orthodontists.

THE OBLIGING SEA CAPTAIN.

Capt. DUNNING of the Slavonia is the victim of his own generosity. To please sixty of his passengers by giving them a glimpse of the Azores he steamed out of his course and lost his vessel. The fault is all his own, because the passengers had no responsibility in the matter. It is strange that sixty men and women should unite to induce a sea Captain to disobey orders, for clearly it was, technically, disobedience of orders for the Captain of the Slavonia to take his vessel out of the direct course to Gibraltar, unless compelled to do so by weather conditions. The Slavonia, in a fog, entered a small bay on the coast of Flores and grounded at 2 o'clock in the morning. Happily there was no loss of life and the cargo may be saved.

The adventurous passengers were taken off in lifeboats, and it is narrated that none of them was frightened. It is to be hoped that more than one of them felt ashamed, for they had placed an experienced and esteemed ship Captain in a very bad situation. Capt. DUNNING will not lack sympathy, but that will not help him much. It will likely be a long time before another Captain takes his ship out of its course to permit his passengers to see something not in the prescribed line of travel.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Questionings About a Postponement. So far as we are aware, it is only custom, helped out a little, perhaps, by the law as to the maturing of promissory notes, which decides that holidays of fixed date falling on Sunday shall be celebrated the next day. Now that Saturday is for many people a half holiday, and for not a few a whole one, the following of this habit results in all these cases in what amounts to a three-day break in working routine—a consequence viewed with approval, doubtless, by everybody whose salary or wages go on during these little vacations or with whose income from business they do not too seriously interfere. When the Fourth of July comes on Sunday, however, there is a special reason why some of us regret that the celebration doesn't take place a day too soon instead of too late to coincide with the anniversary.

The special reason is that so would the rather dreadful manifestations of our patriotism be the sooner over. Avoided they cannot be, apparently, while so large a majority, or at least so efficient a fraction, of us take such a keen delight in the mere making of violent and explosive noises that for the sake of thus demonstrating our naïve and barbaric youthfulness we are willing annually to incur all the assorted losses of a small war. By having our Fourth this year on the 3d instead of the 5th, not only would it be the sooner over, which is something, but we would be spared two preparatory days of desultory popping and banging—days even harder to endure than the great day, partly because the explosions are then more widely spaced, and therefore more disturbing to sensitive nerves, and partly because one's irritation is increased by the knowledge that all this anticipatory din is utterly illegal and ought to be stopped by the police, but isn't.

Of course the postponement delights the small shopkeepers who deal in cheap fireworks, and they, as many a Fire Commissioner who was tempted to do his plain duty has discovered, are a highly influential section of the community. It also delights all boys, big and little, and most of all it pleases those who want a rest, this hot weather, and are so circumstanced that they can go somewhere and get it for three days instead of one. Still, one does recur again and again to the question—Why should the Fourth be on the 5th instead of on the 3d?

Aviators Put Under Restrictions. If the brothers WRIGHT have determined, as reported, to sell their aeroplanes, not to anybody with $7,500 and the inclination to invest it in one of the machines, but only to people who will promise to use them only in the ways which the inventors deem safe as they view safety, and proper as they view propriety, it is certain that they will stick to their determination, whatever its effect may be on "business." For never were there two men with a firmer confidence in their own judgment or more suavely obstinate in following it. Occasionally they have to listen to advice, but apparently they never ask for it, and the occasion when they followed it has yet to make its way into print. Unlike other obstinate people, however, they attend with remarkable strictness to their own affairs, and they endure with outward composure, if not exactly with grace, the burden of their fame.

It seems, or, at any rate, a would-be purchaser of a Wright aeroplane is quoted as saying, that they will not let the thing be used as an "attraction" at fairs and shows, deeming that beneath the dignity of an aerial navigator worthy of the name—and of a Wright machine. Underlying this reason, presumably, is the conviction that the art of flying will not best or most rapidly be developed by men who think only of exploiting the curiosity of gaping crowds, and that serious investigators and experimenters would be deterred from joining in work in which showmen were the most prominent features. This scruple of the WRIGHTS is a bit fanciful and far-fetched, but it fits in with their curious combination of practicality and idealism.

Another demand which they are said to have made is that no flying shall be done with their machines except in the open country, where, if the aviator himself comes to grief, he will not be very likely to hurt anybody else. The dwellers in cities will not exactly heave a sigh of relief on hearing this, for the desire to see aeroplanes in action outweighs at present any apprehension as to what would happen to anybody on whom they fell. The caution of the brothers in this particular respect is just a little amusing, but, as they know rather more about flying machines than the rest of us do, perhaps it would not be wise to laugh too loudly at any precautions which they may consider it judicious to take.

A Chance for the Chinese. Nobody whose opinion has any weight has made the Sigel murder an excuse for wholesale condemnation of the Chinese as all capable of committing such a crime. Their spokesmen, both yellow and white, are therefore unduly, or rather wrongly, disturbed by the comment which the case has elicited.

The virtues of the Chinese race are well known and cordially admitted by all judicious critics, but the fact remains that those virtues are not such as justify or make safe the close association of young white women with the lower classes of Chinese coolies. And in spite of repeated declarations that the Chinese have no sympathy with the supposed murderer of ELSIE SIGEL, his prolonged success in eluding capture is proof enough that he is receiving assistance and protection from somebody, and necessarily from members of his own race.

The best of all ways for LEON'S countrymen to prove that they want him brought to justice is to bring him here. That would put an immediate end to all wild denunciation of the Chinese as Chinese.

NEW FIFTH AVENUE.

Mr. John D. Crimmins First Suggested Its Widening.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Honor to whom honor is due. The writer of the long and interesting article anent the "New Fifth Avenue," which appeared in your Sunday issue, does not even mention the name of the man to whom the city is practically solely indebted for this great improvement.

John D. Crimmins is the man who first suggested the widening of Fifth Avenue, who agitated it in season and out of season, who spoke and wrote of its necessity and the inherent justice of forcing the property owners on the avenue to surrender that part of the public street, the use of which had been granted to them in the early days, and which was to continue only "during the pleasure of the Board of Aldermen." Mr. Crimmins searched the musty archives of the board, brought forth the original acts, and showed that this permission to use and inclose a part of the public highway was granted to the abutting owners on the avenue for the reason that at that time the public convenience did not require a roadway and sidewalks of the width originally laid out for Fifth Avenue. Vehicular traffic on the avenue, or the Middle Road, as it was called, was light at that time and pedestrians were few. It was, however, explicitly stated that should the public convenience in the future require the use of the full width of the roadway and sidewalks, the property owners must remove their encroachments and restore the area taken to the city.

By continually bringing this to the attention of our public authorities and by letters to the press, Mr. Crimmins finally, after years of endeavor, awakened our city officials and the general public to the value and justice of his plan, which we see being consummated to-day, and which means so much to the beauty of the avenue and the general convenience of our people.

THE ALIEN FELONS.

We Harbor Them and Other "Undesirables" Without Warrant.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why is it that we have no law under which the 990 alien felons now being supported in New York State prisons can be deported

I suppose, if convicted within three years after landing, they must be deported, the act being mandatory, but now, as I understand, they cannot (under the rules and regulations governing the enforcement of the Immigration act of 1907, issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor,) be lawfully deported unless they obtained entrance in violation of law, and facts occurring subsequent to their arrival here cannot be submitted even as evidence of their having obtained admission contrary to law.

Similarly as to paupers, professional beggers, imbeciles, insane aliens and the like. It is a fact that it has been found impossible by our Boards of State Lunacy, of Charities, and of Alienists to verify and have deported more than a very small percentage of aliens that become public charges within a few months after their arrival in this country, even though there is no doubt about their having obtained admission "in violation of law," and even though dependency is due, as the Immigration act requires for deportation, to "causes existing prior to landing."

Even though we now have a most able and reliable Commissioner of Immigration, this state of affairs must prove a serious stumbling block in his way, and the conditions, it seems to your correspondent, demand drastic Federal legislation both as to restriction and deportation.

Is it not a fact that a protective tariff without the proper regulation of immigration is a travesty, and should not there be an annual capitation tax on all who, after a certain time, fail to become naturalized citizens and pay no taxes while being recipients of all our bounties?

Since June 30, 1900, over 7,000,000 immigrants have been admitted to this country, of whom at least 1,000,000 are not naturalized.

It was in a prophetic vein that the poet Aldrich wrote these lines:

> "O Liberty, White Goddess! Is it well
> To leave the gate unguarded? On thy breast
> Fold sorrow's children, soothe the hurts of fate,
> Lift the downtrodden; but with the hand of steel
> Stay those who to thy sacred portals come
> To waste the gift of freedom."

THE EDUCATIONAL SHELF.

Dr. Eliot's Exciting Quest Above His Bed Reveals It.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Re-reading after some days Dr. Eliot's list of books, a vision of the five-foot shelf rises before me. It runs along the wall above an iron bed—the Doctor's chamber. The volumes in their battered dignity look like Roman Senators silencing invading barbarians into awed incomprehension. Have we a parable in the simile? Behold the Doctor! Retiring before the applause that can never understand, he enters wearily and stretches himself upon the bed. Alas! he cannot sleep. Rising on his elbow, he reaches for Woolman's Journal. The day has been nerve-racking; the most powerful drug available will not be overstrong.

At that moment the engagement of the morrow flashes before his mind. The reporters will call for the names of the row of culture. Why not the venerable array above him? Why not indeed? They ask an opinion, they shall have his practice. The shelf holds culture, certainly—respectability, and the wisdom New England commends. Macbeth may murder sleep; these spirits for ten thousand nights have brought repose. It is a matter of fifteen minutes to write the titles and the duty is accomplished. The Doctor knocks the flame from the candle with a slipper. Woolman slides to the floor. He may be needed in the days—for many years, we trust—to come; he is forgotten this night. Sleep falls gently, and the vision fades.

To-day and henceforward I read the roll of the shelf with comprehension. My bookseller is instructed to find me Woolman.

New York, June 28, 1909. INSOMNIA.

NOT A TRACTION TRUST.

The Interborough's Power to Fix Rates Is Restricted.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Objection is made to allowing the Interborough Company to build new subways, on the ground that it would give that company a monopoly. But even if the Interborough controlled all of the transportation lines in the city, (which it doesn't and probably won't,) still that would not make it a monopoly in any true sense of that word.

A monopoly implies the power to fix prices and determine the quality of the goods furnished or of the services rendered. Neither of these things can the Interborough Company do. Its charges are fixed by law or by contract with the city, and the kind of service it renders is determined, to a very large extent, at least, by public officials.

With capable, vigilant public officers there is little or no chance that the Interborough will wrong the public or fail to afford good service at a fair price, and even if public servants were incapable, negligent, and dishonest, the Interborough might and, judging by the past, probably would render good service at fair prices anyway, whereas if the city owned and operated subways the public would be quite sure to be wronged if public officials were dishonest or incompetent. Concerning Chaperons.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial of to-day appeared a letter headed: "The Advantage of a Chaperon." Permit me to have a nice little quarrel with the worthy author of that epistle.

America is a new country, civilized and built up by people who came over with the purpose of having the most glorious thing in life—freedom. The women and girls had a share in this purpose as well as the men, and have taken it as a matter of course that they are perfectly safe to go about alone. As a result, the American man has respected them, and since men have been shown that they are trusted, they stand up to their reputation eagerly.

It speaks very badly indeed for Europe and European men if young girls are not even allowed to be alone with their brothers. It is disgusting, and shows that Europe is entirely uncivilized and does not give its young people a chance to be respected. That is the reason that it is always the aliens who commit such crimes as the Sigel murder.

Advanced Views at Universities.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your comments on the utterances of Bishop McFaul are quite to the point. The charges against our leading universities, coming from quotations apart from the general and related meaning of the article quoted, are apt to be unwarranted, and may prove to be very misleading. Such grave charges should be based on abundant scientific evidence, drawn from original sources.

The kernel of truth in the charges of Bishop McFaul is simply this: College teachers and students represent the most advanced thought of the age, and some exponents or advocates of advanced views, who may not be at all generally representative, call attention to themselves by reason of their radicalism. Time will ultimately test the soundness of these views, by experience, both new and old, and their rejection or acceptance by this test need cause us no immediate worry.

A Flag Bouquet for the Fourth.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

For a Fourth of July celebration a very appropriate table decoration of flowers is to make a flag bouquet. For this, select deep blue corn flowers for the centre, around them put a double row of white daisies (the yellow centres representing stars,) and for a border use red geraniums on any other bright red flowers. The effect is charming.

HEAR MORE SUGAR WITNESSES

Trust's Lawyers Argue That Statute of Limitations Covers Segal Loan.

The long-expected indictments against the American Sugar Refining Company and individuals concerned in the $1,250,000 loan to Adolph Segal, which ended in the wrecking of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company, did not materialize yesterday. Instead, it was learned that the Government had not concluded its investigation before the Grand Jury and that the indictments might not come for several days or even weeks. In such an event it will be conducted, in the absence of United States District Attorney Wise, by Assistant United States District Attorney Crim, as Mr. Wise sails for Europe this morning to take the testimony of certain witnesses in the libel case against The New York World growing out of the Panama Canal story.

Yesterday John G. Milburn, representing the Sugar Trust itself; John M. Bowers, representing John E. Parsons, counsel for the trust and a member of its Executive Committee, and William D. Guthrie, representing Adolph Kissel, who made the loan to Segal, as agent for the trust, after he had undertaken to represent Segal in the matter, spent two hours with Mr. Wise arguing the theory that, inasmuch as the loan was made at the end of 1903, the Statute of Limitations ran against any prosecutions under the Sherman act based on the loan. The statute in this case has a three-year term.

The reply to this contention by those who have pushed the prosecution of the persons responsible for the Segal loan has been that, while the loan itself dated back to 1903, the acts done pursuant to the conspiracy of the Sugar Trust, Parsons, and Kissel, set up in the complaint of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company in the recent suit, continued right down to the suicide of Frank Hipple and the failure of the Real Estate Trust Company, which he had involved in the Segal promotions, in August of 1906.

There is abundant correspondence in the hands of Receiver Earle of the Real Estate Trust Company and the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company, it is declared, to show that Mr. Parsons was continually putting the pressure upon Segal and Hipple, his backer, which finally resulted in the insolvency of the allied corporations.

The Grand Jury yesterday examined William H. Ramsey, formerly President of the American Sugar Refining Company, who was President of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company for Segal, and B. Gordon Bramley, a Philadelphia lawyer. It adjourned until this morning.

PAID CHOATE $2,500.

Third Avenue Road Receiver Hired Him to Oppose Public Service Law.

ALBANY, June 28.—Frederick W. Whitridge, receiver of the Third Avenue Railroad Company, to-day filed a statement with the Secretary of State showing he had paid $2,500 to Joseph H. Choate for appearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee and arguing in opposition to the bills to increase the powers of the Public Service Commissions and to amend the State railroad law.

He also certified that he had paid $908.45 to Herbert J. Bickford of the firm of Evarts, Choate & Sherman for examining those measures and drafting proposed amendments.

TIME AND DAYLIGHT.

A Summer Scheme to Win Two Hours for Recreation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In order that the question of adding two hours of additional daylight to the business and recreation part of the day be agitated, publicity that your paper gives this subject will materially assist in creating sufficient popular demand to secure the passage of this measure by Congress.

The idea is that on the first of May each year the standard of time throughout the United States would be advanced two hours, so that what is now 5 o'clock shall become 7, &c., and change back to our present standard of time on Oct. 1.

This would add greatly to the health, comfort, and pleasure of all through the Summer without necessitating any change as to daily habits or create any confusion, and would give two hours additional light for recreation and the use of two of the coolest and best hours of the day for labor and business, viz., what is now known from 7 A. M. to 9 A. M., but would by advancing the clock be still known as from 9 to 11.

This would leave the same number of hours for business and sleep as now and would give two better hours for the day's work and two additional hours of daylight to the evening hours. This would mean that in Summer time instead of being dark about 7:30, it would not be too dark for tennis, golf, or other forms of recreation until about 9:30. The bill to this effect was introduced in Congress at the last session by Representative Peters of Boston, and that at the session of the last English Parliament was after years of agitation passed by a large majority, and is now either in effect in the British Isles or in the hands of a commission appointed to work out the details of this question. As the time is merely advanced, it would not necessitate any change of printing on time tables, as all trains would leave at the same hour, according to the clock, as to-day's time.

A little thought on this question will undoubtedly convince the most skeptic that it is much more reasonable and feasible than a hasty perusal would indicate.

Permits for Shipping Trout.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your issue of Wednesday containing a communication on "wild trout" is not entirely correct. There is no doubt that liver-fed trout have an undesirable flavor, and, with one exception, probably all of the trout coming into the New York market are from hatcheries feeding liver exclusively, but your correspondent is not correct in his statement, according to the New York State laws, that only twenty-five pounds of trout can be shipped, and that with a first-class ticket.

The Legislature last year amended the act on a shipment of trout, permitting the Fish Commissioner to issue permits to hatcheries for shipping trout in such quantities as he considered advisable, without being accompanied by a first-class ticket.

BRIGHTER PROSPECT FOR "MEN OVER 50"

Many Concerns Reply to Their Advertisements for Work in The Times.

EMPLOYMENT IN SIGHT

Letter Writers Commend the Efforts In Their Behalf—One Says Old Men Give Best Service.

It was a bright June day yesterday for many a man over fifty" whose advertisement for work appeared in Sunday's TIMES, for the answers began to come in, bringing messages of hope for a new start in life and the dawn of a new day in old age.

Throughout the day the old men visited the main office of THE TIMES, in Times Square, and the Downtown Office at 8 Spruce Street, to get their mail, and some of these gray-haired men smiled with something more like happiness than for months perhaps when several replies were handed out to each of them.

Some dared not even hope that now, after even years of walking the streets, applying from door to door, and using the influence of friends all in vain, they were to win at last. In their anxiety they seemed afraid to ask if any replies had come to them. They did not want to wake up from yesterday's dream of hope to find that it was a dream after all. But when the brisk clerk ran over the stacks of envelopes, throwing to some two, to others three or four, and even more answers, they seemed almost overjoyed.

Many of those advertising gave their home addresses, so there was no means yesterday of ascertaining what replies they had received, one man even sending his advertisement from his home in Chicago.

The advertisements of two of these men over 50 caught the eyes of Brill Brothers, the clothiers. "C.," 84, TIMES, said he was a "young man over fifty," who was active and energetic, with a record of twenty-five years as a shipping clerk. Brill Brothers thought they could use a man of that stamp, and so he has been asked to call on them this morning at 11 o'clock. A man who said he was just 50, with a family to support, was so anxious to help support his wife and children that he said he would work for $7 a week if any one would give him a chance. Brill Brothers also liked the talk of this man, and he, too, has been asked to call on them this morning at 11 o'clock.

While it is not practicable to ascertain accurately the exact number of replies to the "old men's" advertisements who gave THE TIMES office as their address, it was estimated last night that about forty such had been received, with no account taken of those replies which were sent to the homes of the advertisers. So it is expected that there will be numerous talks between "old men" and prospective employers to-day.

THE TIMES'S campaign in behalf of the "man over fifty" has evidently attracted widespread interest from the letters received yesterday.

One correspondent thinks the "man over fifty" a valuable asset. He writes:

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In common with many other, doubtless, the writer has been much interested in the various articles that have appeared in THE TIMES on the "man-over-fifty" subject, including last Sunday's page of "ads." The writer has known of men not only over 50, but over 60, as well, who only through great pressure of influence obtained clerical positions, and in the course of two or three years not only became valuable assets of the concern, but partners as well. The writer also knows to-day of men over 60 who are working alongside of young men, and outworking them, too, both as respects quantity and quality of work done.

THE TIMES is to be commended for the position it has taken in this matter, for the upshot of it is the "too old" idea has been very much overdone. It is to be hoped that every one of those Sunday advertisers will through THE TIMES'S timely help come into his own. FAIR PLAY.

New York, June 28, 1909.

Another writer says:

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In my humble opinion there is only one reason which will justify the discharge of an old employe—workman, clerk, bookkeeper, salesman, or preacher—and that is an unmistakable incompetence to do the work required; a failure of physical or mental strength for the duties he has to do.

An honest judgment in this matter would prevent the discharge of many an able man over 50 or 60 years of age, who, perhaps, is not discharged so much for incompetency as for laziness and independence.

A man of years and experience is more careful and painstaking, more economical, more faithful and trustworthy, possesses the confidence of the community more, and if of assured position, his family life and influence stand for much in the community.

A young man will make more mistakes, be less careful and economical and less trustworthy, and, knowing his time of service is limited, will resort to means and methods to get money which in the end cost his employer more money than an older and perhaps less competent man would do.

As with employers, so with congregations. Churches clamor for young men, and the results are the blind leading the blind, empty pews, untaught people, spiritually ignorant, honesty and righteousness, character and conscience at a low ebb, because these truths are not urged home upon them.

Beardless youths trying to instruct graybeards, and inexperienced novices dealing with hard-headed and oft hard-hearted business men.

Business, society, and church are all alike suffering from too much young man, too much magnifying of him, too much dependence upon him, rather than upon those who have been tested and are striving for the things that should be.

AN OBSERVER OF THINGS.

New York, June 28, 1909.

THE TIMES will publish advertisements from men over 50 out of work also next Sunday free of charge. The only conditions are that the advertisements must not exceed fifty words each, and this time it must be sent to the main or downtown office by Friday noon. The offer is open only to those who did not advertise last Sunday.

FINED UNDER FOOD LAW.

Butchers and Milk Dealers Prosecuted by Health Inspectors.

Several dealers were convicted yesterday in Special Sessions of selling impure food on evidence furnished by Inspectors from the Board of Health, and were compelled to pay fines. Justice Hoyt warned all the defendants that second offenders would be sent to prison.

Ogden B. Turnbull, manager of a branch of the Sheffields Farms Dairy at 922 Washington Avenue, was convicted of selling milk 15 per cent. deficient in solids and 14 per cent. low in fats, on April 30, to a Milk Inspector. He was fined $25.

Others convicted were William Goldberg of 229 East Third Street, who was fined $100 for selling adulterated milk, and Elias Wallach of 110 West Street, Jacob Panzer of 88 Rivington Street, and Nicola Lagattuta of 13 Prince Street, all butchers, who were fined $30 each for selling meat preserved in sulphurous acid. Abraham Diamond of 317 East 102d Street was fined $50 for selling bad eggs.

To Enlarge Hispanic Society Building.

Charles P. Huntington, as architect for the Collis P. Huntington heirs, has filed plans with Building Supt. Murphy for enlarging the new museum of the Hispanic Society in 155th Street, near Broadway, on the border of what was formerly Audubon Park, by the addition of two stories. The addition will be of limestone ashlar, harmonizing with the classic design of the museum. The improvement will cost $50,000.

To Begin Investigating Coler To-day.

The formal investigation into the administration of Borough President Coler of Brooklyn will be started to-day by the Commissioners of Accounts. The Commissioners' examiners have been at work in Mr. Coler's office for some time. He has objected strenuously to the investigation. At the time of the removal of Commissioner Gallaher by the Mayor, Mr. Coler intimated that the methods adopted by the examiners might be looked into by the District Attorney of Kings County. Nothing happened, however.

CLASS DAY AT YALE SPOILED BY RAIN

Delay in Closing Exercises Caused by a Heavy Downpour at New Haven.

LAW SCHOOL ALUMNI MEET

Ivy from the White House Brought by President Taft Planted by Senior Class.

electrical storm with a terrific downpour of rain and fierce gusts of wind was an unexpected accompaniment to class day at Yale University to-day, but as no material damage resulted the thousands of guests here for the exercises found the atmospheric freak a merry diversion.

The Sheffield Scientific School seniors had their class day ceremonies in the usual order after two hours' delay.

The class poem was read by Leonard Bacon of Peacedale, R. I., the class oration on "Hero Worship" by Maxwell O. Parry of Indianapolis, and Leonard Kennedy the class history. The ivy planted was a setting from the White House ivy and brought over by President Taft on his last visit here.

At the Yale Law School alumni banquet Dean Rogers presided, and Chief Justice Simeon E. Baldwin of the Supreme Court unveiled a portrait of Dean William Callahan Robinson of the law department of the Catholic University of America, a former Professor of Law in Yale, and which is a gift of the alumni to the school. He was followed by ex-Gov. George P. McLean of Simsbury, Conn. Judge Selden D. Spencer of St. Louis, Burton Mansfield of New Haven, Dean Kirchway of the law department of Columbia University, and ex-Senator John C. Spooner, all alumni, and F. H. Wiggin and Antonio N. de las Alas of Taal, Philippine Islands, representing the graduating class

The alumni re-elected C. Larue Munson of Williamsport, Penn., President; E. D. Whitney of New York and E. G. Buckland of Providence, Vice Presidents, and J. W. Edgerton, Secretary and Treasurer.

The Law School exercises were held at Hendrie Hall immediately following the banquet. After the speaking the prize announcements and honors were then made by Dean Rogers, as follows:

Jewell Prize, member of second-year class, with highest annual examination marks, P. T. Dondlenger, Mitchell, S. D.; Joseph Parker Prize for best thesis on Roman law subject, W. M. Musgrave, New York City; Townsend Prize for member of graduating class, writing and pronouncing the best oration, J. F. T. O'Connor, Grand Forks, N. D.

Bacnelor of Laws, (summa cum laude,) F. H. Wiggin, New Haven, who leads his class; Bachelor of Laws, (magna cum laude,) R. H. McQuistion, Butler, Penn., and E. C. Weyman, Apohaqui, N. B.

Master of Laws, (cum laude,) H. de las Alas, Taal, Philippine Islands; G. R. Holahan, Jr., Brooklyn, N. Y.; P. G. Sanchez, Concepcion, Philippine Islands.

The Medical School exercises in College Street Hall had for the speaker Prof. William Henry Howell, Dean of Johns Hopkins Medical School, whose subject was "Medicine."

In the afternoon the various diversions of the reunion classes, interrupted by the storm, were resumed.

The honors in the Medical School were:

The degree of Doctor of Medicine, (cum laude,) awarded for unusual merit in the examinations and work of the course, Jacques Louis Buttner, Niles Westcott, M. A., and Fuchum Yen.

The Campbell Gold Medal, awarded for the highest rank in the examinations of the course of four years, Jacques Louis Buttner, with honorable mention of Niles Westcott, M. A., and Fu-chum Yen.

The Keese Prize, awarded for the most meritorious thesis, Jacques Louis Buttner.

The Anatomical Prize, given by an alumnus for the best work in anatomy by first and second year students, Harry Louis Abramson.

This evening the senior class held its promenade and german in Woolsey Hall, and the various classes held class dinners at shore hotels.

YALE HONORS LOWELL.

Degree of Doctor of Laws Conferred Upon the President of Harvard.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 28.—The degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University at the meeting of the Yale Corporation this afternoon. President Lowell is obliged to return to Cambridge for the commencement exercises at his own university on Wednesday, so the conferring of the degree was made today. Under the rules of the corporation this degree is conferred only for distinguished public service.

The corporation elected J. F. McClelland, now Professor of Mining at Leland Stanford University, to be Professor of Mining in the Sheffield Scientific School and a member of its Governing Board. Mr. McClelland is a graduate of Columbia. Prof. Towmey of the Forest School is transferred to the new Jesup Chair of Sylviculture; Wilbur Tileston, at present in Harvard Medical School, was elected Assistant Professor of Medicine.

The Alumni Advisory Board at its meeting re-elected Frederick N. Judson of St. Louis Chairman. The board discussed the matter of instituting at Yale the same form of the Oxford pass and honor system which, with modifications to meet American conditions, was favored. The matter was referred to two committees for a report.

MISS HELEN PEABODY A BRIDE.

Married to Pennington Satterthwaite at Her Mother's Home.

The wedding of Pennington Satterthwaite, son of the late Franklin Satterthwaite and grandson of John Blackwood Satterthwaite, to Miss Helen M. Peabody, only daughter of Mrs. Arthur J. Peabody, took place yesterday at 12:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, 15 West Tenth Street. The house was decorated with laurel and roses.

Owing to mourning, only relatives and intimate friends were invited to the ceremony and the wedding breakfast which followed. The Rev. Dr. J. Lewis Parks, rector of Calvary Church, officiated.

Miss Peabody, who wore a white crepe de chine gown, was given in marriage by her brother, George Russell Peabody, whose engagement to Miss Nathalie Clews, daughter of Mrs. John Henry Clews, was announced about a fortnight ago. Her only attendant was a flower girl, little Miss Ella Peabody. There were no best man or ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Satterthwaite will leave soon for a wedding trip abroad.

Mrs. Arthur Peabody, the bride's mother, was Miss Eleanor Elliot Russell, a daughter of the late Archibald Russell and a granddaughter of Dr. John Watts. Her grandmother was a Miss Rutherford. She is a sister of Mrs. Henry Lewis Morris and of Archibald Hamilton Russell. Her eldest daughter is Mrs. John Tillotson Wainwright. A son, Arthur Russell Peabody, died at Babylon last Autumn. His wife was Miss Temple Emmet.

Among those invited to the wedding were:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald D. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Ettley, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis S. Morris, Mrs. Emmet, Mrs. Franklin Satterthwaite, mother of the bridegroom; Miss Ethel Satterthwaite, Mr. and Mrs. Pennington, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sanford, Mrs. Alexander Logan Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Duane, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walsh Humphreys, Pennington Whitehead and Miss Whitehead, Mr. and Mrs. Rush Duer, Miss Iselin, Mrs. Theodore Brice, Mrs. John Henry Clews, Miss Nathalie Clews, Miss Fowler, Miss Belknap, and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Humphreys.

PLATT—BOOTH.

The marriage of Livingston Platt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Platt of 242 West Seventy-fourth Street, to Miss Agnes Booth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Booth of Chicago, and a niece of Mrs. P. A. Valentine of Chicago and New York, took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Plaza. J. H. Jones of Haverhill, Mass., was best man. There were no ushers.

Miss Booth, who wore a gown of embroidered white satin with point lace, was given in marriage by her father. She had no attendants.

The Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks of St. Bartholomew's Church officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by a small reception.

Mr. Platt is a grandson of Senator Platt.

PROCESS SERVER MAY BE TAKEN INTO CLUB

National Arts Ruling That This Is Eminently Proper Under Certain Circumstances.

AS IN PERRIN VS. THE SMITHS

They Were in a Legal Tangle Over a Deal Growing Out of Club Acquaintanceship—Case Up in Court.

The question whether it is proper and according to club usage for a member to introduce a process server to one's club solely for the purpose of serving a fellow-member with papers in a civil suit has been decided by the officials of the National Arts Club of 14 Gramercy Park. After an investigation they found that, under certain circumstances, such a proceeding is permissible.

The matter came out yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Blanchard when the suit brought by Raymond S. Perrin, a member of the firm of Perrin & Payson, varnish manufacturers, and also a member of the National Arts Club, against Doris Whipple, H. Bridgman Smith, and Philip Smith was mentioned. The Smiths are also members of the National Arts Club.

Mr. Whipple was formerly connected with the laboratory at Columbia University. He is a chemist. While engaged there he met Mr. Perrin and told him he was on the track of a discovery of some importance to the electrical world, namely, the invention of an insulating oil suitable for electrical apparatus.

After working hard for some time experimenting Mr. Whipple proved it successful. It required money to put the oil on the market, and this is where Mr. Perrin came in. He offered to interest some of his friends in the matter, and with this view approached the Smiths at the National Arts Club. As a result a company was formed with $100,000 capital, divided into 1,000 shares of $100 each. Perrin received 200 shares for his efforts and was elected President of the concern. Mr. Whipple also received 200 shares. The remaining 600 shares were allotted to Philip Smith, who put up $40,000.

Things went along all right for a time, and then Perrin alleges the other interests in the concern wanted him to accept fifty shares in the company instead of 200, and also relinquish his place as President, which carried with it a salary of $5,000 a year. He was willing to make some concession, he said, but would not go as far as they wished, hence the suit to compel the Smiths and Whipple to carry out their contract with him and also to restrain them from organizing another company to carry on the work.

Perrin had difficulty in locating the two Smiths; they always remained in the clubhouse, they said. At length he hit upon the plan of taking the process server into the club as a visitor. The Smiths were pointed out to him by Mr. Perrin, and he followed them into an elevator in the club. He succeeded in serving H. Bridgman Smith, but Philip Smith denied his identity.

However, Mr. Perrin assured the process server that the latter was the person he wanted, so later when Philip Smith entered the dining room of the club, the process server walked in after him and served the papers on him in the presence of fellow members. Philip Smith was indignant, and brought charges against Mr. Perrin for conduct unbecoming a member. An investigation was held, but after Mr. Perrin had told his side of the story the club officials decided that Philip Smith had himself to blame for denying his identity in the elevator. The charges were dismissed.

The matter came before Justice Blanchard yesterday on a motion to dismiss the complaint on the ground that it showed no cause of action. Decision was reserved.

MIKADO DECORATES HOLT.

Order Conferred Upon Him at Japan Club Dinner in His Honor.

Hamilton Holt, editor of The Independent, was the guest of honor last night at an informal dinner at the Nippon Club because of his interest in Japanese affairs. Another guest was Lindsay Russell. The dinner was given by Dr. Takamine, President of the club. There were twenty guests, among whom were Messrs. K. Yoshida, S. Imanishi, R. Aral, as well as Messrs. Bowen, Richardson, and Smith, relatives of Mr. Holt.

At the close of the dinner, Consul General Midzuno, in the name of the Mikado of Japan, decorated Mr. Holt with the Japanese Order of the Sacred Treasure, Third Class, for his interest in promoting friendly relations between Japan and the United States.

Many Sail for Mediterranean.

The liner Tomaso di Savòia of the Lloyd Sabaudo Line sailed to Naples and Genoa yesterday with the largest number of cabin passengers ever carried by an Italian steamship from this port to the Mediterranean. Among those sailing were Dorando Pietri, the Marathon runner, with his brother, Ulpiano Pietri; Justice and Mrs. James O'Gorman, with their six daughters and one son; James B. Pratt, Dr. M. J. Synnott, George A. Upton, William Francis Young, Mrs. F. C. Harriman, Marquis Piero Marcone, Miss Miriam Loder, Miss Elizabeth M. Frey, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Thomas, and Miss M. Alice Warren.

Mlle. Dazie in Pantomime.

BOSTON, Mass., June 28.—The new pantomime "L'Amour de l'Artist," by Giuseppe Molasse, was presented to-night by Mlle. Dazie at Keith's Theatre before a large audience. The act was well received. It will be produced in New York next week.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

"The Gentleman from Mississippi" opens to-night in the Aerial Gardens on top of the New Amsterdam Theatre, for its Summer run. Brady and Grismer have built an entirely new production for the engagement. Thomas Wise and Douglas Fairbanks head the cast.

Arrangements were completed yesterday between the management of Palisades Park and William Morris whereby, beginning next week, the latter will take charge of the booking of the Open Air Theatre in that resort.

Nina Morris has been engaged by Henry W. Savage to play the principal comedy role in "The Florist Shop" which opens next month at the Liberty Theatre.

Mrs. Newton Bennington, wife of the once well-known horseman, now dying of paresis in Middletown, N. Y., has returned to the stage. She appeared last night at the Royal Theatre, Brooklyn, in a sketch written by herself entitled "Mary Ellen."

A new act called the Kangaroo dance was introduced in the jungle scene in the second act at "The Follies of 1900" at the Jardin de Paris by Thomas Almond last night. The dance is a decided novelty and was well received.

GATTI-CASAZZA NOT OUT.

Story That He Will Not Return to Metropolitan Denied in Paris.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 28.—The reports published in New York that Director Gatti-Casazza would not return to the Metropolitan Opera next season do not appear to have basis in fact. Representatives of the company here say there is nothing in the story that the Italian will cease to be Director.

Signor Gatti-Casazza to-day was signing reinforcements for the coming season in New York with his usual zeal, and he has been working pleasantly of late with Mr. Dippel.

GRISWOLD FOR METROPOLITAN

American Singer, Now in Berlin Opera, Will Come Here in 1910.

BERLIN, June 28.—Putnam Griswold, the principal baritone-bass of the Royal Opera of Berlin, signed a contract here to-day for three years, beginning in the Autumn of 1910, with a representative of the Metropolitan Opera of New York. Mr. Griswold's six-year contract with the Berlin Opera still has two years to run, but with the consent of the Kaiser he has been allowed leave of absence to sing in America. Mr. Griswold comes from California.

Miss Frances Rose, an American soprano, also in the Royal Opera of Berlin, signed a contract with the Metropolitan last Saturday.

ADAM AND EVE SCARED.

They Stopped "Creation" When a Wolf Bounded on the Stage.

While yesterday afternoon's thunderstorm was crackling around Coney Island, the animals composing Roth's troupe in the Bostock show became frightened by the constant thunder peals and had to be driven off the stage.

The tiger and the two lions went back to their cages roaring. Tessie and Guana, the two white Siberian wolves, though ordinarily docile, got away from Roth entirely and ran up a rear stairway. Guana was corraled in one of the executive offices, but Tessie sprang through a door which connects the Bostock show with Creation.

The Creation show was playing to 600 shelter seekers at the time, and had reached the "Fifth Day" scene. Just as Mrs. Lippincott, who is Eve, was in the act of handing the apple to Mr. Lippincott, who is Adam, the scared wolf, as big as a collie, darted out on the stage. According to their parts, Adam and Eve should have remained on the stage and allowed Estha Neeley, who plays the Angel Gabriel, to cast them into outer darkness. But while Tessie ran around the stage both the Lippincotts, followed by Miss Neeley, fled to the wings. The audience, however, merely thought that Tessie was one of the Garden of Eden's animals, and applauded her antics until Roth came on and led her back to her cage.

HOME AS STAGE CURE.

Albert Beauregard and Wife Quit Collier Company for the Simple Life.

ST. LOUIS, June 28.—Albert Beauregard Fink, known on the stage by his first two names, and his wife, a sister of William Collier, who plays as Helen Collier Garrick, have been lured from the stage by the gift of a fine residence in Hortense Place, St. Louis.

Charles Fink, father of the actor, a wealthy retired merchant, made the offer of a home and competence for life to win back his son, who went on the stage twenty years ago despite his parents' opposition.

"Beauregard" and "Miss Garrick" resigned yesterday from the company of William Collier, with which they had been playing in New York.

Charles Fink was a railroad contractor when he came to St. Louis. He did his last work on the Vandalia Railroad thirty years ago.

Albert Beauregard said last night that he and his wife had intended to give up stage life some time ago when "The Patriot," in which both appeared with William Collier at the Garrick Theatre, ended its run, but that they were persuaded to play an engagement in "The Man from Mexico" when Mr. Collier revived that piece.

"My wife and I have had enough of stage life," said Mr. Beauregard, "and are glad to go back to the simple existence. We have had a very successful season, but we are going to give up the stage forever."

Chilean Officials Inspect Navy Yard.

Admiral Perez Zargarcitua of the Chilean Navy and several members of a commission appointed by that Government to make a world tour to study naval construction, visited the Brooklyn Navy Yard yesterday. The commission will stay a week in New York.

ERNST VON HALLE DEAD.

German Economist Wrote on American Cotton Culture and Advocated Big Navy

BERLIN, June 28.—Prof. Ernst von Halle, the political economist, died here to-day of pleurisy. Prof. von Halle, who was born in 1868, was well known in the United States. He wrote various studies on cotton culture in the South, on the enterprise of Germans in America, and on economic inquries in the West Indies and Venezuela.

The professor was also an ardent advocate of the German Navy and aided in the preparation of several naval bills. He was personally liked by the Kaiser.

The funeral will be held this morning at 10 o'clock from the chapel of the Presbyterian Hospital. The interment will be in Woodlawn.

'BOSS' DURHAM DIES AT DINING TABLE

Famous Philadelphia Politician Rises from His Seat and Expires in His Sister's Arms.

RULED ABSOLUTELY 9 YEARS

Reform Party Crushed Him in 1905, and He Never Got Over It—His Death a Blow to the Machine.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—Israel W. Durham, State Senator from the Second Philadelphia District, and former Republican boss of this city, died suddenly in convulsions at his Atlantic City cottage this afternoon. He was stricken as he arose from luncheon and died immediately in the arms of his sister, Mrs. Philip H. Johnson. A few minutes before he had talked over the telephone with friends in this city.

Durham was one of the most powerful leaders in the Republican organization. He had been in ill-health since 1905, when the machine of which he had been absolute and sole master since 1896 was crushed by the Reform Party at the polls, and he was driven to retirement for a time. Durham never wholly recovered from that shock. He went to all the famous spas of Europe, staying many months at a time, and visited health resorts in this country from Maine to Lower California. He was about to go to Europe to remain till October.

Durham was a born leader of men. While reformers always charged him with resorting to all the hidden trickery of politics, his personality was magnetic, and it was this that seemed to bind his host of followers to him. Even in the hour of his great defeat hardly a politician of the city failed to urge him to regain the leadership, but his fighting spirit seemed broken.

He had the reputation of never having broken a promise once his word was given. He was a man of few words, but newspaper reporters placed absolute reliance on what he said when he consented to talk at all. He made a large fortune in politics and was a persistent office holder, but it is not believed he was wealthy because he gave away vast sums in various ways to followers and the poor. He built up the all-powerful organization, which in many ways was the equal of Tammany Hall.

Senator Quay in his later days regarded Durham as his strongest lieutenant. He was a defendant with Senator McNichol in suits brought by the city in 1906 to recover on filtration contracts, but the city was defeated. He was born in this city in 1854 and was unmarried. He learned the trade of bricklayer and served in politics as division worker, then ward leader, and next as city leader. United States Senator Boies Penrose was a friend and neighbor of Mr. Durham and acknowledges his debt of gratitude to the man who fought many winning political battles in his interest. State Senator McNichol is his successor in the leadership.

Recently Mr. Durham purchased a large interest in the Philadelphia National League Baseball Club. He is survived by two brothers, John Wesley Durham, a member of the Board of Tax Revision of this city, and Thomas F. Durham, and two sisters. Two nephews, Lieut. William Norris and Ensign Albert Durham Norris, are in the United States Navy.

In 1903 the city was electrified by the action of Mayor John Weaver in revolting against Durham's power and his associate in the leadership, James P. McNichol.

It remains to be seen what effect the death of Mr. Durham will have upon the political situation in Philadelphia. The Republican organization undoubtedly has on its hands what some of the party leaders admit is the "fight of its life." At the recent primaries to decide upon a Republican candidate for District Attorney to succeed Samuel P. Rotan, a shock was administered to the organization leaders when it was found that in a total Republican vote of 118,640 Rotan beat D. Clarence Gibboney, a reformer, who had been forced on the ticket, by only 5,000 votes. Gibboney was also on the Democratic and William Penn Party tickets, and he had a popular majority of 25,000 over Rotan. The election takes place in November, and the leaders have been claiming that they will fix up their fences and achieve a victory for Rotan by the time election day rolls around.

HENRY S. CRANDALL DEAD.

He Was One of the Founders of the Republican Party in This State.

Henry Sargent Crandall, who died at the Manhattan State Hospital yesterday, was one of the Argonauts of '49 who made the journey to California across the plains and returned by way of the Isthmus of Panama. He was born in Saratoga County, N. Y., on Dec. 26, 1826. He was a descendant of John Crandall, one of the founders of the Colony of Rhode Island with Roger Williams. He went to California in 1849, and while there among his associates were men who afterward became prominent in the affairs of the Pacific Slope. Among them were the late Senator William M. Stewart of Nevada and the late Senator Aaron A. Sargent of California. On his return across the Isthmus among his fellow-passengers was Lieut. William T. Sherman, who was returning from one of the frontier forts of the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Crandall was an Abolitionist, working in this State with the Rev. Nathaniel Colver and Gerrit Smith. He was also one of the founders of the Republican Party in Northern New York. Among his associates in the Republican Party were Gen. Chester A. Arthur and Gen. Edwin A. Merritt. When Gen. Arthur was Collector of the Port Mr. Crandall was appointed liquidating clerk in the New York Custom House, and later, under Collector Merritt, became Acting Deputy Collector in charge of the Customs Bureau at Castle Garden. He was replaced in office under Collector Hedden during the first Cleveland Administration.

For the last six years Mr. Crandall's health had been gradually failing, and he died of the infirmaties of old age. Two sons and two daughters survive him.

PITTSBURG BIJOU FOR NIXON.

Court Decides He Has Better Claim to Theatre Than Competitors.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., June 28.—There was a hot argument in court here all day over the Bijou Theatre property, and it was finally decided by Judge John M. Kennedy that Samuel F. Nixon of Philadelphia had a better claim to the property than had either Felix Isman, Klaw & Erlanger, the Shuberts, or any one else, and Mr. Nixon was ordered by the court to file by Wednesday morning a bond of $100,000 to guarantee his bid of $856,000 for the property. This bond will guarantee Harry Davis and R. M. Gunlick against loss on all existing contracts also.

It is understood late to-night that others may appear in court Wednesday morning and bid higher than the Nixon offer, turning the court into an auction room as it were.

IF YOU HAVE

$100 you are a capitalist. If you have $10,000 you are simply a larger capitalist. The more modest your capital the more necessary that you should make it work for you. You should spend a little time in considering any proposition that would immediately add 50 per cent. to your income and could quadruple your principal without speculation.

We are issuing a limited amount of 6 per cent. bonds (against our Business Real Estate,) with a convertible privilege that is extremely valuable.

The issue is limited to $600,000
Denominations $100, $500, $1,000

THESE bonds have every good feature of any other bond, and several other features, especially the convertible privilege, that no other bond possesses.

Our limited issue is being subscribed for and will all be placed. It makes no difference to us who invests in our bonds—it makes a great difference to you if you lose an opportunity. It is impossible in an advertisement to go properly into details, but we will send you on request a booklet telling you of our business real estate holdings in the heart of the city, why and how we can pay 6 per cent., the reason for the bond issue, who our officers are, and what convertible means.

LUCK AND TWO HITS WIN FOR YANKEES

Base on Balls Also Aids Wild Pitch by Which Morgan Loses Out in the Ninth Inning.

NEW YORKS AT HOME TO-DAY

Stallings's Men Come Home to Play Against Washington Team—Champions, Red Sox, and Browns Victors.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—Promise of better performances on the part of the Yankees was given this afternoon when they won out in the ninth inning, after falling behind in a game that was runless to the seventh. The score was 2 to 1, and it was as hotly contested a battle as fandom could ask. Doyle and Morgan fought it out for eight rounds, Joe allowing five hits. Connie Mack's twirler restricted the Toppers to four safeties in the whole game, but two of those bingles were bunched with a pass and a wild pitch in the final, and for the locals it was fare you well to Lady Victory. Stallings's men, in the promptness with which they took advantage of their desperate chance, showed more teaminess than in any two or three of their recent ordinary games.

The Hilltoppers didn't start to win until two of their side were down. Laporte, whom Manager Stallings sent in to bat for Doyle, and Cree, the standard bearer of the batting order, were money in bank for Oldring, who dragged down their soarers like a small boy pulling in kites. In that crisis Norman Elberfeld stepped to the front and centre. He focused his eager gaze on Morgan so hypnotically that he got one in the groove. Swish—and the sphere was careering fieldward, the Kid notching a niche on it.

Chase next. Oh, you Hal! The Prince waited for four wide ones, and, lo! there were two standing. Sight of those sprinters on their toes in the alleys made Morgan nervous, and he pitched one at the grand stand. Before Thomas could retrieve the funny fling Elberfeld was over the pan and Chase occupied third, with the score tied. Prince Hal scurried in with the conclusive count when Claudius Engle bumped the ball on the nose for a nook, and that was the last of the rungetting, a snappy double play, pivoted by Chase, blighting Philadelphia's hopes in the last half.

The duplex manipulation, by the way, was some ball. With Manning on the slab, Collins dropped a little one in front of the plate and beat it to the cushion. Murphy sacrificed handily. Collins took a long lead off second, and tried to dash home when Davis was thrown out at first by Austin. But Chase, after retiring the batter, whipped the hide to Sweeney, the new backstop, who nailed the forward runner at the wire.

Philadelphia's run was made in the seventh on Ganley's stroll, bunts by Collins and Murphy, Davis's force hit, and Baker's sacrifice fly.

CHICAGO, June 28.—Detroit defeated Chicago 2 to 1 to-day, in a hard-fought ten-inning game, which was marked by considerable wrangling. Atz, Cobb, and Schaefer were put out of the game for disputing the umpires' decisions. A two-bagger by Killifer and Schmidt's single won the game for Detroit in the tenth inning. The fielding feature was a spectacular catch of a bunt fly by Stanage. The score:

Wool keeps jumping!

This will interest the thousands of men yet to buy a serge suit this Summer, since most men expect a serge to go over at least part of two seasons.

President William M. Wood of the American Woolen Company, who expects to sell $70,000,000 worth of cloth this year, is quoted as saying with regard to the lines they are now showing for 1910:

"In advancing prices 25 to 30 per cent. we are guaranteeing purchasers that they will not be able to buy goods at a lower price; in fact, there is a great likelihood of still higher prices, based on the great demand, high cost of raw material and high labor costs."

We're mighty glad we have so generous a stock of serge suits, and can offer such excellent investments to our friends.

No higher prices here this Summer.

BATTLE MOUNTAIN, Nev., June 28.—Walking at night and in the early morning is the only time that I can devote to this task, without doing myself physical harm. The heat during the day is so intense and houses and hotels are so warm that it is impossible to get a refreshing rest. My long walk on Monday chiefly depended upon the rest I get Sunday, and yesterday I could not sleep until 9 P. M., and at 11 P. M. was up and getting ready for my midnight start. At 12:05 A. M. I started for Battle Mountain, 59 miles, arriving at Beowawe, 27 miles, in 7 hours 40 minutes, without a rest. After resting one hour I walked 15 miles to Mozel, where I will stop until the sun sets, and expect to arrive at Battle Mountain at 10 P. M.

I am in the best of condition and am feeling in fine spirits, especially after hearing from my mascot at 60 Wall Street, which cheered me.

Ward Drives Home Winning Runs.

BOSTON, June 28.—Philadelphia won the first game of a scheduled double-header to-day, 5 to 3, the second one being postponed on account of a heavy shower, which started after the finish of the first game. The visitors won in the eighth, when Ward, the former New York American League player, batting for Corridon, hit safely, bringing in two runs. The score:

PILKINGTON FOR REFEREE.

Middle States Committee Selects Officers for Labor Day Regatta.

Six of the eight members of the Regatta Committee of the Middle States Regatta Association were present last night at a meeting held at Harlem Casino, Chairman C. T. Kuchler presiding and David C. Brown recording the proceedings.

There was some discussion as to the advisability of keeping the junior four-oared barge race on the programme, and it was finally decided to have the event, provided four entries are received.

In the selection of officials for the regatta, which will be held over the Speedway course, this city, one mile straightaway, on Labor Day under the auspices of the Harlem Regatta Association, James Pilkington of the Harlem River Club was named for referee and Henry Penn Burke of the Malta Boat Club of Philadelphia for starter. The full list of officials follows:

Referee—James Pilkington, Harlem Rowing Club, New York.

Starter—Henry Penn Burke, Malta Boat Club of Philadelphia.

Timers—J. F. Abeel, Nassau B. C., New York; Robert G. Jackson, Palisade B. C., Yonkers; J. A. Miller, Jr., New York Athletic Club; R. W. Beech, Arundel B. C., Baltimore; Thomas H. Camaron, Malta B. C., Philadelphia; Fred R. Fortmayer, Passaic B. C., Passaic, N. J.; Judge Tighe, Sheepshead Bay B. C., Brooklyn; John O'Brien, Mtropolitan B. C., New York.

Judges—Charles Preisendanz, Fairmount R. C., Philadelphia; C. S. McCormick, Varuna B. C., Brooklyn; Thomas Cleary, Wahneta B. C., Flushing, L. I.; Harold Scrymser, Staten Island B. C.; Nick Kunz, Hudson B. C., New York; C. S. Chapin, Waverly B. C., New York; George Pierce, Nonpareil R. C., New York; Fred Budrie, First Bohemian B. C., New York; C. P. Muller, Jr., Manhattan B. C., New York; J. W. Maher, Harlem R. C.; John W. Rumpf, Atalanta B. C., New York.

BOWERMAN MAY RETURN.

Boston Club's Manager Said to be Dickering to Rejoin Giants.

Ball circles buzzed last night with a rumor that big Frank Bowerman, who long shared with Roger Bresnahan the honor of backstopping for the Giants, was to return to the New York Club. It was reported that Bowerman, as manager of the Boston Nationals, was dickering with Manager McGraw of the Giants to exchange himself for two members of the metropolitan organization. Who the two Ginats in the trade were to be was the question. Some of the rumor-mongers had it they were Snodgrass and Seymour, pointing out that McGraw might be willing to spare Si because he couldn't run and the Hub might accept him because he could hit. Others coupled Snodgrass with De Vore, though the majority insisted Boston wouldn't take them for Big Frank. Schaefer and McCormick also were mentioned as possible trading material for Bowerman, and certain jokers went so far as to suggest Merkle as worth half as much as the tall big mitter.

The report ran that Bowerman had left his team in Bill Dahlen's hands at home and had run over to New York to see McGraw. The Orphans are due in Philadelphia to-day, so Manager Bowerman had little time to put through the novel transaction of trading himself. Bowerman could not be found in any of his Manhattan haunts last evening, nor was McGraw in evidence. Inquiry among their friends failed to develop details of the rumored deal.

Girls and Boys in Athletics.

Eastern District High School held its second annual field day yesterday afternoon at Curtis Field, Staten Island, with a long programme of athletic events. While the boys of the school were more in evidence than the girls, the latter took part in a number of events. The Faculty competed in tennis matches and a baseball game with the schoolboys.

The meet was won by Class 4B, with a total of 34 points, with Classes 2A and 3B tied for second honors, with scores of 15 each. P. McCaffery was the hero of the occasion, as it was due primarily to his work that the victory went to the 4B athletes. He captured first place in four of the events and was second in another.

Woman Contestant in Motor Boat Race

More than twenty boats are entered for the long-distance race up the Hudson and return which will start Saturday morning at 7 o'clock from the New York Motor Boat Clubhouse, 147th Street and the Hudson River. Among the contestants will be Miss Parker, who will steer her cruising boat, Fiat. Other entries are Elmo II., owned by F. Giles, a new boat built for this year's Marblehead race; Martha, owned by Paul Kossek, winner of the recent Block Island race, and Kittrois, of last year's Marblehead contest. Nearly twenty cabin boats will be in the race, one auxiliary sloop, and about half a dozen open boats. The total distance will be 270 miles, the run being to Albany and back.

Pulliam Again at the Helm.

Harry Pulliam, President of the National League, took up the reins of office again yesterday after an illness extending over two months. President Pulliam has been suffering from a nervous breakdown, the result of the severe strain of his duties as President of the major league. He held an impromptu reception during the day and was visited by many of his old friends, who congratulated him on his restoration to health.

Cantillon May Manage White Sox.

CHICAGO, June 28.—Baseball followers are discussing a report that President Comiskey of the Chicago American League team has found a successor to Fielder Jones in Joe Cantillon, Manager of the Washington American League team, who will replace Billy Sullivan as manager at the close of the session. It is said that "Jiggs" Donohue, the former Chicago player, will manage the Washingtons if Cantillon leaves.

HUNDRED MAY SPLIT ON SUBWAY ISSUE

Labor Men and Others Disagree with the Views Expressed by Chairman Outerbridge.

HE FAVORS PRIVATE CAPITAL

Executive Committee Meets and Elects Officers—May Put an Independent Ticket in the Field.

The Executive Committee of the Committee of One Hundred held its first meeting yesterday afternoon at 82 Beaver Street and organized by electing Raymond V. Ingersoll, a Brooklyn lawyer, Chairman, and William H. Willis, Secretary pro tem. A permanent Secretary will be elected later. At the meeting yesterday a majority of the twenty-one members of which the Executive Committee is composed was present. The three subcommittees so far provided for are a Committee on Press and Publicity, a Committee on Investigation and Research, and a Finance Committee.

Hamilton Holt, editor of The Independent, who is regarded as a theoretical Socialist, was appointed Chairman of the Press Committee. Winfred T. Denison, special deputy to the Attorney General in the prosecution of the Sugar Trust cases, was appointed Chairman of the Committee on Investigation and Research. Percival Kuehne, a Wall Street banker, who is Treasurer of the Committee of One Hundred, was chosen Chairman of the Finance Committee.

Eugene H. Outerbridge, the recently elected Chairman of the Committee of One Hundred, attended the meeting. There is a difference of opinion among the members of the committee in reference to the transit question, which will be one of the dominant issues in the coming municipal campaign. Chairman Outerbridge, who is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and was Chairman of its Committee on Rapid Transit, is in favor of the construction of new subways under the provisions of the Travis-Robinson bill which permits private capital to enter the field. Among the labor men and radicals who are numerously represented on the Committee of One Hundred and on its Executive Committee, there is a feeling that subways should not only be built, but should be operated by the city. They are practically for municipal ownership in the form advocated by William R. Hearst in the 1905 campaign.

The subject was not brought up at the meeting of the Executive Committee yesterday, but it is predicted by members of the committee that there may be an explosion the moment it comes up.

Chairman Ingersoll of the Executive Committee said after the meeting yesterday that if the impression had gone out that the Committee of One Hundred would under no circumstances put a ticket of its own in the field, it should be corrected.

"We are by no means committed to any such policy," said Mr. Ingersoll. "Of course, we realize that there is more hope for success in a two-sided than in a three-cornered fight, and would rather have a two-sided than a three-cornered fight, but this will not be unless some ticket put in the field will appeal to the element in the community which this committee represents."

Mr. Ingersoll was asked what the committee proposed to do with a view to getting a charter for New York City which will enable the next Mayor to do efficient work.

"The declaration of principles issued by the Committee of One Hundred," said Mr. Ingersoll, "makes it plain that the committee will stand for a charter giving the Mayor ample power and at the same time centralizing responsibility for the City Government in him—a charter that will give the city the greatest possible amount of home rule."

WALKER REINSTATED

As Commissioner of Public Buildings, with Back Salary of $11,042.

Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum, in a decision handed down yesterday, directs the reinstatement of William H. Walker, Commissioner of Public Buildings in Manhattan, who was removed from office by Borough President Ahearn during the investigation of his department.

Justice Greenbaum assessed his damage by loss of salary at $11,042.

BUSINESS TROUBLES

JACOB KORN.—Jacob Korn, tailor, 172 Delancey Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $1,065, and no assets.

THE PARISIAN IMPORTING COMPANY.—Judge Hand has appointed Merrill E. Gates, Jr., receiver in bankruptcy for the Parisian Importing Company, fancy feathers, 10 Waverley Place, with bond of $500. Assets are estimated at $2,000, in stock, fixtures, and accounts.

HARRY ISAACS.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Harry Isaacs, waist manufacturer, 23 East Twenty-first Street, show liabilities of $10,427 and assets of $6,350, consisting of stock and fixtures, $6,000, and accounts, $350. Among the creditors are the Metropolitan Bank, $1,000, secured; Elmer A. Darling, $1,000; Unser Brothers, $888, and Arnold, Bombart & Doughty, $790.

GUARANTEE DENTAL COMPANY.—Schedules in bankruptcy of the Guarantee Dental Company of 167 West Twenty-third Street show liabilities of $6,115 and assets of $1,356, consisting of stock and fixtures, $1,200; cash, $96; credit, $53, and gas deposit, $7. Among the creditors are Clement H. Smith, $1,141; N. B. Burr, $1,059; Joseph Simon, $1,068; H. B. Clark, $1,000.

LOUIS JAWITZ.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Louis Jawitz, manufacturer of furs at 32 Bond Street, by these creditors: Morris Walzer, $440; Samuel Weichselblatt, $62, and Henry M. Frank, $112. It was alleged that he was insolvent, made preferential payments of $3,000, and transferred merchandise and accounts of $3,000. He has been in business ten years, and on Jan. 1 last claimed a capital of $17,000. He was reputed to own some property at Wendover Avenue, Bronx, valued at $27,000 and mortgaged for $21,500. Judge Hand appointed Francis W. Bird receiver. The stock is estimated at $3,000.

FANNIE S. ROXLAU.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Fannie S. Roxlau, dressmaker, 14 West Forty-seventh Street, by these creditors: Searles-Babbitt Company, $184, and Hoshafian Company, $325. It was alleged that she was insolvent, made preferential payments of $1,000, called a meeting of creditors, and offered to turn over all the stock and accounts to a committee of creditors to liquidate her indebtedness, and admitted in writing inability to pay her debts. She had been employed in this line for fifteen years, and when her employer retired she took up the business in March, 1904. It was stated in the petition that her liabilities were $35,000.

ABRAMS & RUBIN.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Isaac Abrams and Joseph L. Rubin, who composed the firm of Abrams & Rubin, trading as the Atlantic Suit Company, manufacturers of suits and costumes at 64 East Eleventh Street, by these creditors: Henry W. Siegel, $606; Edward Scherer, $40, and David Gutoonik, $75. It was alleged that they were insolvent, made preferential payments of $2,000, and transferred merchandise and accounts of $2,000. Judge Hand appointed William Henkel, Jr., receiver. It was stated that the assets consist of stock, $2,500, and accounts, $2,000, and that they have transferred most of their accounts to relatives. Henry Lesser, attorney for the firm, said that the firm is solvent, and that he would take proceedings to-day to have the receivership vacated. He says the liabilities are $25,000 and nominal assets, $40,000.

Discharges from Bankruptcy.

Judge Hand, in the United States District Court, yesterday granted discharges in these bankruptcy cases:

MAX SCHLESINGER, carpenter and builder, 444 West Forty-first Street; liabilities, $47,290.

READING LEADS MOVEMENT

Shipment of $2,000,000 in Gold to Holland, but Market Not Affected by News.

All the business done in the five hours of trading on the Stock Exchange yesterday amounted to scarcely as much as the transactions in the opening hours of several of last week's sessions. There was a little activity at the opening, and at one or two other periods during the day, but on each occasion the market quickly relapsed into dullness, and the total sales for the day fell short of 330,000 shares. In a market as dull as was yesterday's price movements were necessarily of relatively small importance. Reading was the most active stock and the one which showed the largest net change, ending with a net gain of 2¼ points, and it was from the movement in this stock seemingly that traders in other issues took their guidance. The market was very largely a matter of floor traders' operations, and the lead which Reading supplied upon renewed use of the rumor of some form of special distribution by this road was enough to decide the general character of the day's movements. The improvement in most other parts of the list, however, was confined to small fractions, interspersed here and there with equally unimportant declines.

The only development of the day of consequence bearing upon the financial position was the export of $2,000,000 in gold coin to Holland, to which country we had already made one or two shipments this year. The shipment of gold abroad, coincidently with a further easing in time money rates here, as was the case yesterday, contained nothing to be interpreted unfavorably in a stock market such as yesterday's, and as a matter of fact no attention was given by the market to this further movement of gold to Europe. The only point of special interest connected with this gold shipment is that it was sent to Holland rather than to some other point on the Continent, because the exchange position between this country and Holland just at present is affected by the sale here recently of a considerable amount of American stocks by Dutch holders. This selling appears to be profit taking on the part of Dutch holders who have seen large advances in quotations of some of their investments in American stocks. The maximum call money rate yesterday was 2 per cent., and the time money market, where borrowing was limited, showed a slightly easier tone.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Coal Holding Company Story.

Although atmospheric conditions in Wall Street yesterday were again such as to militate against any greater physical activity than was absolutely necessary, that did not interfere with the practice of mental gymnastics. A very ambitious scheme was evolved by the traders to the effect that a big holding company was in process of formation to embrace all the anthracite coal properties. There was renewed talk of the announcement of some plan by the Reading Company, but the other scheme mentioned, by which stockholders of all the hard coal roads presumably were to profit, rather overshadowed the old reports concerning plans involving individual companies only. Reading was the most active stock in the list, advancing more than 2 points, while Jersey Central was up 3, Lackawanna 5, and Delaware & Hudson 2¼. To be sure, it was suggested in some quarters that a holding company of the character mentioned would run plumb against the Sherman anti-trust law, but the story did well enough for a hot weather yarn, even though it might not appear to have anything substantial behind it.

Fall in Third Avenue.

On the Curb the new Third Avenue stock, "when issued," fell to 35, a loss of 2½ points for the day, and of 4½ per cent. since it was first quoted last week, when it sold at 39½. On the Stock Exchange Third Avenue shares were again weak, declining to 2⅛, but recovering a point before the close. There was a disparity of about 2 points between the prices of the two issues, and some people were wondering why a fine opportunity for making good profits through arbitraging should not be embraced. On paper the figures looked alluring, but the man who bought or sold the new Third Avenue stock against the old would have no assurance of being protected. The new shares are dealt in "when, if, and as issued," and there is yet no absolute guarantee that they ever will be issued. Should the Public Service Commission, for instance, reject the plan as submitted, contracts made on the Curb for the new shares would be void. Consequently few cared to run the risk of arbitraging between the two stocks.

Discounting Congressional Action?

An impression prevails in some quarters that a bull demonstration will be in order prior to the adjournment of Congress in the nature of a discounting of the passage of the new Tariff bill. The general run of traders have been more concerned for some weeks with getting a bill enacted than with its provisions. They seem to have taken for granted that the alterations in the tariff schedules which would be made would not be a seriously adverse factor on corporate earnings. The argument frequently heard is that no sooner will the Tariff bill have been passed than all branches of industry will straightaway assume their former state of activity. Exacting critics may find fault with this method of reasoning, but it undoubtedly represents the view held by many brokerage interests. Now that the Congressional session appears to be within at least a few weeks of its conclusion such interests contend that there should be plenty of room for a bull movement of some proportions in anticipation of that event. Of course, there are others equally positive that the rise in prices has already taken the tariff question into account.

Prominence of Specialties.

"This is essentially a market of specialties," remarked one broker. "There does not seem to be enough steam behind the market to lift prices all along the line, but a few individual stocks are monopolizing attention. That is often the case while external affairs are shaping themselves so as to have a more pronounced influence in one direction or the other. At such times the market, while to the superficial observer appearing active and strong, when analyzed reveals that the strength and activity have been confined to a few stocks. The easy money conditions are favorable to pool operations, while some special developments in individual securities may justify pronounced gains. The very fact that the general market is insensible to such special causes indicates, to my mind, that it is not yet ready to go much higher." Others contend that from a market of specialties it will broaden to include the whole list.

Crop Influences.

There was what the Street calls "good buying" in several of the Granger stocks, such as Atchison, St. Paul, Great Northern, and Northern Pacific, though except in the cases of St. Paul and Northern Pacific, which advanced about a point each, the gains in that section were not striking. The reason for the absorption was the rather prosaic one of a good crop outlook. Undoubtedly some of the best buying which the market has seen has been of a very quiet nature and based almost entirely on crop conditions. Deals, melon cutting, and other such suggestions are likely to bring about more spectacular rises in stocks, but it is a question if the net results of purchases made on theories of this nature go as far toward making for the stability of prices as the quiet purchases for the account of those accustomed to put more faith in the crop outlook as a permanent market influence, than in all the deals that were ever concocted. The buyer on deal rumors, in nine cases out of ten, is even a more anxious seller when he discovers that the particular event scheduled may not happen.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Irregular Trading in Sluggish Market, with Some Stocks Fractionally Higher.

GULF & WEST INDIES GOES UP

Both Preferred and Common Stocks of Reorganized Morse Promotions Make New High Records.

Curb trading was irregular and sluggish yesterday, and at the close a number of the more active issues showed fractional advances. There were a few scattered declines. Among the coppers to make small gains were Cumberland-Ely, Davis-Daly, First National, and Miami. Nevada Consolidated and United Copper closed even with the opening, as did British Columbia and Ray Consolidated. Among the industrials gains were made in Atlantic, Gulf, and West Indies, both common and preferred shares, the former rising to 10½ and the latter to 25. Both of these levels are new high records for the year. Chicago Subway, at 22, the opening price, was at the lowest since Jan. 1. The close was at 23¼.

THE COTTON MARKET.

High Records on Trade Expectations—Closes 15 to 21 Points Up.

Cotton continued strong yesterday, with trading at times more active and excited than at any time on the upward movement, while all months made new high records for the season. Bullish crop accounts and continued confidence in record breaking requirements were the factors. The close was firm at a net advance of 15 to 21 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 1 point on July, and generally 6 to 10 points higher. At first July was held back by circulation of notices estimated at about 76,000 to 90,000 bales. It was estimated that during the morning fully 200,000 bales of long cotton were sold for profits. Contract prices were as follows:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Sat. Close.
June	..	..	11.60@11.65	11.40

May	11.66	11.53	11.65@11.66	11.50

Spot cotton was quiet and 20 points higher, at 12.00 for middling upland and 12.25 for middling Gulf. Sales nil.

Southern spot markets were telegraphed as follows: Galveston firm, ¼c higher, at 11¼c; sales, 911 bales. Mobile nominal, unchanged, at 11 5-16c; sales, 500 bales. Savannah steady, unchanged, at 11¼c; sales, 100 bales. Norfolk firm, ⅛c higher, at 11⅜c; sales, 84 bales. Augusta steady, 1-16c higher, at 11⅜c; sales, 167 bales. St. Louis firm, unchanged, at 11¾c; sales, 34 bales. Houston steady, ⅛c higher, at 11¼c; sales, 173 bales. New Orleans firm, ⅛c higher, at 11½c; sales, 300 bales. Memphis firm, ⅛c higher, at 11⅜c; sales, 800 bales.

Watertown, N. Y., Light & Power Co.

First Mortgage 5% 50-Year Gold Bonds

Dated January 1, 1909. Due January 1, 1959. Interest payable January and July 1st. In coupon form, $500 and $1,000 each. Principal may be registered. Redeemable at 105 and accrued interest. Sinking fund provision.

Authorized Issue, $2,000,000. Outstanding, $1,157,500.

Exempt from taxation in New York State.

We have sold a large proportion of these bonds, and offer the balance, subject to sale, at 99 and interest, yielding over 5%.

The balance of the authorized amount is limited as to issue to 75 per cent. of the cost of permanent extensions and improvements; and only when the net earnings for the preceding year amount to 150% of the interest on bonds outstanding and to be issued, except with the consent of 75% of all bondholders.

The Public Service Commission, Second District, State of New York, has approved the issue of these $1,157,500 First Mortgage 50-Year 5% Bonds and $455,000 Stock.

These bonds are a first mortgage upon the entire property of the Watertown Light & Power Co., as now owned or hereafter acquired. Based upon a recent and exceedingly conservative inventory, the valuation of the property, irrespective of franchises, is placed at $1,754,000, and the physical property, including the water rights, is well in excess of the bond issue.

The Company furnishes the City of Watertown with its entire supply of gas and electric light, and does all of the municipal lighting. It also does the entire commercial power business, which constitutes a large part of its income, and promises to be upon a constantly increasing scale. The Company operates under perpetual franchises.

Net earnings for 1908 equal to nearly two and one-half times the annual interest charge on the $1,157,500 first mortgage 5% bonds.

The properties of the Company have been recently examined and reported upon favorably by Messrs. J. G. White & Co. and Messrs. Stone & Webster, two of the foremost firms of engineers in the country.

The franchises of the Company and the mortgage have been passed upon by Messrs. Masten & Nichols of New York City.

Sinking Fund Mortgage 6s

Dated October 1, 1908 — Due October 1, 1958

Interest payable January 1 and July 1. Sinking fund insures retirement of issue at maturity, unless previously redeemed at 110 and interest. Coupon Bonds, denomination $1,000. Bankers Trust Company, New York, Trustee.

Authorized and Outstanding (Closed Mortgage) $1,000,000

Capitalization

Common Stock	$6,960,800
Preferred Stock	209,800
*First Mortgage 5s, due 1917 (Closed Mortgage)	691,000
Sinking Fund Mortgage 6s (Closed Mortgage)	$1,000,000

*The authorized issue of First Mortgage 5s is $1,000,000 of which $309,000 have been retired by the Sinking Fund.

The following points are taken from a letter of N. L. C. Kachelmacher, Esq., President of the Company, complete copies of which will be furnished upon request.

1. The above bonds are the direct obligation of the Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron Company, which has been in successful and continuous operation since 1883.

2. The common stock of the Company has been listed on the New York Stock Exchange since 1883. At current quotations this stock has a market value of more than $4,300,000, making an equity of more than two and one-half times the entire bonded debt of the Company.

3. The bonds are secured through the deposit of securities, by a first lien on 2,984 acres of coal and clay lands, including one of the largest brick manufacturing plants in the country, having a capacity of over 40,000,000 bricks a year. The bonds are further secured, subject to only $691,000 First Mortgage 5s which mature in 1917, by a first lien on the entire property of the Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron Company, including 12,000 acres of coal and clay lands, and operating mines producing 4,000 tons of coal a day.

4. The net earnings of the coal properties alone for the three years ended March 31, 1909, a period including a panic and widespread business depression, amounted to more than $30,000 a year in excess of all fixed charges, including interest on the 6% bonds, issued for the construction of the brick plant, which has only recently commenced to yield returns. The brick plant is rapidly increasing its output, and the Company can earn, from the manufacture of bricks alone, more than three times the entire fixed charges.

5. Considering the value of the property purely as real estate, the established earning power of the coal mines, the enormous coal and clay deposits, and the certainty of a large increase in earnings as a result of the new brick industry, the bonds rank as an investment of unquestioned safety, and yield an unusually attractive return upon the investment.

Having placed a portion of the above issue with investors we now offer for public subscription $300,000

at 102½ and interest, to yield about 5.85%

The balance of the issue will be subject to advance in price.

Investors so desiring may purchase the above bonds through their usual brokers at the same price. Applications will be filled in the order of their receipt.

We recommend these bonds for investment

PLATT AND SONS WIN U. S. EXPRESS SUIT

Justice Guy Refuses to Name a Receiver or to Permit an Inspection of the Books.

SOME ABUSES DISCOVERED

Among Them the Election of Officials of Rival Concerns as Directors—Stockholders to Continue Fight.

A double victory came to ex-United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, his son, and the other officials of the United States Express Company yesterday, when Supreme Court Justice Guy handed down two decisions in the litigation forced on the company by John L. Dudley, suing as a minority stockholder in the company. In the first decision Justice Guy denied the application for the appointment of a temporary receiver for the concern, and backed this up by refusing Dudley's application for permission to inspect the books and records of the company.

Dudley charged that the company had violated its charter; that the situation in the management of the company was unconscionable and intolerable; that there were irreconcilable differences between the shareholders and the management; that the company had been fraudulently mismanaged, and its assets wasted by the Directors and officers in the last eight years.

In his decision, Justice Guy said that if, as alleged, the Federal laws had been violated, Dudley's remedy, if he had one, was in the Federal courts. Regarding the alleged State violations, the court said that while they might in certain cases furnish grounds for criminal proceedings, he did not see how they constituted sufficient ground for the appointment of a temporary receiver.

Justice Guy went on to say that he had been unable to discover in the moving papers and affidavits submitted "any credible evidence of fraudulent mismanagement or of any waste of the company's assets." On the assertion of Dudley that the charter had been violated under the section which provides that no Director shall be concerned, interested in business or thing detrimental to the interests of the company, by the appointment as Directors of James C. Fargo, President of the American Express Company; Levi C. Weir, President of the Adams Express Company, and Francis Lynde Stetson, counsel for J. P. Morgan & Co., a member of which firm was at that time Vice President of the Adams Express Company, the court says:

Weir and Fargo Election Attacked.

THHere can be no question but that the election of said Directors, Weir and Fargo, who were interested in rival concerns, was a flagrant and defiant violation of the articles of association, and such violation might have furnished a sufficient basis for a proceeding to declare the election of said Directors void. But it appears from the moving papers that though election of said Directors occurred in 1901, the stockholders of the company, including the plaintiff from the time he became a stockholder acquiesced therein for a period of about eight years, and in no way expressed their disapproval of such sanction on the part of the Directors until the beginning of the present action.

The court then takes up the only remaining ground, "that the situation in the management of the company is unconscionable and intolerable." He points out that although the present officers of the company, many of whom are relatives of the President, "have for many years succeeded in continuing in office at salaries which are apparently generous but not exorbitant, there is no evidence which would warrant the conclusion that either the President or the other officers of the company have failed to perform their duty in the proper management of the company, or that the company has suffered by reason of their continuance in office."

Committee to Go On with Fight.

Despite the court's decision the Hatt and Banister Committee of the shareholders, which has been increased to five members by the addition of C. Crosby Thompson of George R. Read & Co.; Huntington B. Crouse of Syracuse, and Franklin L. Gunther of C. G. Gunther's Sons, has sent circulars to the shareholders asking for the deposit of shares under a trust agreement with the object of obtaining a change in the management or the dissolution of the company.

WORKING ON BERSIN MURDER.

Sigel Case Has Not Stopped Police Efforts to Solve the Crime.

While the public attention has been diverted to the Sigel murder mystery and to other crimes the police have still been working on the Bersin murder case. They believe now that they have a clue which may lead to the arrest of the murderer of the painter whose dismembered body was left by a man in charge of the Italian boy Totaro at Henry and Oliver Streets. Fourth Deputy Police Commissioner Wood admitted yesterday that the detectives had received some information on the case which they were following up, but declined to make it public, as it might hinder the men in their work.

"Now that the newspapers have left the Bersin case alone in their eager pursuit of the Sigel case, the detectives have a fine opportunity to do their work," he said.

The difficulty the police have had to encounter in the case has been to trace the friends of Samuel Bersin. They found his brother, his violin teacher, and his roommate, but could not discover who his friends were on the lower east side outside of Max Goldberg of 141 Attorney Street, who had known him since his childhood in Riga, Russia.

Although Bersin belonged to the painters' union, the police discovered that he worked for $12 per week, which is $6 below the union rate of pay, $18, and it is understood that he had some other source of income, unknown to the members of his family and uptown friends, by which he got the money to buy his jewelry.

William Baulkin, the painter who last employed Bersin, is confident that the man had an appointment at some paint shop on the lower east side the day he disappeared and that he was killed there for the jewelry known to be in his possession.

In spite of the heavy drain made on the Detective Bureau last week by the Sigel case, there were fifteen Jewish detectives at work on the Bersin case, most of them visiting the houses on the east side near the water front at Catharine Street Ferry.

Bersin could speak very little English and was supicious of all men except those who came from his own native city, and the police feel confident that he was murdered by one of his own countrymen.

MURPHY MAY NOT BE ELIGIBLE

Assemblyman May Not Get a Place on the Board of Elections.

The question of the eligibility of Assemblyman Charles F. Murphy of Brooklyn to appointment to the Board of Elections to succeed the late Rudolph C. Fuller, was submitted to the Corporation Counsel yesterday by Mayor McClellan.

Mr. Murphy has the indorsement of the Kings County Republican organization, but the point has been raised that there may be a constitutional restriction against his appointment in the provision which says that no member of either house of the Legislature can be appointed to any State or municipal office by the Governor during the term for which he was elected. Mr. Murphy's friends contend, however, that while the Board of Elections is a State body, it is appointed solely by the Mayor.

The Assemblyman had a long talk with the Mayor yesterday after which the latter said that he had requested Mr. Murphy and the organization to prepare a brief for submission to Mr. Pendleton.

ROBBED B. R. T. OF FARES.

Conductor Whose Thefts Averaged $6 a Day Gets a Prison Term.

All who were in the County Court in Brooklyn yesterday felt that the reason the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company was enabled to declare recently the first dividend on its common stock was that one Frederick Lehefeld had been in jail and not working any more for the company as a conductor. Lehefeld was up before Judge Dike for sentence for defrauding the company. An account book alleged to have been kept by the prisoner caused a sensation in court. It contained memoranda of "dividends" which Lehefeld appeared to have declared to himself while employed by the railroad company as a conductor.

There were two columns of figures in the books. One showed the number of fares collected each day by Lehefeld and the other the "profits" on the same, which he had set aside for himself. One page contained the following entries:

Jan. 30—Fares, 233; profits, $2.80. Jan. 31—Fares, 265; profits, $3. Feb. 1—Fares, 165; profits, $2. Feb. 2—Fares, 226; profits, $5.25. Feb. 6—Fares, 235; profits, $4. Feb. 7—Fares, 235; profits, $4. Feb. 9—Fares, 221; profits, $6. Feb. 10—Fares, 228; profits, profits, $10.35. Feb. 11—Fares, 237; profits, $11.65. Feb. 12—Fares, 237; profits, $10.45.

These figures showed that the "personal dividends" declared by the conductor averaged more than $6 a day. Lehefeld was charged with forging the names of officials of street-car companies to letters indorsing him for appointment as a conductor. He is said to have obtained work with a number of companies by means of these letters. Judge Dike sentenced him to Sing Sing Prison for not more than five years nor less than two and one-half years.

ADMITS MRS. COLLINS'S WILL.

Grandchildren Said Daughter Used Undue Influence to Get $100,000.

The contest over the will of Mrs. Marie J. E. Collins of 2,242 Valentine Avenue, the Bronx, involving an estate of about $125,000, brought by her three grandchildren, ended yesterday, Surrogate Cohalan admitting the will to probate.

Mrs. Collins inherited the estate from her husband and gave its management to her son, Charles Henry Collins, a lawyer of 280 Broadway, but later, by litigation, had the conveyances set aside. Her daughter, Mrs. Marie J. Carey, then went to live with her, and shortly before Mrs. Collins's death she conveyed to this daughter property valued at about $100,000, which she affirmed by will, dividing the remainder of the estate among the other three children, Charles H., John H., and George H. Collins. The grandchildren, William F., Nathalie, and Margaret Collins, children of a deceased son of Mrs. Collins, sought to break the will and alleged, through their attorney, that the conveyances made to their aunt by their grandmother was the result of undue influence.

LACKAYE KNOWS ROLAND.

Actor Identifies Convicted Chauffeur as Valet Who Robbed Him.

Wilton Lackaye, the actor, communicated to Judge Swann in General Sessions yesterday that he had identified Frank H. Roland, the chauffeur, who pleaded guilty last week to stealing his employer's automobile and was sentenced to serve not less than two nor more than three years in Sing Sing as a man whom he employed as valet last September.

"After being with me four days," wrote Mr. Lackaye, "Roland disappeared with $210 and jewelry I valued at $600. I sent out a notice to the police in Western cities that I would pay a reward of $100 for his capture. He left papers behind him which convinced me that he had used as aliases the names Francis Gerard and Francois Gerard. He posed as a Frenchman, but I am sure he was only a Louisiana cocoroon."

Mr. Lackaye did not ask that a case be made out against the prisoner.

Father of Five Is Missing.

The disappearance of Frederick Crandall, 41 years old, from his home at 355 East 129th Street on June 14 was reported to the police last night, and a general alarm was sent out for the man, who is a bookkeeper and formerly employed in the offices of the Brunswick Steamship Company. The missing man's wife told the police that her husband said he was going to Philadelphia in search of work when he left home. There are five small children in the family.

Yale Instructor Shepard May Recover.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 28.—It is now believed that William K. Shepard, the instructor in the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale, whose skull was fractured in an automobile accident yesterday near Westerly, R. I., has a chance for recovery. He is now semi-conscious, a state which was maintained practically all of last night, and this morning it was stated at Grace Hospital that his condition was favorable.

EUROPE BUYING OUR BONDS.

Banker H. S. Redmond Declares Foreign Investors Have Been Impressed.

Henry S. Redmond, head of the banking house of Redmond & Co., returned to his office yesterday from a trip to the Continent. While abroad Mr. Redmond took occasion to inform himself regarding the attitude of European investors toward American securities, and found that they are favorably disposed toward purchases of our stocks and bonds, particularly of the latter. Mr. Redmond said:

"The attitude of the European investor toward our securities is very different today from what it was two years ago. They are turning their attention to this country, having been most favorably impressed by the recovery which the United States has shown from the depression which followed the disturbances in 1907. This recovery served to impress them with the fact that the great majority of our railroad and industrial corporations came through the period of depression with relatively little difficulty.

"So far Continental investors have interested themselves principally in our bonds of the older issues, of which they have bought extensively. Much interest is being displayed in Europe in the proposal to list United States Steel common on the Paris Bourse, and it seems likely that before very long a number of American stocks will be listed there. I look for an increase in the demand for our securities from European investors."

$2,000,000 GOLD EXPORTED.

Amsterdam, Which Has Been Selling Our Securities, Takes $1,000,000.

The National City Bank withdrew from the Sub-Treasury yesterday $1,000,000 in gold coin for export to Holland, and a similar amount was taken for the same destination by Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Co., making the total shipment for the day $2,000,000.

Further exports of gold to Europe had been expected, owing to the continued high rates of exchange. The shipment was made to Amsterdam rather than to Paris because of the higher profit to be realized on the transaction in Dutch exchange. An interesting feature connected with these gold shipments to Holland is that the exchange relation between this country and Holland at present is influenced by large sales of American securities for Dutch account.

It is understood that recently holders of considerable amounts of United States Steel and several American railroad issues have disposed of part of their holdings in this market.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT—Selling of July, September, and December by leading bulls at Chicago was the feature of yesterday's market and the chief cause for the sharp break in prices. Selling was undoubtedly based on the fine crop outlook and larger offerings of new wheat. Private advices again referred to Spring wheat conditons as almost ideal, while the weather forecast was for clearing conditions in the Southwest, where harvesting is now in full swing. The only export business noted was five loads of No. 2 hard, late August, the decrease being partly due to an advance of a cent in the Buffalo rate. Liverpool closed ¼ to ½d net higher and Berlin was ¼c higher. The visible supply, including Canada, decreased 2,985,000 bushels, compared with a reduction of 1,596,000 bushels the corresponding week last year. Cash wheat in New York closed No. 2 red, $1.47 nominal, in elevator, and free on board, afloat; No. 2 new, $1.21½, free on board, afloat, and August No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.33, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.35 nominal, free on board, afloat.

CORN—The market started steady yesterday, but eventually broke a cent on better crop prospects. The visible supply increased 173,000 bushels, and there was a better eastern cash demand. Cables closed ⅛ to ⅜d net higher, world's shipments were about the same as last week, and interior receipts amounted to 587,000 bushels, compared with 726,000 bushels a year ago. No. 2 corn in New York was quoted 80½c, elevator, and 79c, free on board, afloat, for old, and 65c for new, Winter shipment.

BALDWIN OFFICERS ELECTED.

Officials Chosen for New $20,000,000 Locomotive Building Corporation in Philadelphia.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—Officials of the new $20,000,000 Baldwin Locomotive Works Corporation have been elected as follows: John H. Converse, President; William L. Austin, Vice President; Alba B. Johnson, Vice President and Treasurer; Samuel M. Vauclain, Superintendent; William De Kraaft, Secretary and Assistant Treasurer.

A statement by the company reads in part as follows:

This business was founded by Matthias Baldwin in 1831. With various changes from time to time in the firm name and in the personnel of the partners, it has continued without interruption until the present time. During this period upward of 34,000 locomotives have been built and supplied to railroads throughout the United States and various foreign countries. Present partners are George Burnham, John H. Converse, William L. Austin, Samuel M. Vauclain, and Alba B. Johnson. These gentlemen will comprise the officers and Board of Directors of the new corporation. The capital of $20,000,000 which the firm has hitherto had invested in the business will be the amount of the capital stock of the new company. No stocks or bonds will be placed on the market.

The property of the company comprises the Baldwin Locomotive Works in Philadelphia, with a large branch at Eddystone, Penn., the two having a combined capacity of 2,650 locomotives per annum. The same company will also own the Standard Steel Works Company, manufacturers of steel tires and rolled steel wheels, steel and iron castings, forgings and springs, located at Burnham, Mifflin County, Penn.

THE COFFEE MARKET.

Coffee responded to the increased new crop receipts yesterday, being unsettled and generally easier, with the close barely steady at a net decline of 5@15 points. Sales were reported of 21,750 bags. The market opened irregular at an advance of 5 points on June, but generally unchanged to 10 points lower. Havre closed at a net decline of ¼@⅜f. and Hamburg was ¼@½ pfennig lower. The only change in Brazil on Saturday was a decline of 100 reis in Rio No. 7. Very cold weather was again reported in all sections of Sao Paulo. Spot coffee was quiet; 7¾c for Rio No. 7.

Total warehouse deliveries in the United States for the week were 57,266 bags, against 57,492 bags last week and 97,288 bags last year. Of the former amount New York had 46,168 bags.

Receipts at Rio and Santos for the week totaled 173,000 bags, compared with 136,000 bags last week, 110,000 bags last year, and 168,000 bags two years ago.

$12,500,000 Morris & Co. Bonds Taken.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 28.—The First Trust and Savings Bank has purchased $12,500,000 Morris & Co. 4½ per cent. bonds. The details have not been arranged, but will be taken up next week. The bonds will probably be offered for subscription, although a large part of them has already been subscribed for by friends of the company and of the bank. It is expected that the bonds will be offered at 94½ and 95.

$425 for Season's First Cotton Bale.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, June 28.—War prices for cotton were paid in Houston to-day, when W. D. Cleveland & Sons bought the first bale of the crop of 1909 at $1.20 a pound, paying $425 for a bale raised at Mercedes, in Hidalgo County. Two minutes after this first bale of the season had been sold the second bale arrived from the same part of the State.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The daily Consular and Trade Reports for to-morrow notes the following trade opportunities. Further information regarding these can be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of the item referred to:

3553—AUTOMATIC MACHINES FOR SCRAPING QUILL ENDS.—In a letter received from a business firm in New York City the names of manufacturers of machines that will automatically scrape quill ends, supposedly to be used as tooth picks, are asked for. The machines are to be used in a foreign country. Samples of the unscraped quills have been received and will be loaned by the bureau to firms handling machines.

3554—MOTOR CARS.—A business man in a European country has notified the American Consular officer in that place that he would like to hear from American builders of motor cars who are disposed to offer him an agency for the place in question.

3555—AMERICAN SHOES.—A report bearing on the subject of the sale of American shoes in a European city has been received from the American Consular officer stationed there.

3556—AGENCIES FOR AMERICAN GOODS.—(1) Mr. Alfred Wertheimer, Richter Gasse, 1-A VIII., Vienna, Austria, informs the Philadelphia Commercial Museum that he has established himself in Vienna as an agent for foreign firms, covering Austria-Hungary and the Balkan States. He states that he is in a position to handle any line of American goods, and would like to hear from American manufacturers. Correspondence may be carried on in English. (2) Messrs. Rogowin & Chasanow, Podolskaja, 19, St. Petersburg, Russia, would like to hear from American firms desiring to establish agencies for the sale of their goods in Russia, such as hardware, electrical apparatus, bath accessories, housefurnishings, fancy goods, lighting apparatus, paints, perfumery, dye-stuffs, leather and leather goods, metal goods, &c.

3557—AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.—A letter received from a merchant in the Levant states that he would like to hear from American manufacturers of agricultural implements. He requests that all communications be accompanied by catalogues, prices, and, if possible, the freight rates per ton on these implements.

3558—ICE-MAKING MACHINERY.—An American Consular officer in the Orient furnishes the name of a man there who desires to be put in communication with American manufacturers of the most improved ice-making machinery.

3559—CANNED GOODS, PRESERVES, AND OTHER FOODSTUFFS.—A firm of wholesale merchants in Europe has informed the American Consular officer in that place that it would like to represent American packers of meats, vegetables, fruits, oils, preserves of all kinds, and any other foodstuff.

3560—AMERICAN GOODS.—A firm in Latin-America states that it would like to establish business relations with American exporters of chintzes, domestics, drillings, patent leather, corsets, canvas, shoes, ordinary glassware, kerosene, wire fencing, lard, cornmeal, &c.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Trading in London Dull, with Drooping Tendencies—Berlin Boerse Weak.

LONDON, June 28.—Money was in moderate supply and good demand on the market to-day, and discounts were easy. The Bank of England secured over $5,000,000 in gold available.

Trading on the Stock Exchange was generally dull, with a drooping tendency in most departments. The announcement of three small failures, although unimportant, accentuated the dullness in the afternoon. Consols and gilt-edged securities were overshadowed by the new issues. Argentina rails were easy. Kaffirs closed lower on Paris sales after a steady opening.

American securities opened irregular. Later fair buying caused an improvement, and at midday the market was steady, with prices from ⅛ lower to ⅝ higher than Saturday's New York closing. The dealings were entirely professional and kept the market steady till New York sent a fractionally lower opening. Values then sagged and the market closed dull with a hardening tendency.

Bar silver steady, 24 1-16d per ounce.

Money, 1¼@1½ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 1⅝@1¾ per cent.; for three months' bills, 1⅝@1 11-16 per cent.

PARIS, June 28.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were heavy.

Exchange on London, 25f 19c for checks.

BERLIN, June 28.—Prices on the Boerse to-day were weak on the unchanged political situation.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Upper Seventh Avenue Corner Sold—Claremont Avenue Purchase—Day's Dealings by Brokers and at Auction.

Arnold, Byrne & Baumann have sold for Frank J. Welton to Gustavus L. Lawrence the northeast corner of Seventh Avenue and 141st Street, a six-story apartment house, 40 by 100.

H. M. Weill, in conjunction with Finney & Mathews, has sold for the Morrison estate to Aaron Coleman 63 to 69 West 131st Street, four five-story flats, on plot 100 by 100. The Morrison estate has owned this property since 1880.

Claremont Avenue Apartments Sold.

Slawson & Hobbs have sold for the Nova Realty Company the five-story apartment house 188 Claremont Avenue, 40 by 100.

Slawson & Hobbs have also sold for Joseph J. Mackeown the three-story brownstone dwelling 720 St. Nicholas Avenue, 18.9 by 55 by 100.

Lower Broadway and Pittsburg.

It was reported yesterday that the Pittsburg Life and Trust Company is the real buyer of the property 44 to 50 Broadway, sold at auction several weeks ago and struck down to Herman de Selding on a bid of $1,681,274. No confirmation of the report could be obtained. At the time of the sale Mr. de Selding declined to say whom he represented, and he declined again yesterday. There has been a very general impression in real estate circles that Pittsburg capitalists were in some way connected with the transaction, owing to the fact that T. N. Barnsdall of that city was interested in the property as mortgagee. Mr. Barnsdall's connection with the Standard Oil Company may also account for the frequent mention of that corporation as being connected with the purchase of the lower Broadway parcels.

Resale of Harlem Dwelling.

Folsom Brothers have resold for Frank J. McCoy 11 West 131st Street, a three-story dwelling, on lot 15 by 99.11, to Eugene C. Casey.

Williams, Grodginsky & Haft have bought from the Woodcock estate, 6 West 118th Street, a three-story dwelling, on lot 17.6 by 100.11. The buyers recently acquired at auction No. 8, adjoining.

Garage Leased on 66th Street.

The Gross & Gross Company has leased for the St. Nicholas Rink Company the garage at 57 West Sixty-sixth Street to Henry B. Connolly for a term of years; also, for F. S. Godfrey, the southeast corner of Forty-ninth Street and Seventh Avenue, a two-story building, on lot 50 by 100.

Frank F. Reeve has taken over the managership of the private sales department of the office of Joseph P. Day.

Investor Buys on Third Avenue.

Albert B. Ashforth has sold for Mrs. M. A. Smith to an investor 1,757 Third Avenue, a five-story tenement.

John T. Bauer is the buyer of 1,070 Third Avenue, sold recently.

Builder Sells Bronx Dwelling.

William E. Diller has sold 950 Grant Avenue, a three-story two-family dwelling, on lot 20 by 100.5. This leaves only two houses unsold of a row of twenty-one erected by Mr. Diller.

Louis Forstner has sold the northwest corner of Tremont and Vyse Avenues, frame buildings, on plot 74.3 by 43.2.

Hutchins Estate Lots Resold.

The Frank L. Fisher Company has resold for Oscar Kress the plot he purchased at the recent auction sale of the Hutchins estate property at Riverdale.

Brooklyn Properties in Trade.

Charles A. Wessell has sold for the Ironclad Realty Company thirteen lots at the southeast corner of Thirteenth Avenue and Seventy-seventh Street, Brooklyn, to Leonard N. Vaughan, who gives in part payment the dwelling 990 Dean Street, Brooklyn.

Successful Sale at Cranford, N. J.

John L. Parish of Parish, Fisher & Co. conducted a successful auction sale on Saturday of plots in Balmiere Park, Cranford, N. J. There were nearly 300 people, chiefly from Manhattan and Brooklyn, at the sale. The property was sold in plots containing from two to five city lots, and prices ranged from $600 to $4,200 per plot. There was a large amount of speculative buying. The total amount realized was $51,550.

Tenants for Long Island Houses.

H. Schuyler Cammann has rented the following houses at Merrick, L. I.: For Mrs. H. H. Cammann, Sunniecroft, on Kirkwood Avenue, to William Floyd; also, for J. W. Birch, the dwelling at the corner of Merrick Avenue and Smith Street, to Mr. Floyd for use as a fresh-air home for children, and for Charles F. Crary his dwelling on Kirkwood Avenue to Cornelius Ironmonger for two years.

Lost and Found.

Few columns in a newspaper command more attention than the Lost and Found column. Possibly a friend has experienced a loss and this intensifies the interest. The Lost and Found column of The New York Times is the great registry bureau of lost and found articles for New York, and every one who has found an article of value looks first to see if it is registered in The Times' column. The latter is held open as late as possible each night, so that those who have lost or found something may make known the fact in the next morning's issue of The New York Times. If you should suffer the loss of a prized possession,

BOTH SIDES REST IN BRANDENBURG CASE

Counsel Sums Up for Man Charged with Selling Forged Cleveland Article.

MRS. CLEVELAND RECALLED

Testimony of Ex-President's Widow Cut Short by Objections from the Defense—Case Likely to Reach Jury To-day.

Broughton Brandenburg, who for two weeks has been on trial in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, before Justice Fitzgerald, on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree in having sold an alleged fraudulent political article, asserting that it was written and signed by Grover Cleveland, to THE NEW YORK TIMES, will probably know his fate before night. The session yesterday morning was occupied with hearing the last testimony, and in the afternoon Oswald N. Jacoby, his counsel, summed up on his behalf. This morning it will be the turn of Mr. Nott for the People, and, after the Judge's charge, the case will be handed over to the jury.

The testimony yesterday was presented on the People's side. Thomas R. Ybarra, THE TIMES reporter who took the article and signature in question to Mr. Hastings for verification, stated emphatically that he had taken the original article, with signature attached, and not the copy, to which Mr. Hastings had sworn. Mr. Miller of THE TIMES testified that he had never known of such a copy being in existence, and was absolutely certain that the signature in evidence, now admitted by both sides to be bogus, was that which was affixed to the article when it was first brought to him.

President Finley of the City College showed also that last September the defendant's version of his interviews with Mr. Cleveland differed materially from his more recent stories. Thus, he then said that Mr. Cleveland signed the first and not the second draft of his article, and that he could produce a photographer who saw the ex-President sign it.

Mrs. Cleveland's Testimony Out.

Other minor points were brought out by Mr. Nott in rebuttal which cast doubt on the defense set up by Brandenburg, and his counsel were forced in the main to content themselves with negative victories. Mr. Jacoby prevented from going in on technical grounds a good deal of testimony in rebuttal which Mr. Nott sought to introduce, and notably put so much opposition in the way of Mrs. Cleveland's testimony that her journey from Tamworth to New York specially to take the stand was made of practically no avail.

The defense called two witnesses at the beginning of the session in order to round out their case. The first, George E. Fleming, a lawyer, corroborated those who had testified last week about the existence of the article before Aug. 10, the day on which Miss Bacon copied it. He swore that he had seen it in June, and that it then bore a Cleveland signature. It was in general correspondence with that which appeared in THE TIMES, but he could not say whether it was a ribbon or carbon copy or whether it was identical with the article in evidence.

Randolph E. Lewis was called as the Sunday editor of The Herald to show the precise dates in August last year on which the original of the article was in his office. It has been contended by the defense that the article copied by Miss Bacon could not have been the original, afterward presented to THE TIMES, because on Aug. 10 The Herald held it. Mr. Lewis was questioned by Mr. Jacoby.

Q.—What was the article submitted to you? A.—A typewritten document with a signature attached to it.

Q.—How long was it in your possession? A.—For some time before Aug. 16.

Q.—Was it for two weeks? A.—I don't think for as long as that.

Q.—For ten days? A.—I can't say. My best impression is that it was nearer a week. Between a week and ten days.

Q.—How long after you sent the article back did it appear in THE TIMES? A.—I can't say. It might have been as much as two weeks.

Q.—Did Col. Henry Watterson at that time handle the political propaganda of The Herald? A.—I don't know.

Mr. Nott in his cross-examination induced the witness to say that it might have been as late as Aug. 18 or 19 that he returned the article to Brandenburg and he thought that while ten days was the utmost he had held it, a week was more like the time.

He said positively, however, that it was a ribbon and not a carbon copy which bore the Cleveland signature. Mr. Jacoby tried to shake him in this, as the defendant testified that Mr. Cleveland signed a carbon copy, but he was not successful.

Accused Wanted Witnesses.

Brandenburg was evidently much disturbed by this testimony, and Mr. Jacoby, on his urging, requested permission to call other witnesses who might arrive in court after his case was closed. Mr. Nott would not concede that privilege, and Mr. Jacoby, taking the matter into his own hands, said:

"I take the responsibility. The defendant rests."

Charles R. Miller of THE NEW YORK TIMES was the first witness called by the People in rebuttal. He said that with Mr. Reick he had examined the manuscript and the signature in THE TIMES office.

Q.—When you first saw the article was the signature attached? A.—It was.

Q.—Did you make a careful examination of it? A.—I examined it many times.

Q.—You examined it before it was sent to Mr. Hastings? A.—I did.

The signature in its glass case was then handed to the witness.

Q.—Is this the signature which was attached to the article? A.—It is the same signature.

Q.—It was attached to the article? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you at any time see a copy of the original article in THE TIMES office? A.—I never saw but one.

Mr. Jacoby began his cross-examination by asking Mr. Miller as to Mr. Lincoln's authority to reject or accept articles for the Sunday edition. The witness declared that while Mr. Lincoln had authority, the opinion of Mr. Reick would have very great weight with him, and he would naturally refer important questions to Mr. Reick.

Q.—When did you first hear of the article? A.—About ten days before it was published.

Q.—Are you aware that it was only with Mr. Lincoln nine days? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Were you aware before this trial that Mr. Ybarra had seen Mr. Hastings three times? A.—I knew he had seen him twice.

Q.—Then your instructions related only to his second and third visits? A.—I am aware of nothing of the kind.

Q.—You were consulted before Mr. Ybarra's first visit? A.—Decidedly.

Passing to Mr. Miller's examination of the Cleveland signature, Mr. Jacoby brought out that the witness examined it when it was first brought to him by Mr. Reick, again after the telegram from Mrs. Cleveland casting doubt on the authenticity of the article had been received, and again later, with ever increasing care.

"Did not the signature on the article look more like Mr. Cleveland's signature than this?" asked Mr. Jacoby, referring to the one in evidence.

"No, Sir," replied the witness with emphasis.

"Was it not written in lighter ink?"

"No."

"Do you remember affirmatively that it was as heavy as this one?"

"I do."

"Do you not think this the same signature, because you think there could have been no substitution?"

"That is not the only reason."

A few more questions were asked about the time, days, and hours at which Mr. Miller was at his office last August, which Mr. Jacoby explained were to test his credibility, and he was excused. As he left the stand, counsel moved that his evidence be stricken out, as it was not proper rebuttal, but the motion was denied.

Charles M. Lincoln, Sunday editor of THE TIMES, was recalled and at once contradicted Brandenburg's testimony that Mr. Cleveland had signed a carbon copy, by testifying that the article submitted to him with the signature was a ribbon one.

He denied that he knew the article had been rejected by The Herald, or that he had received from the defendant a paper on which were the half-obliterated words "Copy: Original in possession of The New York Herald."

Brandenburg Contradicted.

The witness gave a totally different version of his conversations with Brandenburg from the testimony of the defendant. He denied that he had ever told him the article was a splendid one, but must be verified, from however high a source it came, and declared he had only told Brandenburg THE TIMES must verify it. He denied that he had told him that the signature had been cut off to preserve it from autograph hunters.

Brandenburg was very uneasy as his veracity was questioned, and kept whispering to his counsel as Mr. Lincoln denied that when the manuscript was returned to him he had thrust it into his pocket unopened. Mr. Lincoln swore positively that Brandenburg had opened the envelope before he left THE TIMES office.

Mr. Jacoby failed to shake Mr. Lincoln in his cross-examination, and could not get an admission from him that he knew at the time of these conversations that a prosecution was in prospect. Mr. Nott showed through the witness that the reason for cutting off the signature was its value in substantiating the article and the danger that it might be lost.

Thomas R. Ybarra, a TIMES reporter, followed, giving his version of the interviews with Mr. Hastings, to which the latter had already testified. He contradicted flatly Mr. Hastings's statement that on the first two occasions he had brought to him an avowed copy of the article without any signature whatever. He was examined by Mr. Nott.

Q.—Was a signature attached to the document you had? A.—It was.

Q.—Did you give back to Mr. Lincoln the paper he gave you? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. Hastings the paper was a copy? A.—I did not.

Q.—When you went to see Mr. Hastings a second time did you take him a copy of the article? A.—I had no article with me.

Q.—On the third occasion, Aug. 29, did Mr. Lincoln give you a typed document and a signature unattached to it? A.—He did.

Q.—Are these exhibits the same as you took the first time? A.—I'm pretty certain they are. Answer stricken out.

"Are you sure that the article you took to Mr. Hastings was a ribbon and not a carbon copy?" asked Mr. Jacoby, in cross-examination.

"I never heard of the existence of any copy of the article at all," said Mr. Ybarra, positively, causing the defendant to talk excitedly to his counsel.

"And you never saw an envelope in which were other papers besides the Cleveland article?" asked Mr. Jacoby.

"I never did."

Miss Frances Blascoer, secretary to Mr. Reick, took the stand to tell of Brandenburg's remarks to her when he returned the manuscript. He said, she declared, that the papers were very precious, and he received from her a receipt made out for the manuscript of the Cleveland article published on Aug. 30.

"He asked me to make a copy of the article," she said, and in spite of Mr. Jacoby's suggestion that what Brandenburg wanted copied was a statement he had made at the request of Mr. Reick, she refused to alter her testimony. The article in evidence was shown to her and she identified Mr. Lincoln's writing upon it.

Denies Article Had Been Wet.

Miss Bacon, the typewriter who made a copy of the article on Aug. 10 from a copy which Brandenburg has sworn had been wetted on Lake Hopatcong, was recalled. Mr. Jacoby prevented Mr. Nott from getting more than two questions admitted in rebuttal.

Q.—Was the paper Brandenburg brought you wetted? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Describe its appearance. A.—My memory is it was clean paper, not wetted.

Richard Watson Gilder was also recalled, but as he could not tell Mr. Nott that he had seen Mr. Hastings examine Mr. Cleveland's signature he was withdrawn. A prolonged wait followed until Mrs. Cleveland could reach the court. In the interval the defense was allowed to call an additional witness, Mrs. Virginia Hudson Mase, a writer.

She testified that in the first week of March, 1908, she had seen on Brandenburg's writing table in Irving Place a number of loose yellow sheets. Mrs. Brandenburg had called her attention to them, and she noticed them because the handwriting on them was peculiar.

Mrs. Cleveland then arrived, escorted by President John H. Finley of the City College. She was dressed as before in deep mourning, and Justice Fitzgerald rose and bowed to her as she stepped to the witness chair.

Mr. Nott hoped to prove by her that she had never been informed of the existence of Brandenburg even while Mr. Cleveland was preparing The Herald article. Mr. Jacoby's objections, however, frustrated his plan. Mr. Nott asked:

Q.—Do you remember Mr. Cleveland writing a letter for The Herald in March, 1908? A.—I remember his telling about it.

Q.—Was he in Princeton on March 4, 5, or 6 last year? A.—He was in New York part of that time.

Q.—When was it completed? A.—Before his last return to Princeton, I think on March 12.

Q.—Were you with him when he was in New York? A.—Except when he was at his office, 1 Madison Avenue.

Q.—Did Mr. Cleveland speak to you about the person who asked him to write The Herald article?

Mr. Jacoby objected, and was sustained, in spite of Mr. Nott's explanation that he hoped to show that Mrs. Cleveland knew all about the ex-President's work, but had never heard of the defendant.

Q.—You saw the signature to the article in the office of THE TIMES. Did Mr. Hastings then say it was not the signature submitted to him at first? A.—He did not.

Mr. Nott could not get in any further questions on Mr. Hastings's opinion on the signature, and Mrs. Cleveland was excused after stating that Mr. Cleveland used to stay at the Buckingham Hotel and was there on March 5 and 12.

President John H. Finley was called, but Mr. Nott was prevented from asking him whether he had ever refused Brandenburg the yellow slips of paper on which, it is asserted, the original notes of the article were written by Mr. Cleveland. Mr. Jacoby maintained that the defendant had never testified that he had been refused and the matter rested there.

Dr. Finley's Talk with Brandenburg.

Mr. Nott turned to a conversation Dr. Finley had with the defendant in the office of The Broadway Magazine in September. The witness said that Brandenburg had told him of the way in which the article was prepared in much the same manner as has before been in evidence. There was, however, this difference. Dr. Finley was informed by Brandenburg that the copy signed by Mr. Cleveland was the first and not the second draft.

Q.—Did he tell you a photographer was present when the article was signed? A.—Yes. I said to him, "There's nothing to support the authenticity of the article but the signature." He replied, "And the photographer." "Was there a photographer present?" I asked him. "Yes," he said, "and he overheard the conversation." "Was it The Herald photographer?" I asked. "No," he said. "Then there were two photographers who made photographs of Mr. Cleveland?" "There were," he said. Then I asked him if the other photographer could be produced, and he said he would produce him.

Mr. Jacoby began his cross-examination.

Q.—Did you know then that Mrs. Cleveland thought the article was not genuine? A.—I certainly did, and told Brandenburg so at the beginning.

Q.—Who was present at the conversation? A.—Mr. Hampton of The Broadway Magazine for part of the time. He heard about the photographers.

Q.—Are you sure Brandenburg said Mr. Cleveland signed the first draft? A.—Yes.

Mr. Jacoby wanted to know if the conversation had not become acrimonious, and Mr. Finley admitted that the defendant had passed some loud, angry remarks, not so much against himself personally as against a certain class of persons.

Broughton Brandenburg was then recalled in sur-rebuttal. He was questioned by Mr. Jacoby.

Q.—Is President Finley's statement about Mr. Cleveland signing the first draft correct? A.—It is absolutely false.

Q.—Did you tell Dr. Finley a photographer was present when Mr. Cleveland signed the article? A.—I did not.

Mr. Nott crossexamined the witness:

Q.—What acrimonious remark did you make to President Finley? A.—I told him to go to hell. He had started to cross-examine me.

Q.—Did or did you not make a remark putting him in a certain class? A.—President Finley told me he was a friend of Mrs. Cleveland's, of which I had absolutely no knowledge. I then apologized.

This closed the evidence and after the usual motions to dismiss had been made by Mr. Jacoby and denied by the court, a recess was taken.

Mrs. Cleveland was sitting in court while this examination was going on. Justice Fitzgerald was evidently annoyed at the outspoken words of the witness, delivered as they were with a good deal of heat. He called to Clerk Penny and directed him to go to Mrs. Cleveland and inform her that she was at liberty to leave the court whenever she pleased. She at once arose and went out.

In summing up for the defendant Mr. Jacoby took up first the evidence which dealt with the doings of Brandenburg outside of the grand larceny charge. He asked the jury to disregard what had been said about his dealings with The Century Magazine, and then referred to his flight from justice last Winter. Of this he said:

The most powerful influences were at work from the moment of publication to attack the authenticity of the article. John G. Carlisle, the ex-Secretary of the Treasury, and President Finley were members of the committee to discredit it. They had to do it quickly because the election was on. The defendant was young and inexperienced in the criminal law, and he left the jurisdiction because his case was not ready and there was no one to stand up for him. It is not a confession of guilt."

In the same way the alleged kidnapping incident at St. Louis was touched upon, and Brandenburg's version of his talk with Detective Sergeant Fitzsimmons in San Francisco was set forth again. With regard to the matrimonial difficulties of Brandenburg, counsel for charity, and declared it would be unmanly to go further into the matter.

Coming at length to the actual accusation in the indictment, Mr. Jacoby laid great stress upon the investigations of THE TIMES into the article. He told the jury that Mr. Lincoln had said positively that THE TIMES had not relied on Brandenburg's statements but its own investigations. Moreover, Mr. Reick had declared that he had relied partly on these investigations. Consequently, declared Mr. Jacoby, the jury should feel their was a reasonable doubt and acquit the defendant.

Calls Article Genuine.

Passing to the genuineness of the article, Mr. Jacoby argued that a verdict for the defendant would mean the vindication of the article. He declared that it was unimportant to consider if the signature was genuine or not. The real question was the article itself Mr. Cleveland's. That it was is proved by the style, which had convinced an editor of THE TIMES.

Mr. Jacoby read several passages from the article and asked:

"Do you thing a young man of 31 could have written a document which only one of the greatest statesmen could have produced?"

Then counsel took up the testimony of Mr. Hampton and Miss Batchelor of The Broadway Magazine to show that the article was in existence before Aug. 10, and quoted Lindsay Denison, Mr. Baker, and Mr. Bigelow of The Saturday Evening Post to show that the notes for it were in existence in March, 1908.

"If The Herald article was finished on March 5," asked Mr. Jacoby, "What were Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Brandenburg talking about before and after the photograph was taken? Not about the weather or Mr. Cleveland's health. They must have been talking of something else. It shows how intimate the defendant was with the ex-President."

He got over the difficulty of the Hughes anti-gambling law being mentioned as though it had been passed months before it was by saying:

"Every one who understood Mr. Hughes's character expected the bill would pass. So Mr. Cleveland left the allusion in, not expecting it to be untrue, but making arrangements for it to be cut out if necessary."

Taking up the discrepancy between Mr. Hastings's statement that a copy was brought him and Mr. Ybarra's evidence that it was the original, Mr. Jacoby said: "Which is likely to be correct, Mr. Hastings, who probably never had another article brought to him for confirmation by a reporter, or the young man who is going around with them all the time for confirmation?"

Mr. Jacoby asked the jury if they intended to set themselves up as better judges of the genuineness of a writing of Mr. Cleveland than Mr. Miller, and then touched on the substitution of a forged for a genuine signature, which is part of the defense's theory.

"We cannot tell," he said, "what took place in THE TIMES office. The signature was unlocked for days in Mr. Lincoln's desk. An autograph hunter or an emissary of the Bryanites may have taken it, and copied the article quickly. We do not say THE TIMES did it. We do not say THE TIMES did not do it. We do not know."

The court then adjourned till 10:30 this morning. Mr. Nott will then sum up for the people and the case will probably go to the jury before noon.

SLAIN MAN'S WIDOW AVENGES HUSBAND

Shoots Down in Street Versaisi, Who, She Believed, Killed Labato.

GLAD WHEN TOLD HE'S DEAD

Signora Labato Wouldn't Help Police Find Slayer, but Bided Her Time—Three Bullets Hit Versaisi.

A Sicilian vendetta, in which Domenico Versaisi, a 19-year-old Italian boy, was shot by Signora Louisa Labato, was unfolded in Lower New York yesterday morning. Signora Labato when arrested said that Versaisi had murdered her husband, and when she learned later in the afternoon that Versaisi was dead she exclaimed:

"I'm glad. If he had lived he would have killed me."

These Italians come from Reggio in Sicily, where private vengeance is the law of the land and where the vendetta is more feared than the police.

Bruno Labato was killed on June 21, 1908, and the police believe his widow knew then who the murderer was and waited a year for her vengeance. They say that all attempts heretofore to discover any clue to the murderer's identity were unavailing.

Whenever questioned the woman refused to speak. Now they know the reason. They say she wished to avenge her husband's death herself. She could have had no hand in an electric chair execution. Besides she wasn't sure that the law would punish the murderer.

The story of Labato's murder is still well remembered by the police. On the night of June 21 shortly after midnight there was a noiseless struggle between two men with knives at the corner of Downing and Bedford Streets. One of the men, Labato, finally broke away and ran half a block before he fell dead on the sidewalk. When found there was a knife stuck through his back. The murderer escaped, though the police have made many attempts to ferret out the assailant.

For a year, the widow, who is only twenty-five years old, waited. She lives at 113 West Houston Street. A few days ago she is said to have received an anonymous letter which read: "Your husband's slayer is the Domenico who used to come to take him out."

This could mean to the widow but one man, Domenico Versaisi, 71 Sullivan Street, who had been a friend of her husband in his lifetime and had even come to his funeral. It is said that Signora Labato investigated and discovered that the letter writer was right. At any rate yesterday morning she stood waiting at the corner of Sullivan and Spring Streets at the hour when Versaisi, who was a tailor, usually went to work. She knew he must pass that way.

At that hour this intersection of streets is always populous with women and children on their way to the factories and clothing houses in the neighborhood. Many of them knew the Signora and spoke to her, but none realized that an avenging figures of Sicilian justice stood waiting to strike a blow.

Finally Versaisi came. As he approached, she says, he recognized her and drew his hand back as if to draw a revolver. She lifted the hand which held her own revolver from beneath her apron and fired. The bullet struck Versaisi in the abdomen. He turned and she fired again, this bullet entering his side. A third shot struck him in the back and again she fired as he fell to the ground.

The crowd yelled and dashed for shelter in doorways as Morris Becker of 196 Spring Street sprang forward and knocked the smoking weapon from the Signora's hand. Then Detective Trabucci of the Central Office Italian Squad arrested her and, the streets filled as if by a signal. It was like the ending of "Cavalleria Rusticana."

Trabucci called an ambulance and Versaisi was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, where he died at 1:05 o'clock. A charge of felonious assault was made against Signora Labato and she was taken to the Macdougal Street Station. There she told her story how Versaisi had murdered her husband. She said she had not known who had killed Labato until last April, just after her baby died. It was the sixth child she had buried, she said.

After Versaisi was dead the Signora was brought before Magistrate House in the Jefferson Market Court. She is petite, dark, and good looking, a Sicilian type. She wore black and her handkerchief was bordered with black. She betrayed no emotion as she mounted the stand before the Magistrate's desk.

As Magistrate House looked at her she returned his searching gaze. Then he said:

"The man is dead."

"Dead!" she repeated, with an accent which suggested that she had achieved her vengeance.

Then she shrugged her shoulders and turned her back as the Magistrate remanded her to the Coroner.

Later she was arraigned before Coroner Acritelli and held without bail to await the inquest.

Miss Bangs's School to Move.

Miss Bangs and Miss Witon, who formerly had their school at 733 Madison Avenue, New York City, have bought the Goodridge property at Riverdale, between the Hudson River and Van Cortlandt Park, which they will use as a school for young women, opening on Oct. 5. The removal of the school from Madison Avenue accords with the desire of many of its patrons to obtain for their children, together with the scholastic advantages of the school, the benefits and pleasures of country life and country sports.

City Court Calendar Cut Down.

When the extension to the City Court Building was completed last October, the calendar was nearly 4,000 cases behind, with new ones being added daily. Yesterday, at the beginning of the Summer vacation, the old calendar was disposed of with the exception of 319 cases, and 1,381 actions were added during the session.

NO NEARER DEXTER'S SLAYER.

Father's Suit to Recover $50,000 Stock Given as Security for Expenses Put Off.

When Orrando Perry Dexter, son of Henry Dexter, 97 years old, of 42 West Fifty-sixth Street, ex-President of the American News Company, was mysteriously shot and killed upon his estate in the Adirondacks on Sept. 19, 1908, the father, it is alleged, deposited with John P. Badger, a lawyer of Malone, N. Y., 500 shares of American News Company stock, valued at $50,000, as collateral security for expenses in obtaining evidence against a man suspected of knowing something about his son's death.

Some time ago Mr. Dexter brought suit against Mr. Badger to recover the stock, asserting that the death of his son is no nearer a solution than it was five years ago, and that the lawyer has been collecting $3,000 a year on the stock. He obtained a temporary injunction restraining Mr. Badger from doing anything with the shares, and the matter came up before Supreme Court Justice Blanhard yesterday on application of Mr. Dexter asking for a permanent injunction and that the lawyer be restrained from collecting the dividends.

By consent of counsel for both sides the court adjourned the matter until July 28, and in the meantime the temporary injunction will stand.

MORSE'S BAIL REDUCED.

Jerome Consents to $5,000 Bond Instead of $15,000 in State Cases.

On the recommendation of District Attorney Jerome Judge O'Sullivan, in General Sessions, consented yesterday to the reduction of $15,000 bail on three indictments, two charging grand larceny and one perjury, now pending against Charles W. Morse, to $5,000. Mr. Morse was allowed to go on his own recognizance on the larceny charges, and the $5,000 was allowed to stand for the perjury charge. In making his motion Mr. Jerome said:

"Charles W. Morse, who is under several indictments in this court, is under $15,000 bail. At the time of his indictment here he was not under indictment in the Federal courts. Since then he has been indicted there, tried, convicted, and sentenced, and he is now at liberty on bail of $125,000, and is pledged not to leave this country. On his indictments in this court bail was furnished by a surety company, to indemnify which Mr. Morse's relatives had to give securities of various kinds.

"The relatives now wish to withdraw these securities, and I have consented to a reduction of the bail to $5,000, given by a responsible person, which will absolve the surety company and allow the securities to go back to those who own them. Mr. Morse's bail in the Federal courts is so large that any bail given here is practically immaterial."

Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Morse, said that Samuel Adams of 129 West Eighty-fifth Street would furnish the bond. Mr. Adams gave stocks and bonds in the Adams-Flanagan Company, a dry goods corporation.

JOBLESS BOYS STORM A STORE

Lock the Proprietor In, Throw Cobblestones Through the Windows.

Samuel Goodman, a jeweler, of 72 Murray Street advertised yesterday morning for an office boy. When he reached his store at 8 o'clock he had to plow his way through a crowd of fifty boys to open the front door.

When he had unlocked the door the crowd pushed in, knocking over several show cases and scattering jewelry around before Goodman could quiet them.

When Goodman picked out 12-year-old Jacob Cosmere of 143 Forsyth Street for the job which paid $5 a week, the disappointed ones filed out in good order, but stopped in front of the store, while four of the larger boys locked the front door.

Then some of them threw a packing case through the show window, followed by a shower of cobble stones, before the police came. When they did get there only one boy was to be found to arrest. He was Julius Sladon, age 15, of 637 Tinton Avenue.

He was arraigned in the Children's Court and Justice Olmsted adjourned the case until Wednesday.
